TAX ON TRUCKS IS REDUCED BY SENATE'S VOTE

Two Per Cent Charge in House Bill Upheld by 39 to 30.

EXPORT DEBENTURE FARM AID DEFEATED

Bingham Proposes Beer for Revenue to Lift Burden From Motor Trade.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The powerful automobile industry, which has been gathering its increasing forces in Washington for some time, gave the Senate finance committee its first licking last night when the Senate voted a 2 per cent, instead of a 3 per cent, tax on trucks.

The 2 per cent tax had been voted by the House. The finance committee had proposed to go back to the automobile tax schedule advocated by the administration and argued for by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. The committee's proposal to increase the truck tax to 3 per cent was beaten 39 to 30.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, a State where many automobiles are made, led the first successful assault on the billion dollar tax bill presented as a budget balancing measure.

Defeat Is Surprise.

It was the first defeat the finance committee has suffered since it reported the tax bill. Apparently the defeat came as a surprise. When Senator Vandenberg, who seemed to represent the automobile industry in its efforts to escape taxation, proposed to eliminate all the taxes on trucks, he was beaten by a vote of 50 to 29.

Advocates of higher income taxes and advocates of the general manufacturers' sales tax have been hoping for a break in the finance committee's great wall about the bill. They were hopeful that once they broke through the wall the breach could be widened and the bill looted of whatever pretension it may have had as a measure which would balance the Federal budget and wipe out the economic ills of the distressed Nation.

Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate, however, were confident that they could prevent widening of the breach in their bill.

Progress Is Made.

In general the tax bill sailed slowly through a subsiding Senate sea. Having done with the tariff fight the Senate sailed along, not, to continue the figure, with a strong wind behind it, but with no doubt the tax bill would not have to weather another such storm.

By a vote of 46 to 33 the Senate defeated the effort of the farm relief advocates to attach to the tax bill the export debenture farm relief scheme. That vote was on the amendment offered by Senator George W. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska. It provided for issuance by the Federal Treasury of debentures to the farmer to the amount of one-half of the tariff on commodities exported.

Senator Lynn W. Frazier (Republican), of North Dakota, proposed an amendment to the Norris amendment. Senator Frazier would have made the debenture equal to the full tariff. His amendment was beaten by a vote of 64 to 16.

Thomas Is Leading In Idaho Primary

First Returns Give Senator and Pope Advantage for Nominations.

Boise, Idaho, May 24 (A.P.).—Scattering precincts from a half dozen of the 44 counties in Idaho gave Senator John Thomas a lead over his opponent in today's primary for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Six precincts incomplete gave Thomas 381; J. Wesley Holden, 263.

Mayor James P. Pope, of Boise, started away to a lead in the race for the Democartic nomination for the United States Senate in the contest with four opponents.

In six precincts of 819 in the State the vote was Pope, 257; G. P. Mix, of Moscow, 78; W. Orr Chapman, of Twin Falls, 126; Dr. Owen T. Stratton, of Salmon City, wet candidate, 36; Harry S. Kessler, of Boise, dry, candidate, 57.

In the Democratic race for the House in the First District, Compton I. White, of Clarks Fork, polled 74 votes; George A. Meffan, of Ox Canyon, 41 and Cecil Peckham, of Wilder, 47.

House to Spend Rest Of Session on Relief

Action on Speaker Garner's $2,100,000,000 Plan Expected Next Week; Farm and Unemployment Aid Provided.

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic House plans to devote the remainder of this session to additional relief proposals and expects to act on the $2,100,000,000 plan of Speaker Garner next week.

Farm aid and unemployment relief are intermingled in the numerous measures being considered by House committees.

Its agriculture committee is preparing to act on a bill embodying the export debenture, equalization fee and the domestic allotment plans to help the farmer.

Another proposal to have the Farm Board allot an additional 40,000,000 bushels of wheat to be distributed by the Red Cross among the destitute was submitted yesterday by Representative Lonergan (Democrat), Connecticut.

The Almon bill to authorize $219,000,000 for highway construction in 1934 and 1935 to carry on the Federal highway aid program and to insure employment was approved yesterday by the House roads committee.

The House already has passed a $132,000,000 Federal highway aid bill, in addition to the $125,000,000 regularly allotted and already appropriated for in the coming fiscal year.

Speaker Garner disclosed yesterday that the relief program he proposed would be incorporated into one bill and referred to the ways and means committee for hearings which probably will be completed in time for House action early next week.

The measure is almost complete. It provides for an increase to $3,000,000,000 in the Reconstruction Corporation's capital; a $1,000,000,000 bond issue for public works construction to provide employment, and $100,000,000 for direct relief to the needy.

Despite President Hoover's objection to the bond issue, Democratic and Republican leaders expect the bill to meet with overwhelming House approval, particularly in view of the provision for a third of 1 cent a gallon tax on gasoline to meet the interest and sinking fund requirements.

The last of the administration's relief programs—the Luce home loan discount bill—has been approved by the House banking committee and is to be formally reported tomorrow. It proposes to set up an organization to handle $125,000,000 in loans to home builders through associations.

The Steagall billion dollar guaranty bank deposit bill, sponsored by the Democratic leadership, is to be taken up today by the House.

SOCIALISTS DECIDE ON WET PLATFORM

U. S. Control of Rum Trade Voted Into Program at Riotous Session.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 24 (A.P.).—The Socialist party will enter the presidential campaign with a wet platform.

The national convention in a riotous session today committed the party to Government ownership of breweries and distilleries and to local option for each State. The wet plank carried by a vote of 81 to 71.

Introduced by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee, Heywood Broun, of New York, and Oscar Ameringer, of Oklahoma City, the platform was phrased as follows:

"The Socialist party favors the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the taking over of the liquor industry under Government ownership and control, with the right of local option for each State to maintain prohibition within its borders."

While the majority sentiment in the convention appeared wet, many delegates doubted the wisdom of mentioning prohibition in the convention's program for what delegates termed the reconstruction of society. The drys had a spirited champion in George Goebel, of Newark, N. J., who picked up his hat and stalked from the meeting.

The session became a scene of wild confusion when the liquor issue was brought forth. The vote was taken with great difficulty in the noisy

$100,000,000 Tenders Invited by Treasury

(United Press.)

The Treasury last night invited tenders for Treasury bills to the amount of $100,000,000 needed to meet obligations maturing on June 1.

The tenders will be 91-day bills and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. Tenders will be received until 2 p. m. Friday.

JAPAN DEFEATS U.S. ON PLANE SHIP RULE

Tokyo Leads Arms Parley in Voting Craft "Offensive" War Equipment.

Geneva, May 24 (U.P.).—Japan won a victory over vigorous American opposition today when the air commission of the disarmament conference adopted a resolution indirectly branding aircraft carriers as "offensive" weapons.

Portugal alone voted with the United States against the resolution. France and Great Britain abstained. The vote was 16 to 2.

The commission had been attempting to designate what types of aircraft are "offensive," and therefore liable to internationalization or abolition, and what types are "defensive."

Japan, which has sought abolition of all aircraft carriers, led the battle against naval air forces. The commission first named a subcommission to draft a compromise. It was unsuccessful. When the commission reconvened the Japanese presented a new resolution directed against all airplanes carried on regular aircraft carriers or on warships equipped with landing decks.

"These airplanes," the resolution said, "possess an increased possibility

4 Injured in Accident On Ship at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 24 (A.P.).—Four men were injured, one critically, when part of the refrigeration plant of the U. S. S. New Mexico, undergoing repairs at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, burst under pressure today.

The injured are Thomas B. Critzer, of Philadelphia, civilian, who suffered internal injuries; Harrison T. Stone, of Williamston, N. C., chief machinist's mate, cuts on face and hand crushed so badly several fingers had to be amputated, and Peter F. Zydzik, of Norfolk, Va., machinist's mate, second class, cuts on face and arms. An investigation was started.

Germans Warn Two Nations To Keep 'Hands Off' Danzig

Reichstag Committee Acts to Let Free City Stay Outside Control of Poland and Lithuania; Action Follows Report of Military Activity.

Berlin, May 24 (U.P.).—The long-smoldering threat of trouble on the Eastern frontier of Germany was brought into the open today when the Reichstag foreign relations committee sharply warned Poland and Lithuania to keep "hands off" the free city of Danzig and the territory of Memel.

The committee, led by Fascist deputies, adopted a resolution asking the government to take suitable precautions to prevent the violation of the rights of Germans living in the areas and to protect German interests.

The government was requested to "leave no doubt in the mind of Poland that the entire German nation would regard an attack on Danzig as an onslaught against Germany's vital right and would respond accordingly."

Another motion adopted by the committee took cognizance of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's assurances that interests of Germans in Memel and Danzig will be protected against all encroachments. The vote was 11 to 10 in the committee.

The action of the committee followed many press reports that Poland has initiated disturbing military activity along the eastern frontier and in the Danzig area. Some reports, which have been denied in both Warsaw and Berlin, were to the effect that Poland planned to seize the important port of Danzig, on the Baltic Sea.

The situation in Memel recently has been acute, although the last election gave the pro-German parties a majority and eased the tension which had been caused by Lithuanian's attempts to tighten its control over the territory of some 2,440 square miles with a population of 146,000.

BRITAIN TO SIGN AGREEMENT TO REPAY AMERICA

To Give Suspended Debt Payments in Ten Installments.

OTHER NATIONS DUE TO FOLLOW EXAMPLE

Formal Acknowledgement of Moratorium's Benefits Will Be Made.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Formal acknowledgment of their twelve months' indebtedness to the United States, postponed as a result of the Hoover moratorium, will be made by Great Britain and the other European debtor nations of the United States, it became known here yesterday. Announcement was made in London that the chancellor of the exchequer had instructed the British Ambassador here, Sir Ronald Lindsay, to affix his signature in the name of the British treasury to the document recently sent out by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. These documents were merely the forms which acknowledged the twelve-month period of grace offered to all the European debtors of the United States by President Hoover last June 30.

Under the terms of the agreement, all the countries which benefitted by the postponement will acknowledge their obligation to repay the postponed annuity over a period of ten years beginning with 1933.

So far, it was learned here yesterday, only Finland and Greece have sent in their acknowledgment. With the example set by Great Britain, it is expected that the other great powers will not delay forwarding their agreements to pay also.

Disparity In Rates.

It is believed here that some cause for the delay may have been the disparity in interest rates, Congress specifying that the interest be placed at 4 per cent, while the European nations believed that the rate would be 3 per cent.

The British Ambassador was absent from the city yesterday and will return today. In his absence it was impossible to learn from the embassy when the British acknowledgment would be forwarded, but a reasonable time limit of a fortnight was suggested by one of the attaches.

The total amount of the British payment is approximately $160,000,000. This is the greatest sum payable in the ten installments as France only owes $40,000,000, Italy, $14,500,000 and the other nations, Finland, Esthonia, Lithuania, Hungary, Roumania, Jugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Latvia, approximately $16,000,000.

The imminence of the Lausanne Conference has brought the entire subject of war debts sharply into the limelight again. At Lausanne the representatives of all European na-

New Planet Found, Heidelberg Claims

Object 4,350,000 Miles Away May Help in Measuring Sun.

Heidelberg, Germany, May 24 (A.P.).—The Heidelberg Observatory tonight announced the discovery of a new planet, which can attain a proximity of 7,000,000 kilometers to the earth. (This is approximately 4,350,000 miles.)

Although investigation at the observatory had not been completed, all accounts of an object discovered by Dr. Karl Reinmuth, said he had spotted what he thought was the new planet after long and painstaking telescopic research. He tagged his discovery "Nineteen Thirty-two H. A."

Cambridge, Mass., May 24 (A.P.).—Astronomers at the Harvard Observatory said tonight that the new planetoid is the first known planetoid to go inside the earth's orbit.

Former Capital Student Joins Colombia Cabinet

Bogota, Colombia, May 24 (A.P.).—Capt. Carlos Uribe Gaviria was appointed minister of war today after Carlos Arango Velez resigned the post because of differences of opinion between him and President Olaya Herrera. The differences between the president and the former minister were not stated, but were believed to concern recent disturbances in the department of Santander.

The new minister, a son of Gen. Uribe, liberal party leader who was assassinated in 1911, is a graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., and studied military tactics in the Chilean army.

HERRIOT PICKED TO FORM PARIS CABINET AGAIN

Radical-Socialist Leader Called to Elysee by President.

PARTY IS DOMINANT SINCE RECENT VOTE

Paris, May 24 (A.P.).—Edouard Herriot, Radical-Socialist leader, was virtually designated by President Albert Lebrun today as first choice to form a new French cabinet.

The president's intention to offer the former premier a chance to be chief of the government again as premier was indicated by calling him into a conference on prime problems in the foreign, domestic and financial fields.

Meets Tardieu and Flandin.

President Lebrun called him today to the Elysee Palace for a half-hour conversation. Then he presented M. Herriot to Andre Tardieu and Pierre Etienne Flandin, the retiring premier and finance minister, for a two-hour review of the foreign and domestic financial situations.

It was understood that the four statesmen did not discuss details for forming the new cabinet, but talked on such subjects as the conference on reparations and war debts at Lausanne next month, the situation in financially troubled central Europe and the forthcoming French budget.

Earlier in the day M. Herriot said he had no information of any plans for a meeting at Luxembourg between some of his friends and a group of French bankers on one side and a party of German political and industrial leaders on the other to attempt an intermediate settlement of the reparations problem on neutral soil.

Berlin Confirms Parley.

Berlin, May 24 (A.P.).—Nationalist spokesmen reiterated today that German political and industrial leaders planned to meet French political and financial experts at Luxembourg in an attempt to devise an intermediate solution of the reparations problem on neutral soil.

They did not repeat that the meeting would be held next week, but suggested somewhat reticently that the conversations would be held concurrently with the special anual meeting of the permanent Franco-German committee known as "the Mayprisch committee."

This committee, which regularly examines economic questions affecting both countries, will meet at Luxembourg June 4 and 5, some ten days ahead of the Lausanne international debts and reparations gathering.

Alleged Kidnaper Identified by Boy

Jimmy Dejute Picks Man at Jail Line-Up as One of Abductors.

Warren, Ohio, May 24 (A.P.).—Tony Lauri, 37, of Youngstown, today was pointed out by little Jimmie Dejute, of Niles, as one of his kidnapers and the State made arrangements to bring him to trial speedily

Lauri tomorrow will be served with a "John Doe" indictment returned some time ago and will be tried, possibly as soon as next week, Prosecutor G. H. Birrell said. Birrell will demand the maximum penalty of life imprisonment, the punishment already meted out to Dowell Hargraves, also of Youngstown.

The Dejute boy, 11-year-old son of a wealthy Niles contractor, took just one glance at a lineup of five men in the county jail, pointed at Lauri and said "that's the man."

Lauri, arrested early yesterday at Weirton, W. Va., also was identified by Mrs. H. L. Woodward, of Niles, who witnessed the abduction of Jimmie as he was on his way to school March 2.

12-Year Coma Ends In Death of Farmer

Goldsboro, N. C., May 24 (A.P.).—An illness that kept E. A. Pate in a condition resembling slumber for 12 years, ended today with the death of the well-to-do 57-year-old farmer at his home near here.

Stricken when he was 45 years old, Pate resisted all efforts to arouse him except to an extent sufficient for him to eat sparingly at meal times. Physicians diagnosed his illness as a form of sleeping sickness. His death was discovered at noon today when a member of the family carried his meal to the sick room.

PRESIDENT AND CHIEFS CONFER ON RUM PLANK AND JUNE CONVENTION

Bonus Veterans Due In Capital Next Week

Glassford Confers With Hurley on Problem of Feeding and Housing Visiting Marchers; Is Expecting "a Few Thousand."

A brigade of World War veterans will converge here next week from the North, the West and the South to add their physical presence to their verbal requests for full payment of the soldiers' bonus before Congress adjourns.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, yesterday conferred with Secretary of War Hurley on the problem of housing and accommodating the brigade when it arrives in the Capital. Secretary Hurley promised, Gen. Glassford said, to provide cots and accommodations if "the necessity should arise."

Gen. Glassford made it clear that his visit to Mr. Hurley's office was not for the purpose of augmenting the police with military patrol to maintain order. No difficulties are anticipated, Gen. Glassford said, but the most serious problem is that of feeding the men when they arrive.

There are no District funds available to provide victuals for the marchers, and the charity funds of the Community Chest are so depleted, the police chief said, as to preclude any possibility of aid from that source. His only remedy for the problem, as Gen. Glassford views it, is to warn the marchers in advance that the District "can not feed them" while they are here.

TWO SHOT IN DUEL AS CLIMAX TO FEUD

Taxicab Driver in Critical Condition; War Veteran Also Being Held.

A smoldering feud between two former friends flamed in pistol shots yesterday afternoon almost in the shadow of the Capitol. One of the men was critically hurt while the other was slightly wounded.

Edward L. Ring, 26, taxicab driver, of 115 Second street northwest, was shot twice in the abdomen and once in the wrist. He was removed to Casualty Hospital.

The other duelist, Chester M. Neill, 38, of 101 E street northwest, was hit twice in the hip. He was treated at Gallinger Hospital, where physicians said that he was not hurt seriously.

The two began shooting on sight when they met at the corner of First and E streets northwest Several shots were fired while passersby and pedestrians scattered for cover.

Neill said that the shooting was a flareup of a feud of three weeks standing. He said that he had avoided Ring for three days in order to prevent trouble.

Both men were booked for inves-

Slemp Denies Reports Of Break With Crupper

Richmond, Va., May 24 (A.P.).—C. Bascom Slemp, Republican national committeeman from Virginia, today denied a published report of a break between himself and Joseph L. Crupper, Republican organization choice as Slemp's successor.

Slemp had backed Crupper at the Roanoke convention in preference to Col. Henry W. Anderson, who had more instructed delegates, although Crupper was pledged a larger number of the delegates at large. Col. Anderson said he had heard nothing of the reported Slemp-Crupper rupture.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS URGE REFERENDUM

Resolution Is Adopted Amid Chaos After 46 Votes Are Given Garner.

Houston, Tex., May 24 (A.P.).—After harmoniously agreeing that John N. Garner should have the State's 46 votes at the National presidential convention, Texas Democrats tonight staged a near riot and adopted a resolution proposing resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to the States.

The vote on a resolution for submission of the question of repeal of the dry law first was viva voce and the convention was thrown into disorder. Delegates climbed on the stage of the convention auditorium and demanded a roll call by counties, which finally proceeded.

Previously the convention ruled that the State's votes be given to the Speaker of the House, a favorite son, "and to none other until released by him."

By passing the dry law resolution the delegates went contrary to the desires of Garner advisors, who wished to preserve harmony at any cost. Earlier in the day the resolutions committee declined to suggest any declaration on the eighteenth amendment to the convention.

This apparent victory for "Garner

Hapsburg Pretender's Betrothal Expected Soon

Budapest, Hungary, May 24 (A.P.).—Royalist circles here were authority today for reports that Prince Otto, of Hapsburg, pretender to the throne of Hungary, and Princess Maria of Bavaria, are about to become engaged. The princess, who is 18 years old, is a daughter of Prince Franz, brother of Prince Rupprecht, head of the house.

The family of the bride-to-be lives the greater part of the year in a castle at Sarvar, Hungary. The princess speaks Hungarian like a native, which is important, in view of Otto's claim to the throne.

4 Rob Grand Rapids Bank, Kill Deputy and Wound Boy

State and County Police and Civilian Posses Join in Manhunt After Bandits Get $6,072 and Outspeed Pursuing Autos.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 24 (A.P.).—One of the most intensive manhunts ever held in western Michigan was under way tonight as armed forces sought four robbers who at noon today looted a Grand Rapids savings bank's branch of $6,072, shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Charles Knapp in Lowell and slightly wounded a 10-year-old boy bystander.

More than three score State and County police and numerous posses of civilians engaged in the search which centered near Smyrna, Ionia County.

One man, taken near Smyrna by farmers and turned over to State police for questioning, after he had told conflicting stories, identified himself as James Gallagher, of Detroit. He was being questioned here tonight.

Knapp was shot down when he ran his motorcycle alongside the robbers' car as it sped through Lowell and motioned it to stop.

Several shots blazed from the machine and Knapp fell fatally wounded. He drew his own pistol as he lay in the street and sent five shots after the car. He died in an ambulance en route to Grand Rapids. A bullet had penetrated his chest.

Kenneth Smith, 10, who was standing in the street at Lowell, was grazed on the right cheek by a stray shot.

Several business men and pedestrians, attracted by the shots, seized arms and raced in hot pursuit of the speeding bandit car. They pumped shots at the vehicle, but apparently none of them took effect.

Brown, Burke and Hilles in Three-Hour Parley at White House.

G. O. P. CHAIRMANSHIP IS ALSO DISCUSSED

Conference Held as Efforts to Obtain Senate Vote on Liquor Are Pushed.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican national convention in all its details, including a prohibition plank, was discussed by President Hoover and three party leaders for nearly three hours late yesterday as a drive for a test on resubmission got under way in the Senate.

Postmaster General Brown, Mr. Hoover's preconvention campaign manager; James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, and Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York, went over the convention situation at the White House, remaining closeted with the President until well after 7 o'clock.

As they left, the three conferees said almost simultaneously to inquiring newspapermen that "details of the Chicago convention" had been discussed.

Asked if prohibition had been talked over, Burke replied, "Everything was discussed."

No Final Decisions.

Both Brown and Hilles echoed this statement, but said no final decisions had been reached on any of the matters.

Burke said the national chairmanship was given "very serious consideration." He declined, however, to mention any names considered.

Postmaster General Brown has been among those discussed as a successor to Chairman Fess, but he has been represented as not desiring the post. Burke said Brown was not definitely out of the picture.

He added he presumed a Californian again would place Mr. Hoover in nomination.

The Postmaster General said one of the principal subjects discussed was the situation which might arise if Congress were still in session at convention time and senators and representatives who are delegates were unable to attend.

Efforts to obtain a Senate vote on resubmission before the national conventions moved rapidly forward during the day.

Bingham Offers Bill.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, offered a repeal resolution which he left upon the table with a view to bringing it up for a roll call at the first opportunity.

Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, called a special meeting of the prohibition-controlled judiciary subcommittee for tomorrow in an effort to get a report on the many proposals for repeal and modification of the eighteenth amendment before it.

Meanwhile it became known that both President Hoover and national Democratic leaders are giving attention to the prohibition plank to be put in the party platforms.

The President was represented by Republican advisers as standing firmly by enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, but studying an expression by the party in recognition of the principle of a referendum.

Both Prohibitionists.

An indication of the attitude of Democratic prohibitionists on the referendum and repeal subject may

CUBAN GUARDS KILL 4 IN BOMB MURDER

Quartet Is Alleged to Have Tried to Escape; 14 More Held in Revolt Plot.

Havana, May 24 (A.P.).—Four men held in the bomb murder of Lieut. Diego Diaz last week were shot and killed by their military guard today. It was alleged they were slain trying to get away.

Meanwhile authorities continued active in their effort to break the back of the latest movement of revolutionists by further arrests, corralling fourteen more alleged conspirators. More than 200 have been arrested within a week, including several reputed leaders of the abortive revolt last August.

It was learned authoritatively that former President Mario Menocal, sought as a leading conspirator, had taken refuge in the Brazilian Legation.

In some quarters there were rumors that the government had protested, but authoritative circles had it that the government did not plan to try to extradite him. At the presidential palace of President Gerardo Machado it was said that Gen. Menocal could "stay at the Brazilian Legation six years if he wished." Meanwhile police guards were thrown around the block in which the Brazilian Legation is located and around Gen. Menocal's home.

All political prisoners held in Cabana Fortress, including the well-known Carlos Mendieta and Alberto Mendez Penate, were put aboard the Cuban gunboat Hernandez Quevedo late today and started toward the Isle of Pines. There was no explanation.

There were rumors of revolutionary activity in the interior, but a strict censorship prevented either confirmation or denial.

Retrenchment Hit By Bradstreet Aid

Dangerous Limit to Sales Force Dismissals Seen by E. B. Moran.

New Britain, Conn., May 24 (A.P.).—Too many business executives are carrying their retrenchment programs to unjustified and dangerous limits, E. B. Moran, executive sales manager of the Bradstreet Co., said here today.

Instead of cutting advertising appropriations and sales forces, these executives should be increasing or at least maintaining advertising expenditures and putting on additional sales forces, he told the annual conference of the Connecticut State Credit Men's Association.

"More advertising," he said, "scientifically prepared and intelligently placed, backed up by more intensive sales effort, combined with confidence in America's business and courage to uphold quality, will succeed on a more permanent basis than business sought on the shifting sands of price competition."

The speaker said that Bradstreet's were finding "increased earnings on the part of many corporations" in current financial statements now being forwarded to that organization.

House Group Approves Huge Roadwork Bill

(Associated Press.)

The House roads committee yesterday approved the Almon bill to authorize appropriations of $219,000,000 for highway construction.

The measure would authorize $100,000,000 in Federal highway aid to States in both the 1934 and 1935 fiscal years and $7,500,000 for forest roads and trails each year.

It also would authorize $2,000,000 for highway construction on public and nontaxable lands in 1933 and 1934 fiscal years. The House already has approved a bill to authorize $132,000,000 for highway construction in the next fiscal year, 1933. The Almon measure would require that $16,000,000 of the $80,000,000 advanced to States under previous authorizations be deducted from the 1934 and 1935 allocations.

Witness Fee Won By Taxicab Driver

Did Not Know Custom of P. U. C. Was Not to Pay So He'll Get $2.

Henry L. Reh, a taxicab driver, of 1073 Wisconsin avenue, will shortly be $2 richer for being so unfamiliar with public hearings of the Public Utilities Commission that he didn't know that its witnesses have never been paid the usual fee provided in the District code and regularly paid to persons who testify in court.

One of the witnesses at the recent hearing on the fatal bus collision at Seventeenth street and Rhode Island avenue, Reh applied to the commission for his fee after the inquiry. Confronted with a new problem, the commission referred the request to William A. Roberts, special counsel, who had, in turn, to refer to the law books.

Yesterday Mr. Roberts informed the commission that Reh is entitled to the usual $2 a day fee and that the money should be taken from the miscellaneous trust fund provided by the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The fee is payable, however, only when witnesses are subpenaed.

Second Thief Steals Goods Left by First

Sneak thieves yesterday almost forced John K. Coles, of 1301 Riggs place southeast, from the field of sport. Mr. Coles came back to his automobile, parked at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue, and found that someone had stolen his tennis racquet and several balls.

He drove his automobile around to the First Precinct station to register a protest, and parked the car out in front. When he finished making the report, he came back to the car to find that another thief had made away with a suitcase containing his golf knickers and stockings, a shirt and a sweater.

Another Intrepid Woman Brings Glory to Her Sex

By JOHN J. DALY

WHILE Amelia Earhart Putnam had London gallants paying tribute to the glories of her sex, making one man exclaim, "I hereby retract my pet theory—that a woman never did anything valuable," Mary Teresa Norton, another intrepid flier in the face of difficulties, stood on the floor of the House of Representatives, in Washington, and fought it out, toe to toe, with Texas Tom Blanton, the old lariat thrower.

Feminine resentment at all the "catty things" men have said about women drivers, women in politics, and women pilots, furnished the urge behind Mrs. Putnam's ocean flight—for the glory of her sex. A similar impulse surged through the soul of Mrs. Norton as she tongue-lashed her Democratic colleague with all the fury of her glorious sex.

Where there's a traffic jam, men always follow the old French proverb, "Find the woman"—and blame it on her.

As Mrs. Putnam explains it, "Whenever a woman flies with a man mechanic, even if he doesn't know an aileron from an altimeter, and though she be the best in the business, the men on the ground say, 'He did most of the flying for her.'"

Huh!

So Amelia showed 'em how a woman can fly.

And Mary, following up the advantage, took Mr. Tom Blanton down the line for a row of flower pots.

She said: "I find the gentleman from Texas is opposed to everything that comes before the House. In matters of District legislation he doesn't come to me as man to man . . ."

There you are, as man to man.

So she went to him as woman to woman.

* * * *

AMELIA flew the ocean, and Mary flew in the face of Tom.

She told his colleagues: "Instead of stating his objections, he has come to me smiling and has offered his help. I will tell the gentleman to his face that he has never given me any help."

So! He refused to extend the helping hand—just because a woman occupies one of the seats of the mighty. That, the girls will tell you, is the man of it.

By this time, Mrs. Norton has learned to beware of the Blantons bearing gifts.

Said the gentleman from Texas, in defense: "No catty remarks can prevent me from doing my duty!"

Ah, Thomas! To think that from that rusty throat should come even the faintest suspicion of a meow!

BRITAIN TO SIGN AGREEMENT FOR REPAYING UNITED STATES

tions still enmeshed in the toils of reparations and war debts will endeavor to discover some common formula of relief in an effort to end once and for all the prolonged litigation over the financial loose ends of war.

Will Not Affect Stand.

However, the settlement of the postponed year's payments which will be made after the European nations have signed the Treasury Department's forms will not affect one way or other the ultimate insistence of the United States to receive the integral payments of its war debts. The only basis upon which some concessions might conceivably be made is upon a strict and satisfactory fulfillment of the State Department's dictum that "Europe should first put her own houuse in order." Furthermore, the joint resolution of both houses of Congress expressly stipulated:

"It is hereby expressly declared to be against the policy of Congress that any of the indebtedness of foreign countries to the United States should be in any manner canceled or reduced; and nothing in this joint resolution shall be construed as indicating a contrary policy, or as implying that favorable consideration will be given at any time to a change in the policy hereby declared."

It was emphasized at the Treasury Department that this action in reminding the European debtors of the United States of their obligations was in no sense a new action. It was merely a formality designed to carry out the purely business details of the Hoover moratorium.

There never was any doubt but that the European nations would formally acknowledge their indebtedness, but in view of the recent action of the British chancellor of the exchequer in making known to the House of Commons that no provision had been made for the next installment of British debt payments to the United States, a flurry of excitement was thereby created.

No Real Cause for Concern.

However, it is not believed that such a prospect inspires any real cause for concern, as the first possible date on which the United States Treasury could be the recipient of any European funds from any of the great powers would be next December 15. No payments on any of the war debts are due before that date, and by that time it is believed either the Lausanne conference or some other subsequent meeting will have made it possible to take an entirely new view of the general subject of war debts.

The Greek government is indebted to the United States for a small payment of $155,000 on July 1, which it is not believed possible to be met, as Greece has recently gone off the gold standard and the government of Premier Venezilos resigned because of certain drastic financial economies which the premier wished to put in force and which the Parliament refused to accept. There are other payments from Germany due on September 15, but are postponable at the option of the German government.

Britain Instructs Envoy To Sign Debt Agreement

London, May 24 (U.P.).—Without prejudice to any future war debt readjustment, the British government today instructed its Ambassador at Washington to sign an agreement with the United States for repayment of the war debt accruing during the Hoover debt holiday year.

The suspended payments will be repaid to the United States in ten yearly installments, plus 4 per cent interest.

This action was in conformity with the recent request which the United States sent to its debtor nations asking for a formal agreement to cover the sum suspended during the debt holiday.

It was pointed out on high authority that the signing of the agreement would not prejudice any possibility of a general agreement in the future on readjustment of intergovernmental debts.

The general belief is that such an agreement will be sought at the Lausanne reparations conference next month, after which the European nations may appeal to the United States for a readjustment.

The British budget does not make any provision for payment of the British debt to the United States this year, but it was pointed out that Britain's payments from other countries balance the amount paid to the United States.

CURTIS PROSECUTION PLANS ARE MAPPED

"Jafsie" Isues New Appeal on Basis of $25,000 Reward of State.

Hopewell, N. J., May 24 (A.P.).—The strange coterie of intermediaries who once buoyed false hope for the return of the slain Lindbergh baby, monopolized the murder hunt today—one in a jail cell, another before a grand jury, and a third sponsoring an appeal to the ransom receiver.

The course to be pursued in prosecuting John Hughes Curtis, confessed and imprisoned hoax negotiator, brought Anthony M. Hauck, jr., Hunterdon County prosecutor, to the Lindbergh estate for a conference.

At its conclusion the prosecutor announced that he planned to lay the Curtis case before the grand jury at Flemington, N. J., on Thursday. Should an indictment be returned he said it would be reported formally Saturday.

Early Trial Expected.

He said he talked only with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of State police, but that he had wished to make sure the Curtis prosecution at this time would not interfere with the main investigation.

In the event of an indictment, he said, a speedy trial within the month of June would be set for Curtis, but added that there was no desire to "railroad" the boat builder.

Before coming here Hauck said he did not deem it necessary to call Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for grand jury testimony in the case charging Curtis with obstructing justice and furnishing false information. He said he regarded as sufficient police testimony regarding faked clews supplied by Curtis.

Close friends of the colonel, however, made it clear that should his appearance be necessary he undoubtedly would take a personal part in the case. They described him as determined to remain here for the time being and do everything in his power to bring the long-drawn ordeal to a speedy end. They said he had given no serious consideration to removing his residence.

"It is inconceivable that Col. Lindbergh would avoid his duty as a citizen," said Dr. John Grier Hibben, retiring president of Princeton and friend of the family.

Rosner Before Grand Jury.

Meantime, Morris Rosner, undercover man for Col. Lindbergh, who, on at least one occasion, voiced the belief the baby was alive and would be recovered, was taken before the Bronx (New York City) grand jury, which has been pursuing an inquiry into the futile payment of $50,000 ransom by Dr. John F. Condon. Rosner signed a waiver of immunity.

From a summer cottage at Becket, Mass., Dr. Condon heard of the formal posting of a $25,000 reward by Gov. A. Harry Moore and dictated this appeal:

"John: Money I gave you is useless. You can't get rid of it. Return to Col. Lindbergh in time. Get your $25,000 reward.

(Signed) "JAFSIE."

"John" was the name by which Dr. Condon knew the Scandinavian to whom he tossed the ransom in a cemetery April 2. "Jafsie," which is merely the aged educator's initials, spoke rapidly as a single word—has the signature he used in negotiations conducted through newspaper advertisements.

Liquor Smuggler Sought.

In Norfolk, Va., W. C. Pender, counsel for Curtis, emphatically denied a report that his client still believed the Lindbergh child alive. Equally erroneous reports regarding Curtis were shown to be unfounded by New Jersey police.

New Jersey police were checking Curtis' Philadelphia connections and in Norfolk Federal agents sought Sam Goldberg, indicted liquor smuggler, who was once mentioned by Curtis as "contact" man in his "negotiations."

In New York the testimony of Rosner and two other persons temporarily concluded the grand jury investigation of District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin. Rosner appeared for an hour and 45 minutes. Gregor F. Coleman, of the newspaper in which Dr. Condon inserted his advertisements, was questioned for an hour and detective James Finn, of New York police, testified for 15 minutes. The inquiry then was adjourned until June 2.

An application at the State Capitol for additional funds disclosed that State police have spent $19,300 in their search thus far.

VETERANS SEEKING CASH BONUS ARE DUE IN CAPITAL NEXT WEEK

freight trains in the vicinity of East St. Louis, accompanied Gen. Glassford to the office of Mr. Hurley. The American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans' organizations have discouraged the marches to Washington, preferring to advance the bonus cause through their respective legislative committees.

Representative Wright Patman, one of the leaders of the full bonus payment fight, said last night he discouraged all marchers who communicated with him.

Expects a Few Thousand.

Extravagant statements characterize the pamphlets and leaflets which urge the march. One from Illinois predicts that 70,000 veterans will march here from Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, while another urges "1,000,000 veterans in Washington on June 6."

Gen. Glassford is at a loss to approximate the number which will arrive, but expects "a few thousand."

A group of 400 left California three days ago on a trek here, a similar sized group left Alabama early last week, and 500 will leave Philadelphia on May 31, while another contingent of 400 is now in Illinois and has hampered freight schedules of railroads by "hopping" trains and refusing to be dislodged.

Gen. Glassford today will contact officials of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars to solicit their aid in caring for the visitors. Aid of the Red Cross also may be asked.

The War Veterans of America Home at 2626 Pennsylvania avenue northwest announced last night that preparations are being made to assist the veterans when they arrive. In the last few months 5,200 jobless veterans spent time at the home. The executive committee, in a statement issued last night, said it was hopeful that Congress will do something to relieve the unemployed veteran.

Washington, Ind., May 24 (A.P.).—Officials here await the arrival of the "bonus expedition" with varied attitudes.

They will be glad to see the war veterans, bound for Washington, D. C., to press demands for cash payment of the bonus, but they hope the former soldiers will not stay here too long.

Ed Rankin, Daviess County sheriff, and Walter Sullivan, police chief, said they anticipated no trouble.

The sheriff received a call today from the office of Gov. Harry G. Leslie asking him to keep in close touch with the situation and notify the State authorities promptly if any serious disorder developed.

The expedition, now traveling in automobiles, is expected to enter the State at Vincennes, 20 miles west of here on U. S. Highway 50.

Caseyville, Ill., May 24 (A.P.).—A motor caravan of World War veterans tonight took up a march on the Nation's Capital to urge upon Congress immediate bonus payment. They thus resumed a transcontinental journey from Portland, Oreg., which began two weeks ago by train and which ended—as a rail trip—here early today when the nearly 400 former soldiers surrendered a Baltimore & Ohio freight train on which they had hoped to ride to their destination.

Troops Are Not Used.

While the veterans waited for the arrival of trucks and automobiles provided by St. Clair County and the East St. Louis (Ill.) American Legion Post, to carry them to Washington, Ind., on the first leg of their motor trip, six companies of Illinois National Guardsmen were concentrated at East St. Louis, a dozen miles away from the "bonus army," but the troops found no demand for their service, so orderly was the assembly of the unemployed veterans.

COALMEN IN LIQUOR POOL, LEWIS HINTS

(Associated Press.)

In a heated reply to criticisms of the United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis, its president, said at a Senate committee hearing yesterday that it "would not be so funny" if he brought in testimony that "officers and members of the National Coal Association" participated in a pool to buy whisky.

Mr. Lewis protested against references to the United Mine Workers by C. A. Cabell, of Carbon, W. Va., in testifying against the Davis-Kelly bill for Federal regulation of the bituminous industry.

Mr. Cabell's testimony included the statement that the bill apparently was "conceived from suggestions made by officials" of the United Mine Workers, and that the organization "is actuated by the possibilities offered by the dues they could collect, if the industtry were forced into subjugation to their demands."

Lewis Assails Statement.

Mr. Lewis denied this, and said Mr. Cabell "has introduced into this committee hearing a copy of the Yellow Dog agreement which he now has in effect with the employes of the Carbon Fuel Co., of which he is president." Dramatically, he tore up the document and scattered the pieces on the committee table.

"It may be amusing to some of the gentlemen whom I see laughing and sneering at this meeting here today," said Mr. Lewis. "But it would not be so amusing if the United Mine Workers of America were to bring in testimony in kind before this committee.

"If I were to ask this committee here to bring in witnesses and examine into the question of whether or not members and officers of the National Coal Association participated in the formation of a pool to buy 500 cases of prewar whisky from an operator in West Virginia and to have the present location of the whisky determined, it might not be so funny.

Whisky Pool Hinted.

"It would add nothing to the purpose of this bill, and we make no such absurd request, but it would be just as logical as asking the committee to take up its time to listen to the ancient fulminations of the witness, Cabell."

Mr. Lewis assailed "last ditch coal operators who may have abandoned the machine gun for the yellow dog contract."

Mr. Cabell later told the committee he would file a statement in reply to Mr. Lewis.

In his testimony earlier, he said, "according to my way of thinking, the only reason the anthracite coal industry was not included within the powers of this (proposed) commission is that it is already paying tribute to the United Mine Workers of America at the rate that may be made at the will of that organization to bring its treasury over half a million dollars per month. * * *

"During the ten-year period from 1912 to 1922 the United Mine Workers' officials, under the cloak of collective bargaining, but more properly called "compulsory bargaining," collected millions of dollars, and I can find no record of a hospital nor a charitable institution, nor evidence of religious or philanthropic work, sponsored by them."

In reply Mr. Lewis said his organization has spent large amounts in hospitalization, relief of poverty and distress and contributions to the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A.

METHODIST SESSION LIFTS DIVORCE BANS

Conference Liberalizes Its Stand as to Grounds; Salaries Cut.

Atlantic City, May 24 (A.P.).—The attitude of the Methodist Episcopal Church toward divorce was liberalized tonight when the general conference sanctioned as grounds for dissolution "vicious conditions which, through mental or physical cruelty or physical peril," invalidate the marriage vow.

The change from adultery as the sole grounds, the second in almost a century and a half, was approved in the face of weak opposition which urged the conference to follow other denominations in adopting more stringent regulations and "to go back to the New Testament" for guidance on divorce.

G. Bormley Oxnam, president of DePauw University, replied to the dissenters with the statement that the church was deluding itself if it believed regulations would hinder divorces. "Legislation won't prevent divorce," he said. "Education will."

The conference also deleted from the burial service the phrase "ashes to ashes, dust to dust;" from the marriage service, "with my worldly goods I thee endow," and from the sacrament of the Lord's Supper the word "wine," in every instance except the prayer of consecration.

Market Nation Assailed.

Berton C. Kile, of Providence, R. I., offered an amendment to the report of the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals favoring legislation "restricting the use of credit, the use of credit on collateral for speculation, short selling or pool manipulation." The motion encountered opposition and was ordered back to the committee for rephrasing.

Further retrenchments in the interests of economy were ordered during the day session.

A 16-per cent reduction in episcopal salaries, and $3,000 slash in the amount Methodism contributes annually to the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America were the two major steps. Their adoption provoked protests that the conference was carrying its economy movement too far.

Editors for the Methodist church publications meanwhile were elected.

Dr. Robert C. Wells, district superintendent of the Philadelphia area, was the first to voice opposition to the episcopal salary cuts, urging a 10 per cent reduction as more equable than a 16 per cent slash.

Substitute Is Vetoed.

"I think we have already gone the limit in reducing expenses," he said. "We should now try to raise income."

His suggested substitute was vetoed by a large majority and the conference voted the recommendation of reductions, which is considered mandatory on the book concern, the administrator of the episcopal fund.

Besides reducing the salaries of domestic bishops from $7,200 to $6,000 and of missionary bishops from $6,000 to $5,000, the legislation also directed cuts in episcopal pensions and in the allowances for episcopal residences.

Likewise, missionary bishops were enjoined not to make any unnecessary trips home at conference expense during the quadrennium.

Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of Depauw University, led the losing fight against reducing the Methodist contribution to the Federal Council from $15,000 to $12,000. He pointed out that only last week the conference had slashed the budget of its world peace commission from $15,000 to $3,000 because the peace propaganda work of the commission, in effect, duplicated the work of the same nature done by the Federal Council.

Discontinues Committee.

The committee of six on foreign language publications was ordered discontinued during the session because financial stringency necessitated curtailed activity of the church organizations with which the committee was connected.

The church publication editors elected were:

New York Christian Advocate—Dr. James R. Joy.

Kansas City Christian Advocate—Dr. Dan C. Brummitt.

California Christian Advocate—Dr. E. L. Mills.

Christian Apologeta — Dr. A. J. Bucher, Cincinnati.

National Methodist Press—Dr. Harry E. Woolever, Washington, D. C.

Church school publications—Dr. L. H. Bugbee, Cincinnati.

Southwestern Christian Advocate—Dr. Alexander P. Shaw, New Orleans.

Verdict of Accident Likely in Gas Death

Police Inquiry Clears Up Mystery in Monoxide Poisoning of Ernst.

A certificate of accidental death will probably be issued in the death of William Ernst, 52 years old, who was overcome Monday by carbon monoxide gas while working on his automobile in a garage at 3744 Oliver street northwest, according to Detective Sergt. Floyd Truscott.

An "In Memoriam" notice found in his pocket carrying the name of William Ernst, "killed in France in 1918," lent a mystifying angle to the case until yesterday, when Detective Sergt. Truscott learned that the man had clipped the notice from a paper because he thought it a coincidence that his name was the same as that in the clipping.

Mr. Ernst had a premonition of death last year and left several notes with Philip Parke, with whom he lived for several years. The notes contained requests to further some business transaction. Mr. Ernst was secretly married four months ago to Miss Annie Weimers, of New York City.

LONE CONFEDERATE MARCHES IN PARADE

Col. Edgar Warfield Only One Able to Take His Place in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 823.

Confederate Memorial Day in Alexandria!

Seventy-one years ago yesterday more than 700 of the young men and boys of Alexandria, the flower of young Virginia manhood, marched away to war. The names of those who failed to return, who gave their lives to the cause they thought was right, are inscribed in imperishable bronze on tablets forming a part of the Confederate Memorial at Washington and Prince streets.

Of those who returned and took up the difficult task of gaining a livelihood, one, yesterday, was present and able to march in the parade which was staged by the Sons of Confederate Veterans in honor of their fathers. This one is Edgar Warfield, a private in the Confederate Army, a colonel by appointment of his superiors, and a brigadier general by acclamation of his fellow survivors of that great conflict.

Robert E. Lee Camp of the Confederate Veterans, of Alexandria, was organized not many years after the war, and Edgar Warfield was adjutant. The camp had a peak membership of 229 men who served under the Stars and Bars. Today there are two members, Gen Wilkerson, who is commander of the Washington Camp, and not an Alexandrian, and Edgar Warfield.

Gen. Warfield has passed his ninetieth birthday, healthily and happily. He is a druggist, and probably the oldest in active service in the South.

The parade was formed yesterday at Lee Camp Hall, and consisted of the Sons of Veterans, the Daughters of the Confederacy, and the cadets of the Alexandria High School. These marched the short distance to a temporary stand which had been erected at Washington and Prince streets, where the memorial services were held.

The Rev. E. V. Regester offered the benediction, and the principal address was by the Rev. Ernest W. Aarons, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. There were songs by the quartet choir of the Southern Methodist Church, after which the procession proceeded to the yard of Christ Episcopal Church, where flowers were placed on the mound which contains the remains of many Confederate soldiers.

The Rev. Mr. Aarons, in his address, referred to the great men connected with the first 60 years of the history of this Nation, particularly Patrick Henry, who inspired the Declaration of Independence; Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration; George Washington, commander in chief of the American forces, and James Madison, who fostered the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, all Virginians.

At the conclusion of the services at Christ Church, taps were sounded by a bugler and three volleys were fired by a detachment from the Alexandria Light Infantry.

auditorium. First it was announced that the wet plank had carried, 76 to 68. There were demands for a division, and a new roll call showed the wet plank won by 81 to 71.

In choosing to recommend outright repeal of prohibition the convention overrode its platform committee, which counseled that the subject be ignored; threw out a resolution calling for submission of the question by referendum, and also turned down Goebel's suggestion to write into the platform a plank denouncing old political parties for raising the issue as a "red herring" to distract attention from what he called "social injustices."

The vote followed the most violent political explosion of the stormy convention.

The demonstration started when Charles Hill, of Massachusetts, shouted: "We're going home to tell every member of the party what a dirty political machine is running this convention. Every sort of political machine is running this convention. Every sort of political trickery has been tried. It's worse than Tammany."

Chairman Is Ousted.

On the platform B. Charney Vladeck, New York, business manager of the Jewish Daily Forward and chairman for the day, broke his gavel but could not quell the disorder. The storm swept him from the chair and Sarah Limbach, of Pennsylvania, vice chairman, took charge.

A trifling incident started it all. It was charged that Julius Gerber of New York, of the tellers' committee, while serving as a committeeman, was distributing a New York slate of candidates for members of the national executive committee.

Chairman Vladeck held Gerber's activity was "unethical, but practical politics." Whereupon a coalition started the drive which unseated the chairman.

Causes of Quarrel.

The causes of the quarrel, observers said, were to be found in the clash opposing principles of half a dozen schools of socialism and a revolt against a New York group, which yesterday succeeded in reelecting Morris Hillquit of that State, chairman of the national executive committee over Mayor Hoan. That incident opened wounds which Norman Thomas, the party's nominee for president, tried to close.

Little difficulty was encountered writing into the platform demands for health and maternity insurance, abolition of child labor, adequate minimum wage laws, socialization of mines, forests and utilities and administration of industries by boards on which workers and consumers are represented.

HOOVER AND CHIEFS DISCUSS RUM PLANK

come tomorrow from the decision of the judiciary subcommittee.

Senators Walsh of Montana and Dill of Washington, Democratic supporters of the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, are members of the subcommittee and both are prohibitionists.

Senator Borah of Idaho, who wrote the 1928 Republican prohibition plank and who is believed to have been approached by the administration regarding this year's declaration, is also a member of the subcommittee.

The Idahoan is a prohibition leader, but has declared a willingness to meet the issue in a vote in the Senate.

MRS. PUTNAM CHATS WITH WALES ALONE

"We Just Did Some Ground Flying," Sea Flier Says After Palace Talk.

London, May 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, a new hat hiding her tousled tresses, was received alone by the Prince of Wales today and "talked shop."

"We just did some ground flying," she said as she rode back to the American Embassy, where she is staying. "He congratulated me warmly on my flight from Newfoundland and I told him the story of the flight."

For three-quarters of an hour, the American woman, here after a solo flight across the Atlantic, exchanged flying experiences with the British heir in a room at York while guardsmen in their red coats and busbies stamped noisily on their patrols in the courtyard of St. James Palace outside.

She went to the palace from a luncheon at the embassy, with numerous notables assembled by Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, daughter of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, who serves as the ambassador's hostess. Afterward she returned to the embassy to have tea with a number of British women fliers.

Her husband, George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, is coming over to meet her and return with her to the United States after she has seen Paris, she announced. He will leave New York Friday and they will sail homeward from London on June 9.

Her plan to visit Rome had been canceled, Mrs. Putnam said, because the conference of transoceanic fliers there, which she had intended to attend, ends Thursday.

Instead, she will go to Paris for a few days. The French capital was her destination when she left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, last Friday on her flight that ended after a series of hazards in the countryside of northern Ireland.

Tonight Mrs. Putnam, Ambassador Mellon, Mrs. Bruce and Gordon Selfridge, American-born London merchant, went in a party to the opening performance of a musical show.

(Associated Press.)

Amelia Earhart Putnam neared an honor never before accorded a woman as Congress moved yesterday to award her the Distinguished Flying Cross for her record-breaking solo flight across the Atlantic.

While the famous flier was receiving London's plaudits the Senate adopted a resolution to authorize President Hoover to confer upon her the coveted medal, heretofore worn only by men.

The resolution was introduced by Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, and was immediately approved with the unanimous consent of the Senate. A similar resolution was introduced in the House by Representative Florence P. Kahn (Republican), California.

TAX ON TRUCKS IS REDUCED IN SENATE BY VOTE OF 39 TO 30

amendment, offered by Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota. Senator Shipstead proposed to tax imported coconut and other vegetable oils so that the tariff might increase the price of butter to the consumer. But the Shipstead amendment was laid aside temporarily when Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Republican), of Delaware, said he wanted to talk about it today.

Then the Senate plunged into debate on the automobile excise tax, after agreeing to a request by Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, who, as chairman of the finance committee, has charge of the bill, to let the proposed 10 per cent tax on automobile tires go over for later consideration.

The tire tax was agreed to at a special meeting of the committee yesterday morning. It was a far cry from the original proposal to levy a tariff on rubber imports and the further modification was made by the committee in response to representations from the automobile and tire industries.

Bingham Joins Fight.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, jumped into the automobile tax fight almost as soon as it was opened. The tall, gray-haired senator from the Nutmeg State proposed that for the excise tax on automobiles the Senate should substitute a tax of 24 cents a gallon on 2.75 per cent beer.

It was the same old beer proposal and probably will get the same old licking, but its recurrence was a thing of joy to the wets. Senator Bingham, incidentally, is coming up for reelection in November. But debate on his amendment was postponed when it was suggested that consideration of it be postponed.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, then asked the Senate to strike out of the finance committee bill the proposed tax on trucks. Senator Vandenberg was counting two ways—one for the automobile industry of his State and one for the farmers of the country to whom a truck is a necessity and not a luxury.

Finance committee proposals to strike out the taxes proposed by the House on cosmetics, on jewelry and on furs were agreed to without a record vote.

At the conclusion of the legislative business of the day—and night—the situation seemed to be that the tax bill would be approved by the Senate substantially as drafted by the finance committee. There will be fights on various provisions and there will be speeches by senators who are going to vote for provisions they don't want and find hard to accept. These senators want opportunity to tell their constituents why they voted the way they have or are going to vote.

Various amendments are going to be offered and debated, but doubt of the passage of the tax bill before time for the national convention has been removed.

Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, offered one yesterday which is going to be debated a day before a vote is had. Senator Walsh proposed a manufacturers' sales tax of 1¾ per cent of the selling price on all articles sold, with certain exceptions.

Would Lighten Income Tax.

Senator Walsh's sales tax proposal was worked out in an effort to ease the income tax burden on the little fellow who is trying to buy his home. He has protested the increase in the income tax rates bear too heavily on the citizen who has enough income to live on. His general manufacturers' sales tax, Senator Walsh said, would hit no one except those who had money enough to buy things of extra fineness. Senator Walsh estimated that his tax would put $35,000,000 in the Federal Treasury.

Exemptions from the Walsh manufacturers sales tax include all foods, medicines, clothing, except shoes costing $5 and more, suits costing $50 or more and other things. Religious articles, tobacco already taxed, agricultural products, newspapers, periodicals, and books for the blind are among other things which would be exempted from the tax.

Senator Walsh proposes to present the amendment after consideration of the excise taxes has been completed. He said it would obviate necessity for special taxes on furs, yachts, refrigerators, automobiles, trucks, tires, second-class postage rate increases, would raise the admission tax limit to 45 cents and would eliminate other taxes.

Filipinos Appeal For Freedom Vote

Bingham Is Told Early Action Is Necessary to Quiet Unrest.

(Associated Press.)

Sergio Osmena and Manuel Roxas, of the Philippine mission, appealed to Chairman Bingham, of the Senate territories committee, by letter yesterday to bring Philippine independence to a vote during the present session. They said the differences between the Hare bill, which passed the House, and the Hawes-Cutting bill, favorably reported in March by Bingham's committee, could be "readily adjusted."

The need of determining now the future political status of the islands and of settling later such other "vexatious questions" as immigration and the tariff was important, Osmena and Roxas said, adding that delay in acting on the bills would increase the uncertainty already characterizing the Philippine situation.

Until independence and trade relations are defined and adjusted, they contended, stable economic conditions could not exist in the islands. The Hawes-Cutting bill in its underlying features, Bingham was told, appeared to have the support of a large majority of the Senate.

WALKER SUMMONED FOR GRILLING TODAY

Mayor to Hear Charges of Graft; Political Repercussions Expected.

New York, May 24 (A.P.).—James J. Walker will meet Samuel Seabury face to face tomorrow in a verbal duel that may alter the national political scene.

The eyes of the Nation will be focused on the bar of the Hofstadter legislative investigation when the dapper mayor of New York at last confronts the painstaking counsel with an explanation of his financial dealings in the last six years and a defense of charges of graft and corruption in the municipal administration.

Newspapers have repeatedly forecast that Counsel Seabury will petition Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, to remove Mayor Walker on the basis of evidence collected over more than a year and that the governor will deliver his decision before the Democratic national convention meets next month.

Roosevelt's Position Delicate.

Gov. Roosevelt is pictured by political authorities as being faced with a delicate decision in the event he is called on to take action—if he should unseat Mayor Walker he would face increased enmity from Tammany Hall; if he should not, he might lose the support of some of his followers elsewhere.

Mayor Walker, whose income-tax returns for the years 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931 are under scrutiny by Federal authorities, faces the following principal accusations:

That he accepted a $26,535 gratuity in the form of bonds from a Wall street house which was financing a taxicab company seeking favors of the city administration.

That he paid a share of his expenses on a European trip in 1927 with a $13,000 letter of credit purchased by an agent of bus interests planning a monopoly of New York City's surface transportation.

That he received $15,000 for "special legal services" from a theater holding corporation which employed regular counsel.

That payments made to his brother and his missing accountant by a salesman were exactly half the commissions paid the latter for the sale of equipment to city departments.

That he condoned the disappearance of Russell T. Sherwood, the accountant, who transacted his business for six years up to August, 1931.

Senator's "Boy Friend."

That he was the "boy friend" of State Senator John A. Hastings, "political contact man" between Midwest financiers and the administration.

While official confirmation was lacking, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie and Hugh McQuillan, Internal Revenue officer in this district, were reliably understood to be delving into the mayor's income tax returns for the past four years with particular interest in the $26,535 gift of bonds in 1929 from J. A. Sisto & Co.

The mayor, serene as usual, was personally informed his appearance would be required tomorrow when Chairman Samuel H. Hofstadter called him by telephone late today and told him he should be present at 10 a. m. He is expected to be preceded on the stand by J. Allan Smith, one of the backers of the Equitable Bus Co., who paid for the letter of credit in cash.

Bereaved Family Asks Boy's Return

Youth Held Not to Blame for Crash in Which Mother Died.

Members of the family of Alan Gruver, 19 years old, said yesterday that the latch string is out for him at his Hyattsville home and that they wish he would come home.

Young Gruver has been the object of a search since an automobile accident near Fairfax, Va., in which his mother was killed. Alan was driving the automobile. The family wish him to know that he is not held to blame for the accident.

Although friends of the family have seen him in Washington, he has not been home since the accident. His father, Ira K. Gruver, has been seriously ill, but is reported improving.

2 REPRESENTATIVES CLASH OVER HAWAII

(Associated Press.)

A member of Congress and a war correspondent yesterday told the House territories committee they thought the Hawaiian Islands should be put under military control in the interests of the United States' defense.

Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, made his statement after a clash with Representative Johnson (Republican), Washington, over whether the 149,000 persons of Japanese extraction in the islands are a menace to American defenses.

Mr. Britten contended they are, while Mr. Johnson held the Illinois member was "unduly criticizing good American citizens."

Floyd Gibbons, the war correspondent, agreed with Mr. Britten. He was allowed to testify after Chairman Williams had said the committee in its study of the Britten bill to put a military government into the Hawaiian Islands would prefer to hear only Mr. Britten and representatives of the War and Navy Departments.

Disapproved by Pratt.

The witnesses for these two departments—Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff—disapproved the Britten bill as it now is drawn. Neither, however, explained what changes he thought should be made.

Mr. Britten had intended calling Maj. and Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother and father of Mrs. Thalia Massie, victim of a criminal assault by Hawaiians, but Maj. Fortescue was ill.

Mr. Britten said he believed that if a search were made through Japanese homes in Hawaii, "we would find plans for the destruction of our docks in the event of an emergency."

Johnson Disagrees Vigorously.

Mr. Johnson interrupted and disagreed vigorously until Mr. Britten finally appealed to the chairman to let him proceed without interruptions. Then he said:

"I am not shaking a red flag at Japan because our relations with her are just as cordial as with any country in the world—but that condition may not prevail ten years from now."

He contended a purely military government would be better able than a civilian regime to prevent destruction of defensive facilities in Hawaii, which he termed more important than the Panama Canal.

Mr. Gibbons said "the conditions in the islands constitute an exact and definite menace."

4 on Police Force Ordered Retired

Capt. M. L. Raedy and 3 Privates Have Reached Age Limit.

A captain and three privates in the Metropolitan Police Department were ordered retired yesterday by the District Commissioners upon having reached the age limit of 64 years. Each had served for more than 30 years.

Capt. Michael L. Raedy, of the Ninth Precinct, has been in the department for 35 years, having been appointed on July 4, 1896. The privates, George T. Newton, Benjamin P. Batson, and Sylvester W. Caw, have served 34, 38, and 31 years, respectively.

The retirements are effective on June 1. Capt. Raedy gets $150 a month pension, and each of the privates, $100.

of offensive action because of the mobility of vessels carrying them."

The resolution took the American delegation by surprise, and they believed the question had been closed. Allan Dulles vigorously objected to the Japanese resolution, but it was passed by an overwhelming vote. As a result, the resolution will be included in the air commission's report to be submitted to the general commission.

Meanwhile, the conference's special committee on German and chemical warfare met and generally agreed on abolition of all chemicals designed for use in warfare, excepting normal explosives and such chemicals as are needed for smoke screens.

Britain, Japan, Italy, France and Brazil supported the move to continue use of chemicals for smoke screens.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson has authorized a reduction in the staff of the American delegation at the Geneva disarmament conference to save $5,000 a month.

After considerable debate, Congress appropriated $350,000 for the expenses of the delegation. The State Department figures that the slash will enable the Americans to remain at Geneva until September without asking for more money.

Mrs. Longworth to Go To Congress Rite Today

(Associated Press.)

A memorial service to all members of Congress who have died during the past year today will call Alice Roosevelt Longworth again to the House.

Mrs. Longworth yesterday accepted the invitation to the families of the members to be honored. Her daughter, Paulina, will not attend.

During the six years that Nicholas Longworth was Speaker, his wife was a familiar figure in the gallery box reserved for him.

An informal call on Speaker and Mrs. Garner has been her only visit to the House this session.

Sixteen representatives and three senators will be honored by the memorial, and a large group of relatives have indicated their intention of attending.

Relatives of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, father-in-law of Col. Lindbergh, acknowledged the invitation with regrets that they would be unable to attend.

STATE OFFICIALS RAP DOAK'S JOB SERVICE

Only 2 of 29 Commissioners in Reply to Questionnaire Find It Valuable.

Richmond, Va., May 24 (A.P.).—Replies to a questionnaire sent out by John Hopkins Hall, jr., State commissioner of labor and industry, are almost unanimous in their criticism of Federal employment service as reorganized by Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak.

Only 2 of 29 State commissioners replied that the Federal employment service was of value in finding employment, Mr. Hall said in making public the expressions of labor leaders from the various States.

In discussing the replies sent him, the Virginia commissioner reaffirmed his faith in the Wagner bill, providing for a cooperative municipal-State-Federal service, administered through the State department of labor.

"The history of the Wagner bill," Mr. Hall said, "reveals that it passed Congress at the last session, but was killed by President Hoover's pocket veto. A companion bill which carried an appropriation of $500,000 to continue the then Federal organization was used by the President as the foundation of the Doak organization which he approved and has since sponsored.

"So far the Doak organization, with its separate and independent offices, has spent at least $1,000,000, but I am unable to discover what they have done. Of course they have published certain statements, but I suspect these of being heavily padded. No one is able to give me any definite information about what their various offices have done in actually placing the jobless in some position.

"Their work at its best is a duplication of efforts already being made by municipal and State organizations, and it is my opinion that this is a waste of money and a loss of energy."

Play Will Be Staged By Pierce Hall Group

"Her Husband's Wife," A. E. Thomas' play, is to be presented by the Pierce Hall Players in the hall at Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest Thursday and Friday nights. Frank B. The production committee is under the chairmanship of K. Hilding Beij, and includes Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rogers, business managers; Sedgley Thornbury and Paul Alexander, staging; Feliz Schwarz, Mary Foley Benson, and Katherine Wheeler, designers of posters; Alice W. Cushman, costumes, and Mabel Van Dyke, publicity.

FORECLOSURE SALE OF BUILDING SCORED

Duehay Corporation Trying to Prevent Action on Farragut Medical.

The foreclosure sale of the Farragut Medical Building, advertised to take place tomorrow, was attacked in the District Supreme Court yesterday, when F. H. Duehay, Inc., of 1624 I street northwest, petitioned the court to grant a temporary injunction halting the sale.

The Duehay corporation, in its petition, said that it had borrowed $400,000 from the New York Life Insurance, of the Shoreham Building, July 20, 1928. This was due in three years, and at the time it fell due, it was extended to August 7, 1934.

Interest payments, due last March, were not met, it was said, and the insurance company, to protect its investment, insisted that the Duehay corporation assign the management of the building to the B. F. Saul Co. so that rents and other charges could be protected by the Saul company, which held at that time a $47,500 second trust on the building.

It was insisted that this action by the New York Life constituted an "election" not to foreclose and it is contended that once having made the election the company can not now have recourse to its original claims of foreclosure. The Saul company has been taking the rentals and applying them to the building's debts. The Farragut has been appraised at $775,000. No action was taken yesterday on the petition.

Hawley Is Trailing By Only 174 Votes

Portland, Oreg., May 24 (A.P.).—Youthful, dynamic James W. Mott, State corporation commissioner, maintained his lead over Representative Willis C. Hawley, veteran Oregon member of Congress, today as checking of official returns in Friday's primary election continued.

Mott, an avowed wet, attacked Hawley's tariff measures and proposals in his campaign for the First District Republican nomination. Tonigh the held a lead of 174 out of a total of 61,654 votes cast. He polled 30,914 and Hawley received 30,740 votes.

The Democrats staged even a closer battle in the First District in attempting to nominate a candidate to oppose the winner of the Mott-Hawley fight. With every precinct complete, but an official count awaited to determine a winner, William A. Delzell had 12,077 votes and Harvey Starkweather 12,047, a lead for Delzell of only 30 votes. Seldom have contests been so bitterly waged. It was a foregone conclusion the loser in both instances will demand a recount.

Close Vote in Chicago District Forces Recount

Chicago, May 24 (A.P.).—A recount of the votes cast in the Republican contest for nomination to Congress in the Tenth Illinois District was ordered today by Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

State Representative Ralph Church was declared the winner of the contest by 73 votes, but counsel for James Simpson, jr., contended that the tallying was so careless in ten of the districts that error might have crept in. Eighty-five thousand votes were cast in the district, which included the northeastern part of Chicago, North Shore suburbs and Lake County.

Dollar Stabilization Measure Deferred

(Associated Press.)

The Senate banking committee yesterday postponed action on the Goldsborough bill to stabilize the dollar but Chairman Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, said he believed "something along this line will be reported favorably next Tuesday." The committee voted 7 to 5 against action on the measure yesterday. Later it was agreed unanimously to take it up next Tuesday with a view to action. Norbeck told newspapermen "a majority of this committee is in favor of some form of inflation."

The measure sponsored by Representative Goldsborough (Democrat), Maryland, has passed the house. It provides that the Federal Reserve Board shall seek to stabilize the dollar at the 1921-1929 level by its open market operations. A substitute measure was proposed tentatively by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia.

Glass said he "had no faith" in either the Goldsborough bill or the increased open market operations of the Federal Reserve Board. His substitute measure, he said, would provide for a special issue of Government bonds to bring about a "diffusive stabilization," and take stabilization out of the hands of the Federal Reserve Board.

Pink Pajamas Sound Tirade Against Retailing by Army

(Associated Press.)

Exhibits of pink pajamas, extracts to make alcohol taste like rye, rum, Scotch and gin, and a bright yellow necktie were submitted to the House rules committee yesterday as articles sold by Army posts in competition to private business.

The staid committee laughed heartily as Representative Shannon, a Missouri Democrat, urged approval of his resolution for an investigation. Then it unanimously voted that the inquiry be made by a House committee to be appointed by Speaker Garner.

An effort by Chairman Pou later in the day to secure House action failed when Representative Martin (Democrat), Oregon, a former general in the Army, objected, but favorable action is expected soon.

Mr. Shannon charged the exchange at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., had wrecked merchants in that city by cutting prices and declared sales of articles were advertised to the public by use of franked envelopes.

In his argument, the Missourian was supported by Representative Horr (Republican), Washington, who said the commissary at the Bremerton Navy Yard had destroyed private business there.

Mr. Shannon presented a youthful clerk and the boy testified that every garment he had on had been bought at exchanges at Bolling Field or Walter Reed Hospital here, including everything from underwear to straw hat and leather shoes.

"The Government is even selling coal," Mr. Shannon said. "An organization formed through the Farm Board is selling coal in Oklahoma in competition to private dealers."

First Currency Signed By Mills Ready to Issue

(Associated Press.)

The first currency bearing the signature of Ogden L. Mills as Secretary of the Treasury, probably will appear late in the summer.

On May 1 the Treasury had ready for issuance 200,000,000 of $1 bills signed by Andrew W. Mellon. These bills are used at the rate of 50,000,000 a month. The first sheet of currency with the new Secretary's name was taken by him yesterday as a souvenir.

Seven House Members Recovering From Ills

(Associated Press.)

Seven House members were reported on the sick list yesterday at the Capitol.

They are Representatives Abernethy of North Carolina, Boylan of New York, Chapman of Kentucky, Lea of California, and Tucker of Virginia (Democrats), and Murphy and Seiberling, both Ohio Republicans. All were reported by Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, to be recovering.

Strong Defends Farm Board Acts

Questions Usefulness of Chicago Trade Head in Reply to Attacks.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Strong (Republican), Kansas, yesterday questioned the "high motives" and usefulness of Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, in criticizing recently the Farm Board's administration of stabilization funds and the wheat surplus.

In a statement, he said Carey had charged the board with depressing wheat prices to the lowest level in history, and answered:

"For the first time in history wheat prices in Chicago are higher than Liverpool, which before Congress passed the marketing act, was always 11 to 14 cents above Chicago. This accomplishment is in spite of the efforts of the Chicago Board of Trade to destroy the effectiveness of the United States Government agency in its effort to aid farmers."

The Kansan also referred to Carey's remark that at least six members of the Chicago Board of Trade could take the Farm Board wheat and sell it on the market at increasing prices.

Claims Extension Plan Upheld.

DELAWARE PLEDGES SIX FOR ROOSEVELT

Proposal for Referendum on Repeal Defeated at Democratic Parley.

Dover, Del., May 24 (A.P.).—The Delaware Democratic State convention today elected six delegates to the national convention instructed for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York and, after a battle in the resolutions committee and on the floor, defeated a proposal for a referendum on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

A development of the convention was the defeat in caucus of former U. S. Senator Thomas F. Bayard as a member of the delegation to Chicago.

The convention was harmonious so far as the selection of delegates and instructing them for Roosevelt was concerned, most interest being centered in the fight over the prohibition question.

The State committee last night adopted a draft of a platform which was presented to the resolutions committee of the convention today with a recommendation to adopt. The last plank of the platform contained the prohibition referendum resolution as follows:

"An immediate constitutional referendum devised for the sole purpose of determining whether or not the people of the United States desire a continuation of national prohibition or repeal thereof."

Speakers before the resolutions committee and later before the convention who opposed the referendum suggested that this convention was not the proper one to deal with the subject and that it should be taken up in the regular State convention to be held in the fall when candidates for Congress and State offices will be nominated.

The convention finally adopted a platform in which no mention was made of prohibition. It criticized the national administration.

More Red Cross Wheat Is Urged in House Bill

(Associated Press.)

An additional allotment of 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat to be distributed by the Red Cross to the needy was proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Lonergan (Democrat), Connecticut. In a statement Mr. Lonergan said the measure "has the approval of the Farm Board."

From the first 40,000,000 bushels donated to the Red Cross to help feed people and live stock in distress, Mr. Lonergan said, 1,627,231 barrels of flour have been distributed while 7,000,000 bushels have been diverted for feedstuffs in last year's drought-stricken areas.

harmony" was contrasted shortly afterward with the reelection of Jed C. Adams, Dallas, national committeeman.

Adams defeated A. J. Wirtz, of Seguin.

Wertz is an outspoken advocate of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Adams was supported in the convention by a faction that had been opposed to injecting prohibition into deliberations of the convention.

Mineral Wells, Tex., May 24 (A.P.).—Texas Republicans, acting harmoniously, late today instructed their 49 delegates to the national convention at Chicago to vote for the renomination of President Hoover.

The convention, by resolution, likewise indorsed a tariff on oil imports and a general protective tariff. It went on record as opposed to cancellation of war debts.

U. S. Exports of Grain Reported Increasing

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 2,774,000 bushels, against 1,945,000 bushels the previous week and 851,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before: Wheat, 2,478,000 bushels, against 1,797,000; barley, none, against 30,000; corn, 4,000, against 20,000; oats, 50,000, against 8,000; rye, 222,000, against 90,000.

SMITH TELLS WHERE HE AND HOOVER SPLIT

Takes Exception to Distinction Between Productive and Other Public Work.

New York, May 24 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential aspirant expressing partial disagreement today with President Hoover's recently propounded view of public works financing, urged the issuance of Federal bonds to support such works and reiterated his suggestion for a beer or sales tax to pay the cost.

The former governor took exception to the Hoover distinction between productive and nonproductive public works and characterized as "pretty large" the "assumption that all of the so-called self-liquidating projects entered into by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will actually liquidate themselves and pay back 100 cents on a dollar."

"That," he asserted, "would be pretty close to a miracle."

"Main Thing Overlooked."

Declaring entire sympathy with the President as to the honest balancing of the Federal budget, credit expansion by Federal Reserve Banks and continuation of the work of the Reconstruction body, he said, "I do not, however, agree with him at all as to the distinction between productive and nonproductive public works, nor as between loaning the credit of the National Government through the finance group or any other agency and the issuance of public works bonds."

"What is more important," the Smith statement said, "is the main thing overlooked by the President. The need of finding immediate productive employment for millions of people. This problem transcends all technicalities, all hair-splitting and all fine-spun theories of financing."

He suggested as the first step toward restoring prosperity the immediate listing of all public works ready to be started which will at once employ men, but which are not moving because of lack of funds.

Can't Follow Distinction.

Smith, himself a proponent of a Federal bond issue for promotion of public works as an unemployment relief measure, asserted he was "entirely unable to follow the President's distinction between the issuance of Federal bonds and the use of Federal credit." A few sentences later he added: "There is no difference."

"I have proposed to meet the cost of public works by a tax on beer or a sales tax, or both," he continued. "Nobody doubts that a reasonable beer tax over a few years would take care of as much of a public works bond issue as is needed. This also is true of the general manufacturers sales tax. * * *

"In any event, I see no reason to quarrel with the President on this subject at this time. Why not give him sufficient latitude to progress public works, both revenue producing and nonrevenue producing, Federal, State and local and also semipublic works."

NEW JERSEY G. O. P. HITS STATE DRY ACT

State's Democracy Assures Al Smith of Its 32 Convention Votes.

Trenton, N. J., May 24 (A.P.).—Repeal of the State enforcement act was urged for the first time by New Jersey Republicans today in a tentative platform drawn after State leaders had called for a forceful policy toward prohibition.

The platform was drawn up after former Gov. Edward C. Stokes, keynote speaker, had labeled the State act a breeder of corrupt campaign funds." It will be debated when the convention reconvenes next Tuesday.

In neither platform nor speech did the party formally indorse Herbert Hoover for President, but Mr. Stokes called on the delegates to support him and the platform commended him for his efforts to balance the budget.

New Jersey Democrats today promised Alfred E. Smith their 32 convention votes after being assured the delegation has its eyes open for every opportunity with respect to the State's favorite son, Gov. A. Harry Moore.

Indorsement of the former New York Governor and alignment of the votes for him came at an organization meeting, which preceded the State convention.

Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, State Democratic leader, said Smith would get New Jersey's 32 votes on the first ballot. Gov. Moore, who had been expected to receive a complimentary vote before the delegation switched to Smith, has as good a chance as anyone to receive the vice presidential nomination, Hague said, and added, "We have our eyes open for every opportunity."

Pressure of duties, including close attention to the Lindbergh case, prevented the governor from presiding at the State convention and will prevent him from attending the Chicago convention, Hague said.

Smith was lauded for his "comprehensive, concrete, honest, courageous program" for solution of economic conditions by Representative Mary T. Norton, who was named chairman of the convention. She blamed conditions on the Republican national convention and urged that "a man of such caliber" as Smith be selected to lead the Nation.

Embassy Co. Buys Apartment House

The Embassy, large apartment building at 1613 Harvard street northwest, was purchased at public auction yesterday by H. R. Howenstein, representing the Embassy Apartment Co., for $537,500. The bid price included a first trust of $450,000.

It was the first auction of a large property at which there was competitive bidding since the sale of the Hamilton Hotel March 1. James C. Wilkes, lawyer, and Leonard Bowen, real estate man, representing separate and undisclosed interests, were additional bidders, and the offers ran from an initial one of $451,000 to a last, opposing Mr. Howenstein, of $535,000. The sale was advertised by W. O. Howenstein and Ralph L. Sabin, trustees, and Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer.

The building, containing 78 units, is a five-story brick constructed in 1924 by H. R. Howenstein, original owner; B. Stanley Simmons being the architect. Its original estimated cost was $600,000. The building has a width of 164½ feet and is 111 feet deep. Its current assessed value is $579,417, of which $79,417 represents land and $500,000, building. Subsequent owners are listed as Herman R. Howenstein and George E. Wyne, Embassy Apartment Co., Inc., Thomas F. Law and Ethel V. Law

413 AGAINST HOOVER, IS FRANCE'S CLAIM

Maryland Candidate Says He Is Far Ahead in Preference Primaries.

(Associated Press.)

Joseph I. France, former senator from Maryland and contender for the Republican presidential nomination, said yesterday in a statement that 413 delegates to the national convention were "against Hoover."

"I am unable to find where Hoover has more than 152 delegates, if we grant him California, uninstructed, and Ohio, which is doubtful," France said. "I have 231 instructed delegates and there are 52 from States favorable to me making 283, and there are 87 delegates from States which are definitely anti-Hoover and 43 more delegates from States presumably against the administration, making 413 delegates in all against Hoover."

Complaining that "the press" had failed to report the votes in primary States where the verdict was against the President, France said that as a result "the American people do not realize how decisively Mr. Hoover has been beaten, how completely he has been repudiated in every State where the people have had a chance to indorse or condemn his administration."

"In lists of delegates, reported as being for Hoover," the statement said, "there are always placed delegates from States which have instructed for me. Sometimes there is a generous concession that some of these are 'claimed' by me. I claim only what is mine by legal right and it will be unwise and vain for Mr. Hoover or another to claim delegates, instructed for me, for there will be a penalty.

"Certainly, under the Constitution, there can be no prison penalty for a delegate who would disregard the instruction or advice of the people at the primary election, but such a delegate, if there be one so dishonorable, would defeat his own purpose.

"Mr. Hoover might be nominated without the vote of delegates to which I am entitled, but he can not be nominated and elected if he takes any of my delegates before they have discharged their duty to the people and to myself by sincerely supporting my nomination.

"No man can be elected President of the United States whose nomination is tainted with fraud and dishonor."

Mr. France said the votes of "almost 1,000,000 Americans in eight States against his administration is an acknowledgment of our peril and a command to a great party to repudiate Hooverism."

A SOUND RELIEF PLAN.

Conflicting relief plans now seem to be the greatest menace to a balanced budget and early adjournment of Congress. Democratic leaders cling to their plan of issuing bonds for a public works program, and are apparently ready to translate them into legislation. President Hoover has announced his unqualified opposition to a bond issue for projects that would put a greater burden on taxpayers. This situation contains all the elements of a major controversy.

Whatever action is taken must be of a non-partisan nature, since neither party is in a position to enact a program of its own. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the leaders of Congress cooperate on a general measure that will meet with nonpartisan support. A row over relief measures that would prolong the existing legislative uncertainty and keep Congress in Washington most of the summer would not only destroy confidence, but would increase unemployment to a greater extent than it could be relieved by Government aid.

Congress ought to realize that it is dealing with a national emergency. A bond issue coming immediately in the wake of the new billion dollar tax bill would, in effect, unbalance the budget again. Still heavier taxes would have to be imposed to pay the interest and amortize the bonds. A vast sum of new capital that should be reserved for business and industry would be absorbed by unproductive public works which the people can not afford. What the country needs is not expansion of debt and construction of unnecessary public improvements, but a revival of ordinary business. The hope that unemployment can be overcome and prosperity restored by going farther into debt for luxuries is an obvious delusion.

Let Congress face the problem from a realistic point of view. This is no time to make unprofitable investments at the expense of taxpayers. Employment can not be created more easily by the issuance of bonds for projects of questionable usefulness than by advancing credit for works of a self-sustaining character. The latter plan involves no cost to taxpayers, while the former would saddle a tremendous new burden to their backs. President Hoover's plan contains an element of strength that can not be claimed for any other of the numerous plans that have been offered.

Leaders in both houses ought to unite in support of the President's plan. They can not afford to unbalance the budget with a bond issue, nor to precipitate a prolonged controversy over the form that the relief measure shall take. Non-partisan action on a measure that is economically sound is of the utmost importance.

HEARING FROM HOME.

It was a pleasant Sunday and normally Mr. Congressman would have been far from Capitol Hill, but the reporter found him in his office, his desk piled high with correspondence.

"I'm reading the letters from my constituents," was the explanation. "All week they accumulate, and I never get a chance to look them over except on Sunday."

Letters from the folks back home are pouring in upon members of both houses. Not since the hectic early months of 1917 has there been such an avalanche of mail. There may be cynics who imagine that senators and representatives pay no attention to uninvited communications, but such, in fact, is not the case. "The holder of every elective office is quick to take note of any reasonable expression of views regarding his course in office," says the Fall River Herald News. "He may not always follow the advice given in such missives, but he is not overlooking a single one of them. If, as in the 'write to your congressman' movement now under way, a hundred or a thousand or more letters, all to the same purpose, are mailed to a senator or representative, it goes without saying that he will sit up and take notice."

Some members maintain a score board for the tabulation of epistolatory opinion. Others have their secretaries keep track of the number of letters pro and con on prohibition, the soldiers' bonus, the sales tax, the postal rate increase, the world court and other current problems. The tallies vary. For example, letters in favor of rigid enforcement of laws against liquor increased following the abduction of the Lindbergh baby, and letters opposing American participation in the League of Nations and the world court increased when Japan won a diplomatic victory at Geneva. Naturally, members do not advertise the views of their constituents. That would imply in many instances a breach of confidence, and congressmen like to be considered decently independent.

Democracy functions in America in this indirect way. The public, when it wishes, can impress its agents. It can keep an effective check upon government.

A HIGH-TARIFF KEYNOTER.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, is asked to withdraw as temporary chairman and keynoter of the Democratic National Convention. When the supporters of Gov. Roosevelt selected Senator Barkley for that distinguished position he was considered an implacable foe of the protective tariff. Since that time the Kentuckian has yielded twice to the charms of the tariff Delilah.

Senator Barkley did not lead the fight for duties in the revenue bill, but his "ayes" were more eloquent than a two-hour speech. When the roll was called he voted in favor of both the oil and coal embargoes, without attempting to explain his action to the Senate. Did the senator suppose that his name would not be noticed among the many Democrats who cursed the tariff and then cast votes for tariffs that would benefit their own States? If so, he is now sadly disappointed.

Of course, there is nothing unusual in Senator Barkley's conduct. He followed the old game that has been played by high-tariff Democrats for many years. His embarrassment arises only from the fact that these duties are in a revenue bill rather than a regular tariff measure. When the tariff undergoes a general revision, Democrats insist on protection for every commodity of their home States and fight to keep such items in the bill through every stage. After making sure that the completed measure will pass, they ease their consciences and set themselves right with Democratic "principles" by voting against it. Thus their individual records as protectionists are concealed and they come forth as uncorrupted free traders, rejoicing secretly because of the benefits that will accrue to their States and advertising their oppostiion to the tariff "abomination."

Senator Barkley can not perpetrate this trick in this instance, because a final vote against the tax bill would cover up nothing. His votes for the coal and oil embargoes stand out, and will plague him if he attempts to proclaim the iniquities of the Republican tariff. It will not help him to proclaim that many distinguished Democrats share his embarrassment. That is true, they will not be targets at the national convention.

There are Democrats who sincerely oppose the protective tariff. They might make it very uncomfortable for Keynoter Barkley if he should attack the tariff at Chicago after he had voted the other way at Washington.

TURNING BACK TO GOLD.

European nations are not reaping the benefits from depreciated currencies that some of them anticipated. Temporary stimulation of production and increased prices not only encountered reactionary tendencies before results were appreciable, but the uncertainty and demoralization that ensued with regard to international exchange offset other minor gains. Already a definite endeavor to get back to gold as soon as practicable is evident.

The smaller central banks of continental Europe are increasing their gold purchases. These institutions in Holland, Belgium, Italy and Switzerland now have gold holdings aggregating $1,731,000,000, an increase of nearly $500,000,000 in the last six months. While the gold reserves of Austria, Poland and the Reichsbank have fallen slightly, there have been increases in the central banks of Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Paris, of course, remains the central stronghold of gold in Europe. Financiers there contend that "the idea which seems to be spreading in some sections that multiplication of credits and currency tokens without a proper monetary basis might cure the world depression is a crazy dream." France itself offers an argument against the theory that mere monetary inflation, in the present state of world markets, would be sufficient to raise prices. France has a superabundance of currency and vast stores of idle capital, yet prices do not recover there.

In England, following the suspension of the gold standard last fall, there was a 10 per cent increase in prices, but it was only temporary, and since the first of the year prices have been steadily falling. The growing confidence in the British financial position is directly due to the sustained efforts of the authorities in lowering the bank rate, improving government credit and increasing loanable funds.

Europe apparently is beginning to appreciate more fully the conservative French attitude that it is futile to attempt to force prices up again to the high levels of 1925; that on the contrary world economy will probably be forced to accommodate itself to a lower level. A general inflation of currencies would result in temporary stimulation of production, and prices would rise, but the inevitable rise in costs to match prices would follow, and relative positions would be resumed.

The nations which by force of circumstances were obliged to abandon the gold standard, and others which are experimenting, are simply reaffirming the lessons of all financial history and encountering more evil than good from cheap money. The United States is fortunate indeed that in the midst of many wild proposals for inflation and fiat issues the gold dollar is safely protected.

BUTLER'S FAIRY TALE.

All the world is at sea—excepting only Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. Men and women everywhere must be astounded to note how the absentee president of Columbia University maintains his equilibrium while all the rest of humanity is immersed in depression. Yet how can any one believe otherwise, when Dr. Butler testifies to the world's bankruptcy and his own clear vision?

Dr. Butler's latest fulminations on the progress of the United States toward the edge of a political precipice deserve a high place among the modern Mother Goose tales. He envisions the Republican national convention selecting a committee to make peace with the Democrats and to secure the adoption of a joint platform for the forthcoming campaign. Then these two conventions, "having risen to such a height, should politely turn their backs upon the office-holding and office-seeking class and draft from the abundant capable and intelligent citizenship of this land men to voice the principles with clearness, with definiteness and with courage." Of course, the hero thus selected would rise up and save the country, thereby writing his name with an immortal scrawl across the pages of American history.

Ah, but that is not all. Dr. Butler would not leave the strong man thus selected to grope in the dark. With meticulous care he has outlined a program which the hypothetical American Mussolini could put into effect for the salvation, not only of this country, but of the world. Although he deplores the abysmal ignorance of his countrymen, the international schoolmaster is not one to leave them in darkness.

Here is the Utopian formula: Repeal the eighteenth amendment; rip down the protective tariff; saddle the debts resulting from Europe's war upon American taxpayers; put a siphon in the Federal Treasury for relief of the unemployed; bring about "complete cooperation" with the League of Nations, and instantly join the League's so-called court of international justice. There are other provisions about reorganizing the Government and making the best economic knowledge available to the farmer, but these are the high spots. In short, Dr. Butler proposes to strike America a blow on the head to revive Europe.

After a glance at the program one gets the impression that the plan for putting it into effect is unduly modest. To carry this formula to its ultimate conclusion the new "United Liberal party" should join forces and throw America into a receivership for the benefit of every defunct nation under the sun.

Senator Borah will stay away from the Republican national convention. Now if Senator Norris will be equally kind, the Republican party will have still less to apologize for.

Speaker Garner's bill to unbalance the budget will be offered soon. The depression must be maintained until November, at all cost.

The beer barrel may be drifting to leeward, but the good ship Pork Bar'l steadily makes her way toward Treasury snug harbor.

Dr. Nick Butler insists that he is a liberal, and proves it by giving away his nostrums free of charge.

Anyhow, Dr. Frederick Cook is not charged with trying to swindle Col. Lindbergh.

ABUSE OF RADIO

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Canada's move toward recapture of the radio from private broadcasters is significant. The conviction is growing everywhere that it is a mistake to lend an instrument of such marvelous educational and cultural potentialities to commercialization. Dr. Lee De Forest, who shares with Marconi the honor of inventing radio, is bitterly disappointed with the uses that have been made of it. Visualizing it originally as a means of stimulating thought and elevating taste, he now finds that "insistent ballyhoo of sales talk interrupts 70 per cent of amusement programs, even over costly chains. One must wonder at the patience of the suffering public which listens to these at all."

Senator Dill, author of the Federal radio act, is another who suffers disillusionment. He recently made a trip to Europe and discovered that radio broadcasting there is far superior. In general, the secret is governmental control, with taxes on receiving sets. Great Britain, for example, owns and operates its own broadcasting company, as does Denmark. In the latter country, whose programs are the best in the world, there are more receiving sets in ratio to population than anywhere else.

Whereas our radio programs are composed largely of cheap jazz and cheap advertising, in Europe it is possible to take courses in language, history and science, conducted by noted authorities, to hear the best music and, in general, to find in the radio a valuable adjunct to life. Sir John Reith, of the British Broadcasting Co., defined its standard by saying, "The British Broadcasting Co. must always be in advance of public opinion, and not follow behind."

With Canada looking toward eventual nationalization of the radio, American broadcasters may read the handwriting on the wall. Either American broadcasting will improve immensely or it faces the threat of being taken over by the public. Senator Dill says the "American people will not tolerate private monopoly of radio" nor "endure too much blatant and direct advertising by radio."

POST HASTE.

The deadhead doughboys were surprised to find they made the world safe for the B. & O.

Congressmen have demonstrated that they can't read and do not understand sign language, but it's curious that it hasn't occurred to them spontaneously that it would be a good thing to balance the budget.

Senator Barkley has evened up his two votes for tariffs on oil and coal by opposing lumber and copper duties, so now he can make half of an antitariff keynote speech for the Democrats with a clear conscience.

To provide the revenue claimed for 2.75 beer every man, woman and child would have to drink a case of beer a month.

Prof. Einstein, with others at Geneva demanding total disarmament within five years, says: "We think we represent a very large body of impatient public opinion." With the conference reaching the Einstein stage it's no wonder the public is impatient.

As we read Gov. Roosevelt's last speech, he now agrees with himself that there is a depression and that something ought to be done about it.

The Senate has passed four embargo tariff items that will bring more trouble than revenue.

Gov. Roosevelt's reference to "the spirit of youth" is being minutely examined to see whether it has any bearing on his attitude toward alcoholic spirits.

Senator Johnson says "a stern sense of duty" will keep the Senate from going to Chicago. He correctly indicates where the kick will be sensed if it doesn't stay on the job.

It is rumored that if Gene Tunney can keep the peace as umpire of the interparty baseball game he may be utilized as a pinch-hit Speaker.

PAUL HUDSON.

FRENCH MOTOR POLICE.

The formation of a corps of civilian road police, which is now being considered by the authorities would insure safer driving in France if adopted, says the Christian Science Monitor. This corps would consist exclusively of motorists who had a clear record of ten years' careful and efficient driving, the automobile associations and clubs sending in the names of such drivers to the prefects of each department. These constables would be unpaid and would exercise their duties when driving for their own pleasure or business, their cars would fly a specified pennant, and they would have authority to stop any car driving dangerously. They would also give help and advice to other motorists. Such an organization would be welcome on the French roads, as policemen are to be found only in and around large towns.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WARTIME AND PEACETIME COURAGE.

True greatness lies in little deeds,
The present day and moment needs.
The soldier in a time of strife,
Who for another risks his life,
Today might paint his house to give
Work that another man may live.

True courage is to do the task
Which the stark need of Now may ask;
To use the utmost breadth and length
Of what we have of means and strength,
And putting self and ease away
Share in the burdens of the day.

Although it lacks all wartime thrills,
Who can should quickly pay his bills
Distinguished service now is that
Which though it runs the wallet flat
Still keeps in mind the needs of man
And gives employment when it can.

A Gram of Sugar Is a Great Prize If Measured by the Standards of an Ant

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If there is truth in the Christian religion, the humblest of mortals is a son and heir of the Creator and is himself divine.

Jesus was not the only son of God.

He said: "I am the vine; ye are the branches."

But the vine and its branches are one. The same substance is in both. The same life is in both. What the vine is, the branches are. If He was a son of God, men are sons of God.

He taught men to say: "Our Father."

If God is indeed your Father, are you not divine? And if you are divine, and a son of the Creator of all things, why do you hesitate to claim the privileges of your kinship?

Fear God, yes; but not as you fear things that threaten you. Fear only to offend Him, as you fear to offend those you love greatly.

If he is your Father, and in spirit is ever present with you, why don't you talk with Him and learn the value of His love?

Why don't you say: "This is going to be a hard pull for me, Father. Hold me fast and lend me your strength."

Why don't you say: "I am nearly whipped and spent, Father. Let me lean on you and rest."

But, you say, my Father would give me things I ask for.

But, no. He gives "good things to them that ask Him." The savage who measures wealth in human skulls chides his gods for giving him so few. Another savage, whose standards are more like yours, complains because his god gives him so few of the copper bracelets and anklets that seem wealth to him.

If you are the Father's son, heir to the many mansions—the countless worlds that circle about the countless stars in His universe—why should you spend your life gathering a little money and property to leave behind you? Perhaps you have the wrong definition of "good things."

Any man who learns to talk with his Father, and thus becomes aware of His love and His nearness, will develop a new sense of values and a new conception of man's inherent dignity.

A royal prince, in school to prepare himself for the throne, does not regard school prizes as the chief end of life.

Preface to Sanity.

Minneapolis Journal.

Here is a hopeful sign. The doors of the Federal Building in a small city in the Southwest were out of order. About $100 worth of hardware would have fixed them. But the Federal authorities at Washington decided to install new doors, and advertised for bids. The lowest bidder asked more than $3,000.

And then the local chamber of commerce stepped in and urged that the Government spend not $3,000 for new doors, but $100 for the hardware needed to repair the old doors.

We hope this news reaches the halls of Congress; also the sanctums of the bureaucrats. For it may be significant of a sharp about face in the public's erstwhile attitude toward Federal expenditures.

The Senate committee investigating the stock market brings out evidence that three years ago Mr. Raskob, as a member of a 7-day radio pool, made a profit of $221,000. Mr. Raskob, according to testimony, put up $1,000,000. His return within a week, it might be said, was fair. And if the amount has been reported correctly, Mr. Raskob himself could testify that the return is substantially in advance of any sum yet realized on his investment in Democratic party funds.

Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, protests against the Goldsborough bill. His objection is based on the reason that in directing the board to restore the 1921-28 commodity price level the bill would be ordering a miracle beyond the power of the board to perform.

But from the congressional viewpoint this is a curious objection. Doesn't Mr. Meyer see that all Congress wants is to be able to go home and tell admiring constituents that it ordered prices up and if they don't obey it isn't Congress' fault.

Paste in Your Hat.

Farzo Forum.

In sending out a call for campaign funds to more than 100 Democrats in the $1,500,000 fund-raising drive, the Democratic national committee claims certain victory in 15 States and concedes certain defeat in none.

In fact, the committee admits now that it is just going to be a landslide.

Besides the States listed as certain, which include the solid south, Maryland, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, the committee speaks of practical certainty of carrying New York, West Virginia, Delaware, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, &c. The only States that the committee figures there is any probability that the Republicans might win are California, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Vermont, and these are labeled "least probable but possible."

Why, then, raise $1,500,000 for a campaign that is already won?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Ensen Offers Philosopher's View of the Machine Age.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "The machine age" is a phase used by certain writers as though it were an ultimate epithet, a final arraignment, a complete indictment. For a long time it was the apotheosis of opprobrium. Then Albert Einstein, the scientist, and Jacob Epstein, the artist, presumed to defend the horrid thing. Now, at last, it has been metamorphosed into a kind of compliment, and is a fashionable label for a veritable host of ideas including many which have nothing whatever to do with machinery or with machine concepts.

Of course, the fact is that the machine age is no more a separate or detached integral of time than any other period of human history. It is just a clever descriptive title for an era of transition, the beginning of which may be traced back to the emergence of the mariner's compass from China by way of the Arabs and the Moors, and the conclusion of which is a matter of purely speculative interest. No age ever has been dominated by machinery; no age ever will be. No people ever have been regimented into machine-like uniformity; no people ever will be. The machine is a tool, an instrument, a utensil, powerless but for the brain and the controlling hand of man. The stone hatchet was a machine; the bow and arrow, the spear and the harpoon, likewise. The moment man expands his range of action by the employment of any lifeless material or substance, he creates a machine. But these inventions do not govern him; on the contrary, he governs them.

There is nothing discreditable about the possessing of material means of labor any more than there is about the possessing of intellectual capacities or physical strength. It is just here that Mahatma Gandhi and other critics of twentieth century progress go astray. They fail to understand that it is no more honorable to perform a given task laboriously than it is to perform it easily and comfortably. They seem to imagine that if an article is crude and primitive it has particular merit for its very rudeness. The notion is sheer nonsense. And Gandhi has repeatedly contradicted himself in his attitude toward the fruits of modern inventive and cooperative genius. He preaches distrust and hatred of western civilization, yet rides in a motor car, uses the telephone, telegraph and cable systems, operates a printing press, sends publicity notices to the newspapers, for all the world like a commercial magnate of Great Britain or the United States. These mute testimonials to the development he pretends to despise prove his recognition of their value. He simply can not restore the India of the Middle Ages, and if he could he would regret it. Salvation for his people, as he ought to realize, lies in using, not in merely abusing, the extensions of human energy and resource produced by generations of toiling men of every far-flung race.

The philosopher will endeavor to be realistically objective in the consideration of such a problem. He will neither fear nor make an idol of the present era of mechanical progress. He will know that it is neither to be hated nor worshiped. He will understand that the end is not yet, that his little moment in this world is but a transitory flash across the universal scene, and that nothing—not even a machine—is wholly good or bad in the static sense of being utterly and permanently finished. ARNOLD ENSEN.

Identity Cards for All Citizens Would Help to Eliminate Crime.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to Gen. John J. Pershing's article in the American Magazine, proposing various methods for dealing with criminals and gangsters in this country, permit me to say that his suggestion in regard to identification cards for all, as is required in Europe, would certainly be a very serious blow to the underworld.

During my residence in France, I found that it was the never-ending wonder of the law enforcement officials of that country to determine how the United States could make any progress whatever in tracing criminals without identification cards, and it is universally admitted that without such cards in Europe it would be impossible for the police to arrive at any satisfactory results in the suppression of crime.

As Gen. Pershing says, the right of anonymity should be abandoned in the United States, as it is entirely too easy for a man to move from city to city, changing his name and leaving his past performance behind him as if it were an old coat. Of course, there will be a great deal of objection to this, as many of our citizens will say that we are infringing upon American freedom. However, I do not see that this is the case, as it is primarily a protection for all law-abiding citizens and need only be feared by the enemies of society. J. W. J.

Mr. Brooks Believes Mr. Glover Was Right in Demanding Loyalty of Postmasters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Norris has a spasm because Mr. Glover, of the Postoffice Department, called on postmasters to be loyal to the President and to the Government in time of stress and trial. Radical newspapers echo his indignation. The country is treated to another exhibition of political hysteria, slander and untruth.

No man has any right to Government employment who is not loyal to the Government and to the Government's chief. A postoffice is no proper place for political intrigue.

If there is any postmaster who is disloyal to the President or engaged in campaigning against him, he ought not to be permitted to resign; he ought to be taken by the ears and tossed out of the place he has not had intelligence enough to appreciate. GORDON BROOKS.

STEAGALL BANK BILL FACES HOUSE TODAY

Consideration Postponed on Plea of Ill Members; To Guarantee Deposits.

(Associated Press.)

An agreement was reached in the House yesterday to take up the Steagall billion dollar bank deposit guarantee bill today.

The Democratic leadership postponed until today consideration of the bill because of illness of several members interested in it.

Speaker Garner predicted that the measure would be passed by Friday and sent to the Senate.

He said Representative Brand (Democrat), Georgia, a member of the committee who is ill, requested the delay until he recovers. Mr. Brand helped Chairman Steagall, of the banking committee, draft the bill.

Setting up an initial fund of $300,000,000 to be derived entirely from earnings of the Federal Reserve Banks, the legislation provides for resources reaching approximately $2,000,000,000 to insure the safety of the financial institutions for the public welfare.

In filing the unanimous report of the banking committee on the measure, Chairman Steagall said it "is intended to encourage the organization of banks by making investment in banking capital more attractive, to provide stricter methods of examination, better management, and protection to depositors."

Citing that during the past ten years, 7,800 banks, with deposits totaling $2,500,000,000, had failed, the Alabama Democrat said:

"Loss of confidence is the major factor in this unhappy development. The removal of this fear is the first indispensable step toward business recovery in the United States."

The bill would create a Federal liquidating board composed of the Treasury Secretary, the Comptroller General and three presidential appointees, not connected with the Federal Reserve system in any way, to supervise the guaranty fund.

Wounded Taxi Driver Denies Violating Law

Accidentally shot in the shoulder in a scuffle with Policeman Irving Lubore, when he resisted arrest, Leroy T. Richards, colored, yesterday entered a plea of not guilty to violating a hacking regulation when he was arraigned before Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court.

Richards, who allegedly was "cruising" on Seventh street and had no hacker's license, attempted to brush the policeman from his cab by running close to parked cars. In an ensuing scuffle, Lubore's gun went off and Richards was shot through the shoulder. He escaped and was caught later.

Hawley's Dry Stand Factor In His Defeat in Primary

Prohibition Tide Seen Receding in Oregon as Beer Offers Needed Revenue for Hop Growers; Failure to Write Lumber Tariff Also Hurt.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

After 24 years on Capitol Hill, Representative Willis Chatman Hawley (Republican), of Oregon, has been voted out of office, banished from the political scene by the members of his own party.

To those who had come to regard Hawley as a fixture in the House, his defeat in Monday's Republican primary was something of a shock. To those familiar with conditions in Oregon, however, it seemed inevitable.

Contrary to what the Democratic national committee is saying, it was not the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill that defeated Hawley. At least, it was not the high rates in that bill that defeated him. Hawley's political sin, in the eyes of many Oregonians, was not that he went too far in his tariff bill, but that he did not go far enough. His was a sin of omission. He failed to write in a tariff on lumber that would protect Oregon against Canadian competition.

Dry Tide Seen Receding.

But that was only one of the things that contributed to Hawley's defeat. In addition to lumber, there might be mentioned these: Beer, bonus, town jealousy and insurance.

Hawley is a dry. Seemingly he had good reason to be, for Oregon is a pioneer prohibition State. Lately, however, the tide has turned. One reason for this is the fact that Oregon is America's foremost producer of hops, an essential element in beer.

James W. Mott, Hawley's opponent in Monday's primary election, pledged himself to vote for a return of beer and thus enrich the hop growers. Hawley remained steadfast in his opposition to a change, and the result was that the hop growers went to Mott.

Hawley, ranking Republican on the ways and means committee, voted against full payment of the so-called soldier bonus, and the veterans in his district—at least, a good many of them—took it out on him at the polls.

Town Jealousy.

Hawley managed to persuade the Veterans' Administration to locate a soldiers' home in Oregon. Several towns wanted it. Naturally, it could only go to one.

The towns other than the one Hawley designated became resentful, and this resentment was expressed in Monday's primary.

Hawley is a director of the Woodmen of the World, a fraternal insurance organization. As the result of an adjustment of rates, many Woodmen in the Salem district were forced to pay higher rates. Some of them "got even" by cutting Hawley at the polls.

Troubles Bunched.

To add to all these troubles, the father of the 1930 tariff act made the mistake of buying an overcoat manufactured in England. This, of course, was an accident, but it didn't do him any good.

Lumber, beer, bonus, jealousy, and insurance—each aroused animosity against Hawley. Together they formed a barricade that blocked his continuance in office.

To the other politicians on the Hill, such an upset is a cause for terror. They are told by President Hoover to ignore the "organized minorities," and to think, not alone of their districts, but of the Nations as a whole.

All that Hawley has done lately is to insist on a balancing of the budget. And now, say the others, see what has happened to him.

Junior Leagues Plan Program of "Deeds"

Los Angeles, May 24 (A.P.).—Leading 250 delegates, Mrs. Roger S. Sperry, of Waterbury, Conn., president of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, arrived here today for the organization's twelfth annual conference. She told a welcoming committee the membership was looking toward a program of "deeds, not words."

The delegates arrived on three special trains for the four-day convention, the first meeting of the association in the Far West. A dinner tonight formally opened the meeting. It has been announced that the convention will formulate plans to increase its service to the Nation's destitute.

Man and Woman Hurt As Auto Upsets in Crash

A man and a woman were slightly hurt last night when the automobile in which they were riding was overturned in a collision at Rhode Island avenue and Sixth street northwest. Both, however, refused hospital treatment.

The machine, operated by Frank I. Williams, 35 years old, of 6401 Blair road northwest, was turned over on its side when it was in collision with a taxicab operated by Heywood Hunter, 23 years old, colored, of 1250 Linden street northwest, which was turning from Sixth street into the avenue. Williams was shaken up and Miss Mafy Barker, 30, of 6522 Georgia avenue northwest, received cuts on her forehead.

THRONGS HAIL DO-X, BACK ON BERLIN SOIL

16,000-Mile Overseas Trip Is Completed With Hop From England.

Berlin, day 24 (A.P.).—The German flying boat DO-X, largest heavier-than-air craft, completed its transatlantic travels of almost two years with a mad spurt through storm areas over northern Germany today, alighting at Mueggel Lake on the outskirts of Berlin, without incident.

Thousands gathered along the wooded lake shores in the southeastern environs of Berlin cheered wildly when the airliner appeared against the evening sky to complete a voyage of approximately 16,000 miles, in which it visited both South and North America, as well as Africa.

The smartly dressed Fraulein Antonia Strassman, who as one of the DO-X crew, was the first European woman to cross the Atlantic by plane, was enraptured by the experience. She boarded the boat in the United States as passenger-purser.

The crew was in top spirits and seemingly not a bit tired. Capt. Frederick Christiansen said he wished to express his appreciation for what he called a wonderful reception in America.

He described the trip from Calshot, England, where the ship left this morning, as uneventful. The boat, he said, behaved splendidly all the way.

A member of the crew said the DO-X battled against headwinds and intermittently stormy weather from England to Berlin. It settled down on the lake shortly before 6:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m., Eastern standard time).

Roper Hits Report Of Quitting Board

Denies He Will Not Stand for Reappointment to Education Group.

Daniel C. Roper denied the report yesterday afternoon that he would not stand for reappointment to the Board of Education at the end of the present school year.

Mr. Roper described the report, which appeared in an afternoon newspaper, as "entirely unauthorized" and could not explain where the information originated.

The lawyer and former commissioner of internal revenue pointed out that the fact that he was appointed last February to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. Charles F. Carusi might be construed to mean that he was serving only for the length of this term. Dr. Carusi's term would have expired June 30.

Finding of Arctic Message Bares Tale of Faded Hopes

Capt. E. B. Baldwin, Leader of Polar Expedition 30 Years Ago, Tells of Pleas for Aid, Miscarried by Winds.

While members of the Baldwin-Zeigler Arctic Expedition watched, their minds full of thoughts of home, they saw favorable winds change to unfavorable and waft their balloon-carried message of distress deeper into the ice-bound Arctic.

This was described yesterday by Capt. Evelyn Briggs Baldwin, leader of the expedition, who now works in the historical section of the Navy Department, when he learned through an Associated Press dispatch from Leningrad, U. S. S. R., that one of the messages which he sent 30 years ago had been found by the Soviet Arctic station in Nova Zembla.

Capt. Baldwin, veteran of four Arctic treks, consulted notes which he made 30 years ago and said the message just found was sent on June 7, 1902.

At the time the balloon was released, he said, a wind which would carry it toward Norway, where its message might be found promptly, was blowing. But an hour later the balloon had risen into the higher air, which took it eastward, toward Nova Zembla.

Conditions were similar when the balloon, which was found in Nova Zembla last summer, was released, Capt. Baldwin said. Then, again, the message started in the right direction, but changed course when it struck a different current in the higher atmosphere.

More than 150 messages were sent by the party and all but about 25 have been recovered. Although the expedition despaired of help, they eventually succeeded in retreating to Norway, saving all members. However, long preparations for a trip to the North Pole were lost.

According to the Associated Press the message found in Nova Zembla reads:

"Headquarters Baldwin-Zeigler Expedition, Franz Josef Land, June 7, 1902:

"To the Nearest American Consulate:

"Imperative and urgent that we get a supply of coal. Also desirable to get hay for five ponies and dried fish for 150 dogs.

"We expect to return about the beginning of August and probably won't realize our plans, but we will not be defeated. BALDWIN."

tigation. Ring has a very slight chance for recovery, hospital attaches said.

In a statement made to police, Neill said that Ring had come to his house daily for several days, and yesterday came three times. The third time, he said, Ring tried to break in the back door. Neill then ran out the front door to get his own gun, which was in his car parked in front of the house, he said. Ring came around the corner of the house and started shooting and Neill returned the fire, the statement said.

Ring's statement says that Neill came to his home three weeks ago and threatened him. Yesterday he drove his cab to Neill's house, taking his gun. Neill then came down the steps of the building with a gun in his hand and started to shoot first, Ring told police.

Police said they learned that about the middle of April Neill, a war veteran, drew nearly $2,000 from the Government. He and Ring then embarked on a series of parties with the money. About three weeks ago, at a party in Johnson City, Tenn., the two men quarelled over a sum of money which had disappeared. Neill accused Ring of taking it. Neill said yesterday that the money was now nearly all gone.

According to Private G. A. Williams, a witness to the shooting, the men were standing within a few feet of one another when the fight started yesterday. After Ring had fired several times, his gun, a .32-caliber automatic, jammed, and he turned and ran. Williams overtook him after a short chase and then took him to the hospital.

Neill, after the shooting, ran into his own house and up the stairs, shouting "Call an ambulance!" He told police he hid the gun in a closet in his room at this time, but they were unable to find it. Leaving the house, he got into his own car and started to drive away. Private A. R. G. Houch, off duty and on his way home, heard the shooting and arrived in time to see Neill drive away. He chased Neill's car for three blocks on foot, finally overtaking him at Fifth and G streets northwest, where the veteran was arrested.

AMELIA EARHART, whose non-stop solo flight across the Atlantic in 15 hours and 39 minutes, broke all time records for trans-Atlantic crossings. She used "Standard" products — Stanavo Aviation Gasoline and Stanavo Aviation Engine Oil.

She Needed Everything ... She Had Everything

It takes plenty of flying skill to solo across the Atlantic. But that's only part. It takes good weather, good judgement, good instruments, courage, ability, training. And it takes an adequate supply of fuel and oil that you know you can depend on. A trans-Atlantic flight takes everything.

"STANDARD" HAS EVERYTHING!
Check it!

- ✓ CARBON-LESS—Spark plugs, pistons, cylinders and valves stay clean. Saves repair bills.
- ✓ GUM-LESS—No clogged manifolds—no sticky valves. Cuts repair bills.
- ✓ SULPHUR-LESS—No corrosion. Saves repair bills.
- ✓ ANTI-KNOCK—Extra power, less noise, less upkeep cost through reduced hammering of pistons and bearings. Cuts repair bills.
- ✓ QUICK STARTING—Minimum use of choke—quick power and pick-up—less contamination of crankcase oil.
- ✓ "BUBBLE-FREE"—No stalling and bucking from vapor bubbles in gas line and carburetor—even, steady flow of power in the hottest motor.
- ✓ ODOR-LESS—Refined "sweet"—no disagreeable smells.
- ✓ CRYSTAL CLEAR—Made clear—stays clear—a guarantee of perfect cleanliness. Saves money.
- ✓ UNIFORM—Same quality and results always, everywhere. Always more miles for your money.

If your car bucks and stalls in hot weather and heavy traffic, if you're paying needless repair bills for cleaning valves or carbon jobs, you're not getting your money's worth. You're paying twice for your gasoline. Once at the pump and again at the repair shop.

1932 gasoline must have everything. "Standard" 1932 gasoline has everything.

Quick starting for traffic jams. Smooth and silent power when you need it. Added miles of low cost, trouble free transportation. Read the list at the left. Check it. It spells savings. A sweet engine.

Next time you buy gasoline—buy "Standard."

It has everything a real gasoline should have.

Recital Is Set Friday By Denishawn Dancers

The second annual recital of the Washington branch of Denishawn will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m. at the Wardman Park Theater. The recital will be directed by Marian Chace and Lester Shafer.

Miss Tania Gnoocheff, formerly of the Denishawn School, now a member of the Ruth St. Denis concert dancers, will take part in the program. A group of 30 pupils of the school will take part in a diversified program.

Mrs. Gann to Plant Tree With Historic Shovel

Using the same shovel which President Hoover used for the planting of the first Bicentennial tree, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will plant a tree on the grounds of the Janney School at 2:30 o'clock Friday.

The planting has been arranged by the Janney Parent-Teacher Association, which will be entitled to a place on the honor roll of the American Tree Association.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

Plans a Day's Outing.

WEDNESDAY already and still no word of that picnic we spoke of last Monday. Well, let's be about it. It can, of course, be a "cooking" picnic or a cold one prepared at home. I've a feeling the latter is a more popular sort of picnic anyway, for women seem to think that if they actually "cook" the dinner (even though it be done under the bright blue sky) they have been "put upon" and have had no outing at all. They forget, somehow, that all the getting ready at home for a cold picnic has been avoided; no sandwiches have taken hours in preparation and all such. For a "cooking" picnic we drop a packet of butter, a bundle of "hot dogs" or hamburg steak, still in its store package, into a basket. A frying pan goes in, too, and kitchen plates (cracks and all), knives, forks, cups, spoons, cold-boiled potatoes (and a second skillet) to say nothing of a few tomatoes to slice, some sliced bread and the kitchen salt and pepper jars. Paper napkins and a yard square of oil cloth completes the list. A fire is built in a nest of stones (oh, yes, and a wire rack—an old one from an old oven is perfect—goes along, and two long-handled spoons) and in a jiffy a hot meal is ready. Son, daughter, neighbor friends, or, yes, even father, who is never known to help around the house, must be pressed into service and attend to getting the plates, knives and forks onto the oilcloth which is of surer foundation if placed in the center of a motor robe. Food is served from its hot pans placed on a flat stone set near the "table," and one ends the feast with coffee put over the fire after the first course comes off. With the coffee comes a cake made the day before and saved, intact, for the picnic.

But we still think that despite the appeal of the "cooking picnic" more friends will be interested in the other sort, so here's a menu—it will need no explaining:

MEMORIAL DAY PICNIC SUPPER.

Cold Fried Chicken
Chopped Bacon, Celery and Mayonnaise Finger Roll Sandwiches
Brown Bread, Nut, Orange Juice and Mayonnaise Sandwiches
Tomato Stuffed with Diced Snappy Favored Cheese and Chopped Olives
Watercress
Individual Strawberry Shortcakes
Coffee

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Veal Loaf with Vegetables
Potato Puff
Caramel Tomatoes
Icebox Rolls
Dressed Watercress
Plain Bavarian Cream
Tea or Coffee

Veal Loaf with Vegetables.

1 pound uncooked veal, ground
3 strips bacon
1 egg
2-3 cupful breadcrumbs
1 small onion
1 carrot
½ green pepper
2 pieces of celery
½ tablespoonful chopped parsley
1 cupful of tomato, stewed and strained
Salt and pepper to taste

Grind together the onion, carrot, pepper and celery or any leftover vegetables and the bacon. Mix with the veal and add the egg, breadcrumbs and seasonings. Form into a loaf and put into well-greased pan. Dot with butter and cover with the tomato. Place in a hot oven, gradually reducing the heat to moderate. Bake for about one and three-quarter hours, adding a little water from time to time, if necessary. Make a gravy, adding a bouillion cube, and serve the loaf either hot or cold.

Caramel Tomatoes.

Remove a small slice from the stem end of tomatoes (one for each person to be served), scoop out a bit of pulp and place in shallow baking pan. Fill cavities with sugar, place a generous piece of butter on each, sprinkle the whole with salt and bake in moderate oven until tomatoes are done, but still whole, keeping the bottom of pan covered with water. When done place on thick rounds of hot toast, garnish with a sprig of parsley and a slice of bacon and serve.

Plain Bavarian Cream.

2 tablespoonfuls gelatin, granulated
½ cupful cold water
4 egg yolks
1 pint milk, scalded
¼ cupful sugar
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1 pint heavy cream
Salt

Soak gelatin in cold water for ten minutes. Make a soft custard of the milk, egg yolks, sugar and flavoring, stir the softened gelatin into the hot custard. Let cool. Whip the cream and fold it in as the mixture congeals.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped self-addressed envelope, and give age weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—Is rye bread good to eat for reducing? I have been eating whole-wheat breads all along and am getting tired of them. Would rye bread do just as well?

Enjoy your column very much and have been successful so far in controlling this weight of mine.

EDYTHE.

Taking whole-wheat and rye bread and comparing them calorie for calorie, Edythe, here is what we find: One piece of whole-wheat 3¼x3¼x¼ inches contains forty calories and one piece of rye 3½x4x¼ inches thirty-eight calories. The difference is so slight that it is not worth bothering about, you will agree. The important thing to remember is to eat moderately of all breads, no matter of what variety, at least while you are concentrating on reducing. Whole-grain breads are more satisfying than others, and, for this reason, as well as for their valuable mineral content, especially valuable.

Glad to know you enjoy the column, Edythe, and continued good luck to you. Just master that appetite of yours—that's all. Watch your calories carefully and your weight will control itself.

To Doris H—Your present weight is quite correct—120, according to the charts. To keep this weight, you will require at least 2,400 calories daily, and you will find that this amount will not only allow you to eat "normally" again, but will, at the same time, keep you as you are. All that will be necessary, I am thinking, is that you stay away from sweets and those in-between-meal "snatches" in which you used to indulge.

Yours truly,
Nancy Carey

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

An Unfit Home.

DEAR Frances McDonald: If I am an unnatural person—as my mother assures me I am—please tell me so. I will accept your word for it. Here are the facts: I am a girl of 22, a stenographer, and well regarded. I have two sisters, 20 and 18. Both also self-supporting and self-respecting. We all three educated ourselves at night for our jobs, having been sent to work at 16. I have a sister 10 and brother 12.

We have now reached a point where we want something very definite done about our father. He has never contributed to our support, as mother kept four boarders as long as I can remember, and my father never worked except when he wanted clothes. Then he would work for a month or less. He is now about 45, five years younger than mother, and has taken to making hooch and selling it or giving it to the boarders. I say he sells it to them. He says he gives it. Last Sunday two of them were around all day in a terrible state. They are decent fellows until my disgrace of a father fills them with liquor. Then they are far from decent. I refuse to have my little sister reared in such an atmosphere, and on Sunday I told them I was going to court about it, which I will positively do before I have her running away from a lot of drink-crazed men. She is very nervous and gets all upset, as any child would.

My mother refuses to put my father out, or cross him in any way. They can, of course, manage without the board my sisters and myself pay them, so they have told us to go. But that is not what I want. I do not care about myself. It is the children I am enraged about. A 12-year-old boy seeing hooch made and sold. I know the men buy it. None of them even speaks to me because of the stand I have taken. But I mean what I say that if I leave that house the children come, too—legally. That is when I was called an unnatural daughter. One of the boarders supplied that idea and mother has harped on it ever since. Is it unnatural to want a decent home for two sweet children? My two sisters and I make in all $58 a week. We could take care of the children financially if I could be appointed guardian. At home we never know where our money goes. Besides our board of eight a week, it is borrow, borrow all the time and never pay back. I am engaged and the man is right back of me in this. He saw the whole thing Sunday and begged me to clear out before my nerves crack. But I am not worrying about nerves. I want the kids out of that house. I consider my mother no better than my father—and I told her so on Mother's Day while I piled the children into my friend's car to escape the bedlam of our home.

Am I an unnatural daughter?

ANNE.

Your disgust is justified. But you must be calm. Go to the probation department of family court and tell your story. It is just possible that a probation officer may be sent to investigate, without the unpleasantness of bringing your father into court—which you should avoid if you can. The fact that an officer arrives may be sufficient to convince your people that you mean business and may be all that is necessary. Try that method. We find in good will family court that the quiet way often is the best way. And you always have the real court to fall back upon. If the probation department insists upon a court order, then go to the Children's Society. But most family courts settle as many cases as possible outside the courtroom. In any case, keep calm, refrain from bitterness, and do not condemn your mother too severely for the weakness that is truly an infirmity. Be firm, but not vindictive, and all will be well.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

MORE ABOUT ARRANGING A BORDER.

ON Monday we discussed the placing of plants in a border for a succession of bloom from early spring until late fall. Today we wish to continue with this subject, but to dwell more particularly on the color arrangement.

Hollyhocks are very decorative in a perennial border. The pink and white varieties never add a discordant note to any color scheme. The yellow and maroons must be used with caution.

Blue and white, when arranged in large masses, is always satisfying. An example of this is madonna lilies placed close to delphinium. Coreopsis are well placed when growing near the lupines. Shasta daisies will be beautiful near the pink sweet williams or the larkspur. Yellow and white columbine is always best when planted together.

The golden marguerites are gorgeous when planted in masses. Asters are colorful and useful for the background of the border. The shorter species are frequently used to bring a spot of color into the border in the late fall. Gypsophila and purple delphinium form an esthetic combination. Plant foxgloves among evergreens in clumps. When planting phloxes be sure to separate the scarlets from the magentas and the pinks from the purples. The white varieties may be used for separating the colors just mentioned.

The butterfly bush is always useful for the back of the border, where a mass of lavender is wanted. Avoid variegated flowers, they are likely to appear "muddy" in the distance. Use care when combining reds. It is impossible to explain any color scheme in a few words. What is pleasing to one may jar the tastes of another. Most authorities advocate the use of light-toned varieties with bluish-green foliage for the ends and the introduction of more intense coloring as the center of the bed is approached.

Never attempt to plant perennials, or, in fact, any plants when the garden is in an excessively wet condition, after frequent or heavy rains; working the soil when it is in a muddy state is never practical.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Discreetly trimmed with handwork, delightfully freshened with collar and cuffs in pale rose, this black jersey morning dress is entirely Parisian! (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Peu De Changement Dans Ligne Mais Abondance D'Idees Nouvelles Dans Les Garnitures."

And while you are trying to figure that out with your French dictionary I'll tell you that it is nothing you haven't read before right here. But since it came from a very important French publication, I do think you ought to see it repeated!

Jenny has an amusing coat which shows one of her "Nouvelle Idees." In the shape of two hoops of nacre—and where they happen. One of them forms the belt buckle, and at the same time allows one-half of the fur which makes the revere of the collar, to start in this same hoop. This fur revere ends right on the opposite shoulder where one would expect a bouttionniere—only instead of a bouttioniere there is another hoop! Then the collar goes right on and ends as all well-behaved collars should end, only in cloth instead of fur.

Another new idea which is decidedly of this season yet shows no change in silhouette or lines, is the bit of printed tissue, "Pour Indiquer La Taille Haute." My, I'm just full of dashes to the dictionary today! These little bits of printed touches are novel, and sometimes more than indicate high waist lines—and sometimes they are just a little collar, or a big collar for that matter. Sometimes they go further and become sleeves and shoulders to a darker dress, but always they "indicate the higher waist." Further, yet, they become the entire bodice of the darker dress.

Yesterday we told you a few of the surprises you will find in this week's leaflet. I told you what you might do with one evening gown to make it look like five or six, but I didn't have room to tell you that the same leaflet offers you the same ideas in sport dresses or business things. Combination dresses are absolutely the latest from Paris—my deahs—so don't turn up your pretty noses at "economy" because it (economy not turned up noses) is stylish these days. Varieties are infinite in sportswear.

With one good skirt you can wear any number of blouses or jackets or different scarfs and accessories if you know how. Better send for the leaflet right away—it is yours for a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

Morning frocks for town wear can be so-o-o-o-o darling! I just simply love this one from Mirande that I sketched for you today. It was of black jersey, and trimmed with those tiny cross-across tucks you know? Right in the material, of course. And rose crepe collar and cuffs, also trimmed with those tiny tucks. Like it?

* * * *

Heim only could have suggested a draped belt in brown kid for a light gray dress! And then a brown astrakhan jacket—sounds less exciting than it really is—but the wee sketch shows it somewhat, doesn't it?

Au Revoir.

Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE,
Famous Beauty Expert.

Make Sure Ears Are Lovely to Look at If Coiffure Exposes Them.

"CONSTANT READER" wants to know why women insist on showing unlovely looking ears to the world. And she also wants to know how she can "wear ears well."

Elsie Pierce.

One reason why so many young women are adopting the coiffure that reveals all or at least part of the ear is the fact that such a style is almost universally becoming, and it is youthifying to say the least. The older woman and the woman with a too full face are the only types who need avoid this style. Besides, of course, the woman whose ears are surrounded by the little deep folds or wrinkles, &c., or whose ears are too large.

Now that ears are coming out of their hiding places, more and more women are manifesting an interest in them and really treating them as part of the face. Which is as it should be. There's something very lovely and feminine about a cared-for, shell-pink ear tip or lobe bobbing out of a soft, flattering wave.

Cleansing and Toning.

Whenever you cleanse the skin, carry your cleansing cream up on your neck, behind the ears, and also on the small area of skin between the ears and the hair line. Go over the front of the ears, too, the outer ear, of course. Now very carefully remove all cleansing cream with the soft tissues that are so popular today. Sponging and gentle patting with skin tonic to stimulate the circulation should follow the cleansing. This will help to overcome sallowness and will keep the tissues surrounding the ears firm and youthful looking. This is sufficient daily treatment for the ears. When there is general dryness, or whenever a tissue cream or skinfood is used, this should be carried behind the ears and along the front of the outer ear too. Behind the ear massage in a firm but gentle round and round motion, upward. Massage the front of the ear with thumb and forefinger upward from lobe to tip, and leave just a bit of the cream on overnight.

In case of blackheads, follow the cream cleansing with soap massage, using a coarse wash cloth, a mild, bland soap and lukewarm water. Be sure to work up a good lather, and doubly sure to rinse very thoroughly.

Make-Up.

When using powder on the face be sure to powder the neck also and carry the powder up around the back of the ears, also well out on the cheeks and over the ears. A touch of rouge, just the faintest suggestion, on the ear lobes is a make-up trick that most women find helpful.

Do be sure that your ears are lovely to look at, if the coiffure exposes them. If you wish to be convinced that this is extremely important, look around you, particularly at the women in front of you in the theater.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

AS REFRESHING AS SPRING ITSELF.

A trim, chic affair is this navy blue and white crepe silk print with plain navy blue crepe contrast. Topped by the plain blue crepe makes it very practical for street without a coat. Large bone buttons in blue accent the slimming wrapped closure. The bias cut of the skirt across the hips also tends to cut breadth. Modish fullness is given the skirt by cleverly placed inverted plaits at the center-front and at the center-back.

It is delightfully easy to fashion it. Its small cost will surprise you. For the medium size it takes but 2¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Style No. 2790 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust.

Carried out in one material, it is equally attractive as in marine blue crinkle crepe or flat crepe silk.

Ultra-new and smart is to use beige crepe silk for the dress with the upper bodice and sleeves of black crepe silk.

A monotone diagonal sheer woolen would also be very lovely.

If you are planning ahead for summer, choose tub silk, plain or printed linen, a novelty cotton in mesh or diagonal lacy woolen weave, pique or a batiste print.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize.

You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by spending 10 cents for this book. So we hope you will send your order today.

Just write your name and address clearly on any piece of paper. Order one book. Enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

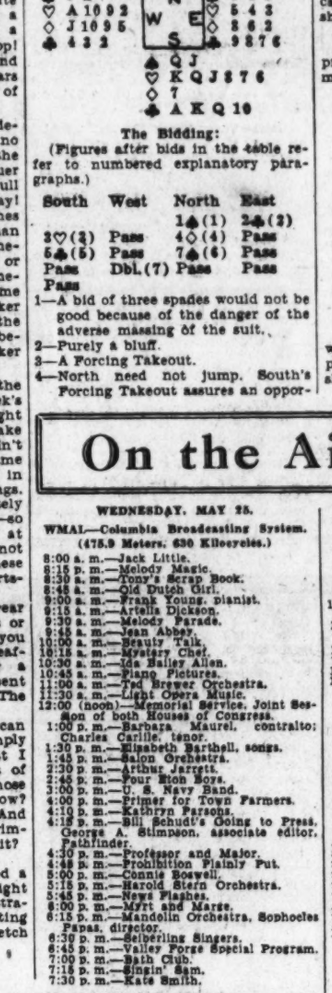
CONTRACTING FOR ALL THE TRICKS.

It is rare, indeed, that two players at the Contract table find themselves so well supplied with honor-tricks and distributional value that a Grand Slam may be safely contracted. The chances of the success of a Grand Slam contract should be at least three to one to justify the risk of losing an almost certain Small Slam. As there are few hands which guarantee this degree of certainty, the Grand Slam bid, particularly in rubber play, is a losing venture. In Dpulicate play, however, particularly in the modern method of scoring, the risk of bidding a Grand Slam is compensated in part by the assurance that you have the highest possible score on that particular hand, if your contract is fulfilled, and, possibly, the odds should, because of this, be slightly lessened in the play of this form of the game. The very danger accompanying this venturesome bid adds to its attractiveness for most players, and as all that is risked in Duplicate is glory, and not cash, there is found a larger proportion of people willing to put their glory in the balance than endanger their pocketbooks. In consequence, Duplicate games see many more Grand Slam bids.

The hand below, played recently in a Duplicate game in the Tower Bridge Club in New York, is an example of an accurately bid Grand Slam, even with the intereference of a pyschic bid by the East player, which was brushed aside by the North and South partnership in reaching their ambitious contract.

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in the table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
		1♠(1)	2♣(2)
3♡(3)	Pass	4◇(4)	Pass
5♣(5)	Pass	7♠(6)	Pass
Pass	Dbl.(7)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—A bid of three spades would not be good because of the danger of the adverse massing of the suit.
2—Purely a bluff.
3—A Forcing Takeout.
4—North need not jump. South's Forcing Takeout assures an opportunity for a disclosure of the full strength of the hand. The pattern should be unfolded gradually.
5—Uncovering East's psychic and removing the last barrier to the bidding with the Grand Slam.
6—North reasons that his partner will not make the bid of five clubs if he lacks some kind of support for the spade bid. He feels that he needs no more than Q x or three small trumps in the South hand to give him a play for the Grand Slam.
7—Probably induced by South's psychic Opening bid and the possession of the heart Ace.

It is only necessary to look at the distribution of the cards to see that the Grand Slam is made laid down. North needs only to draw the adverse trumps and discard the two losing diamonds on South's established clubs.

The game in which this hand was dealt is one of the largest Duplicate games in New York City, and while the road to the Grand Slam seems reasonably clear, strangely enough, a number of players stopped short even of a Small Slam. At one table, a player holding East's worthless cards, instead of passing, decided upon a psychic Double. This was not penalized by the North and South players in an effective fashion, but, as a matter of fact, was probably the controlling factor in preventing these players from reaching the Grand Slam.

The rules governing Grand Slam bidding, applicable to Contract, might be modified as applied to Duplicate play on the match point basis, so that you bid a Grand Slam when your score needs bolstering up, and be content with the Small Slam, if the results on other hands played during the match are satisfactory.

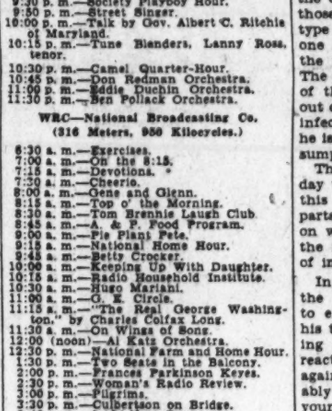
Today's Pointer.

While a Grand Slam should not be bid unless the chance of making the contract is at least three to one in its favor, this rule is modified in Duplicate and slightly greater chances should be taken.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

North—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

IF May 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:20 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

More kicks than flowers or pennies will be found in the bag which fate has in store for you on May 25. Expenditures are liable to overbalance receipts. More than the usual amount of travel is shown, and plans for an extended trip may be successfully completed on this date.

Children born on this May 25 will show a tendency to dream rather than to be practical. They will have sociable, friendly dispositions, and will make friends with both young and old. They will lack independence and will be loath to kick aside parental or other supports.

If born on May 26, your fortunes will be subject to many changes and will be affected for good or evil by the influence of some one of the opposite sex. You will probably experience both privation and affluence. Family disputes and love intrigues will cause loss and trouble.

You are broadly sympathetic and are not a mere lip-server of charity. You are extremely humane and sensitive to the sufferings of man and beast, which can always be found by an understanding and tender-hearted being. You are often overcome and saddened by the futility of your efforts in these directions. Self-pity is something quite foreign to one of your nature. You are at home in the mental and artistic world.

You love change and variety, and can be relied upon in an emergency to respond to the requirements of the moment. You can be generous, and also niggardly; can put on a bold front, and yet be highly nervous and timid. You must be left to your own methods, if efficient work is expected from you. One of your great failings is the leaving of unfinished jobs, splendidly begun and carelessly and indifferently left to another time or mood. At times you are both nervous and irritable, and at such times it is best to leave you alone. Eight hours or more sleep is required for one of your highly-strung temperament.

Successful people born on May 25:

Ralph Waldo Emerson, poet and philosopher.

John J. McCook, lawyer.

William H. Channing, Unitarian clergyman.

Lord Beaverbrook, newspaper proprietor.

Clara Louise Burnham, author.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PROTECTION AGAINST CONSUMPTION.

A DOZEN years ago it was the common belief that a child who gave a positive reaction to tuberculin was in danger. Now most physicians hold to the contrary. There are two types of consumption. The infantile type has one location in the lungs, the range of fever is high, the progress of the malady is rapid, and the diseased lungs are somewhat like those of pneumonia. In the adult type the disease starts at the top of one lung, the range of fever is low, the progress of the disease is slow. The person who has the infantile type of the trouble in his adult years is out of luck. If a child has had a mild infection in babyhood or early life he is thereafter protected against consumption of the infantile type.

That, after a fashion, is the present day view of the question. Acting on this view, several men in various parts of the world have been working on ways of protecting adults against the infantile form by different plans of immunizing in youth.

In Norway Dr. Heimbeck conceived the idea of giving a tuberculin test to every young woman who entered his tuberculosis sanitarium for training in nursing. Those who did not react to tuberculin were vaccinated against the disease. He reports favorably on his method, claiming the young women in training no longer became tuberculous, as they once did. If any other sanitarium or hospital has followed his plan in all of his steps, the writer does not know of it.

It is the accepted and customarily used plan with nurses on service in training in hospitals where either smallpox, typhoid fever, diphtheria or scarlet fever is being cared for. To a limited degree a similar method is in use in hospitals where measles is being nursed. However, vaccination against consumption is not on the established basis that vaccination against the other diseases is on.

In one hospital in St. Paul they carry out the first step in the plan. They give a tuberculin test to the young ladies entering training for the degree of registered nurse. They repeat the test when the nurses are ready to graduate. They find that one-third of the applicants give a positive test when they start their course of training. All of them give a positive test when ready to graduate.

In other words, two-thirds of the young ladies pick up an infection while they are being trained and exposed for long hours in hospital wards. Since only about one in twenty develop clinical tuberculosis it follows that the remainder contracted a mild infection which they were able to overcome and which, therefore, protected them. To reduce it to figures—out of each 99 beginners 33 gave a positive reaction on entrance. When the group came to graduate 5 had broken down with consumption, 33 were protected before entering and 61 had become protected by their exposure in the hospital wards.

COSTS LESS than handkerchief laundering

to use and destroy

TIRED of paying for big handkerchief launderings? Then it's time to try Kleenex! You can use many individual Kleenex Tissues for the cost of having one handkerchief laundered!

And there's no bother. No storing soiled handkerchiefs away in laundry bags—to scatter their germs through other clothing.

Once you start using Kleenex, the old way will seem crude and unsanitary. It's so much cleaner to use each time a fresh, soft tissue—and then destroy it completely.

Start the whole family using Kleenex. Supply packages for school and office.

Experiment a little with Kleenex—see how many ways it can serve you! These soft tissues are wonderful for babies. Try Kleenex for wiping spectacles, for cleaning silver, for dusting, for cleaning shoes, for drying razor blades, to save towels. At all drug, dry goods and department stores, in big generous packages.

Germ-filled handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

SILVER SPRING GUARD UNIT RATED HIGHEST

Service Company Tops All of States' Organizations in Efficiency List.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Silver Spring's National Guard unit, the Service Company, First Infantry, for the second year has won the highest Federal rating of all Maryland National Guard companies, the War Department has notified Capt. Ward W. Caddington, commanding. The Silver Spring company was given a rating of 94.6 per cent by the United States Army officers who made the annual Federal inspection.

The company ranked first last year with a rating of 93.2 per cent. This year's rating is better by 1.4 per cent. The company's rating is particularly surprising in view of the extensive keeping of records which devolves upon it and the fact that, while it is not a combat unit, its drill excellence was such as to warrant so high a rating.

The Service Company, in conjunction with the Cissel-Saxon Post of the American Legion, of Silver Spring, will participate in Memorial Day services Sunday morning, beginning at 11 o'clock. The services will begin with religious services at Grace Episcopal Church at 11 o'clock, following which the company will parade to the American Legion memorial stone in front of the armory, where Silver Spring men who lost their lives in the World War will be honored. A wreath will be placed on the stone while salutes are being fired, followed by the sounding of "Taps." Religious services will be conducted by ministers of the Silver Spring churches. The ceremonies at the stone will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

Montgomery County's other National Guard unit, the Howitzer Company at Kensington, commanded by Capt. Clarence V. Sayer, also make a good showing in the annual inspection. The Kensington company won a rating of 87.1 per cent.

Rockville merchants with stores on the main street, fronting the new courthouse are aroused by the anti-parking restrictions which went into effect Monday in front of the courthouse. They plan to protest against the parking rules to the mayor and council of Rockville, who promulgated the ordinance, it was stated yesterday.

The merchants claim that abolition of parking on the courthouse side had materially affected their business, inasmuch as motorists who parked on the other side before now are parking in front of the stores all day and barring customers from the front of the stores. The merchants say that too much space has been marked off in front of the courthouse when a much smaller space in front of the main door would be sufficient.

It is planned to protest to the council and also to take the matter before the Chamber of Commerce of Rockville. Mayor D. M. Blandford said Monday that a one-hour parking restriction is being planned for the main street and that his will be proposed to the merchants shortly.

The Rockville Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual supper tonight and tomorrow night at the firehouse. The three companies of the department have been staging a ticket selling race with a penalty for the losing company. The losing company will wash dishes at the supper and the winning company will be entertained at a later date at the annual department dinner by the losing companies.

The company captains are: Francis Lyddane, Ralph Benson and Albert Hamke.

George Rhodes, colored, who was arrested Saturday by Sergt. LeRoy Rodgers on a charge of possession of intoxicants with intent to sell, was released yesterday on payment of a fine of $100 assessed in county police court. His brother, Clarence Rhodes, was arrested yesterday by Sergt. Rodgers on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Marshal Brown, colored, who is critically wounded in Georgetown Hospital.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday approved the new regulations for Section 2, Village of Chevy Chase, Md., which had been presented by the citizens' committee. The commissioners also received a letter from H. H. Nichols, 322 Dorset avenue, Chevy Chase, asking that the foot bridge at Great Falls be inspected at regular intervals. The foot bridge is owned by the Great Falls Hotel and is not under the jurisdiction of the county.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHAT with the two semifictional, pseudo-scientific camera studies of life as it is lived in the raw in the tropics being exhibited this week at Warner's Metropolitan and RKO-Keith's, the Capital, at least, is getting its fair share of nudity, savagery and zoological enlightenment. And the theater box-offices are not precisely what you might call suffering as a result of the heated discussion that both pictures —"The Blonde Captive," at the Met, and "Cain," at Keith's—are occasioning.

There is a great deal that is authentic in each of these strangely similar subjects. "The Blonde Captive" is, perhaps, the more provocative of the two, by reason of the fact that it sets up certain claims of a purely scientific nature that may or may not be justified by the revelations reflected on the screen. This picture has brought to my desk letters, both of vigorous approval and bitter condemnation of the views of this department as expressed in the review published in last Saturday's issue of The Post.

A junior pathologist in one of the Government departments takes me vehemently to task for failing to grasp the scientific significance of a film which he hails as a sterling contribution to the anthropological knowledge of the world. Another writer congratulates me upon the "expose of a picture of such fraudulent dimensions as 'Blonde Captive.'" And that's the way it goes.

And that's the way, too, to swollen boxoffice receipts, being, as you might say, what makes horse racing!

Personally—not being a scientist and granting always the impressiveness of the "Captive" as an informative travelogue—I find the purely fictional narrative of "Cain" a little more believable than the fantastic closing sequences of the pictorial record of the Withington expedition dedicated to Science.

Both are superlatively generous in cutaneous display, although I should hesitate to designate either altogether a skin game!

Miss Ona Munson, ingenue of the National Theater Players, is this week being acclaimed for the most impressive piece of work she has contributed to the remarkable record of this year's repertoire company assembled by Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, the sagacious impresario of the E street troupe.

To begin with, the role of Leone Merrick in "The Vinegar Tree" is the longest and most pretentious part in which Miss Munson has been cast since her advent to the local boards—a circumstance which, it might be argued, offers opportunities for failure no less amplified than those for adding appreciably to a rapidly growing reputation. Miss Munson portrays the role sympathetically, humorously, and with a demure charm that is completely captivating.

With an enviable record in musical comedy and a considerable success in pictures already to her credit, Miss Munson bids fair to step out now and become a legitimate actress of some renown.

Well, why not?

Speaking of the National Players, after the second act of "The Vinegar Tree" at Monday night's opening Mr. and Mrs. W. Harryman Rapley, downfront neighbors, voiced a suggestion that may be said to represent the consensus of opinion among close observers of the consistently excellent performances being given by Miss Leona Powers, leading woman. That is, that there is about everything she does a constant reminder of the lamented Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske—voice, much the same; the quick, nervous diction, strikingly reminiscent; movements of the head and hands, similarly eloquent. And have you noticed the profile?

As long as we are on the subject, the thing that impressed this typewriter most in a deliberate survey of "The Vinegar Tree" as a piece of dramatic writing was that there are enough "Oh, my Gods!" in the script to do for an entire season, with some left over for next fall's opening.

Everybody says it all the time.

"Blessed Event," which failed to live up to the promise of its Washington opening when it arrived on Broadway—and this column still rates it one of the season's best comedies—is proving to be more or less of a hoodoo subject for the Warner Brothers, who bought the screen rights.

The role created on the stage by Roger Pryor was first intended for the stellar screen uses of James Cagney. Mr. Cagney, however, deleted himself from the Warner lot in the heat of a salary dispute and has not been seen about the place since. So the part was turned over to Lee Tracy, remembered principally for "Broadway" and "The Front Page," on the stage, although no stranger to pictures. But Mr. Tracy, in the exuberance of the moment, got into difficulties with the Warner time clock and his contract, held by the executives to have been breached, was gently torn to shreds and deposited in the nearest convenient ashcan, or waste basket, or something. So what?

So the Warners are thinking of approaching Jack Oakie for the part, according to the latest issue of Variety, out yesterday, but as yet have not actually done so.

If the piece ever really gets into production, the Warners no doubt will call it "Blessed Event" and mean it, no foolin'.

Afterthoughts on the interview with Roscoe Ates, appearing in person with his daughter Dorothy at the Earle this week: Roscoe outraged Hollywood when he got his first movie contract by not moving at once into a $100,000 home on a mountain top. Instead, he rented a $90 per month bungalow and waited until he found out where he was going before pulling the splurge—and then he didn't pull it, although he has since purchased a spacious home in which he and Mrs. Ates and Dorothy take great pride and vast comfort . . . "They said I couldn't get along unless I threw a little dog," he explains, "but I just happened to remember Greta Garbo and took a chance!" . . . Although Dorothy has red hair—several shades lighter and redder than her dad's, incidentally—she bears a closer resemblance to her mother, who is a blonde . . . The stage and screen's supreme stutterer deems that show lost at which he fails to convulse the boys in the orchestra pit. When they laugh, he knows he is going over . . . Which means that he has to vary his stuff at every performance. No orchestra is going to die laughing at the same gags twenty-eight times a week, you know that . . . Like Ruth Etting, Georgie Stone, Mitzi Mayfair and precious few others, the Ates family sends prompt telegrams to the dramatic editors, thanking them for favorable notices and editorial comment. . . Mine contained 35 words and, glory be, did NOT come collect . . . They all like Washington so well that, like Jean Harlow, they are planning to return here to spend their first vacation . . . I hope they do.

Well, now that we've got real beer——

Pardon me, I must have dozed off!

Catholic U. Class Officers Elected

Several Capital Students Are Honored by Two Senior Groups.

Allan R. Redrow, of 3533 Thirteenth street northwest, has been elected president of the senior class of the School of Engineering of Catholic University for 1932-33, it was announced yesterday. Robert F. Bourne, of 2120 Florida avenue northwest, was named secretary of the class for the second successive year. Both students are graduates of Washington high schools. Mr. Redrow of Central, and Mr. Bourne of Gonzaga.

Other newly elected officers of the class of 1933 of the School of Engineering are Carl J. Heltzel, of Warren, Ohio, vice president, and Amadeo F. Nardone, of Westerly, R. I., treasurer. Mr. Heltzel held the office of treasurer during the past year.

Joseph F. Zegowitz, jr., of 1501 Crittenden street northwest, a graduate of Gonzaga High School, is to hold the office of vice president of the senior class of the College of Arts and Sciences for the coming year, while Frank J. Brannan, of Pottsville, Pa., is the new president of the group. John J. Waters and Joseph A. Cannizzaro, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been named secretary and treasurer of the class, respectively.

THIS sign might be on every Amoco pump. It's true! Cost per mile . . . not cost per gallon is what counts. ¶ There are more miles in each gallon of Amoco-Gas. It does not take as much to cover the same territory. ¶ But that's not your biggest saving with Amoco! It comes from lower repair bills. Amoco keeps your motor cleaner . . . freer from carbon. ¶ Unless you're using Amoco-Gas, you're not getting the lowest motoring cost per mile. And you're not getting the best performance out of your car! No other motor fuel gives such smooth, knockless power . . . under all driving conditions. ¶ Now's a good time to repeat it—Amoco is cheapest in the end!

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

GOLDIE AHEARN, the sage of Ninth street, has retired from the wrestling industry with his shirt still clinging to his back, but otherwise disillusioned.

Ahearn's attempt to promote the Bowser chain of wrestlers in Washington literally was a washout. It rained on ten of the twelve evenings that Ahearn's matches was scheduled, and if the weather man could be libeled, Ahearn is guilty by his own admission."

"I couldn't make it go," Ahearn admits. "I had world champions, uncrowned champions, near-champions and would-be champions on the card and I lost money.

"But it was the wrestlers who gave up first. At that, I'm the only promoter who ever made the wrestlers quit."

A preliminary boy at the Twin City Arena the other night came up to shake the hand of Maxie Rosenbloom, the world light-heavyweight champion.

"Mr. Rosenbloom," he said, "I've always wanted to see you fight ever since I was that high," he told the champ.

Maxie looked at his admirer. "How old are you," he inquired. "Twenty-six," was the reply. "Pretty good," said Maxie, "I'm only 26 myself."

The racketeers invaded the Laurel arena at the same time as the opening fight. A gang of urchins, self-appointed, engineered the parking of automobiles within the arena and when the occupants had successfully parked, they were met with the "25 cents, please" item. Most of 'em paid, but Promoter Cornell has announced that on the occasion of the next show the "Free Parking" signs will be noticeably displayed.

The passing of Bozeman Bulger, dean of the baseball writers, takes from the profession one of its most lovable as well as talented characters.

Bulger is famed for his stories of Negro life in his native Alabama, but he was a wit on all occasions, and his comment on the fold-up of the New York World was a classic.

Asked how he felt upon learning that he was out of a job after 25 years with the World, Bulger said: "Well, I never thought it was a permanent job anyway."

Bulger was writing baseball, weddings, obituaries and society notes on a small Alabama paper as a young man when he applied to a New York newspaper for a job.

"Sorry," came the reply from New York, "but we can offer you only $20 a week."

"I showed up in New York on the first train that would take me," said Bulger. "You see, I was making only $12 a week in Alabama."

It was during the 1930 world series when Bulger, en route to St. Louis with the Athletics and Cardinals, was stricken with appendicitis on the train. Upon his arrival, he was removed to a St. Louis hospital and operated upon immediately.

The next day he received two telegrams from New York.

One read: "Congratulations on your opening."

The other read: "Attaboy, Boze, you're the first sports writer in history that ever got a 'cut' in the world series."

Bulger for several years was a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and following the collapse of the World had devoted all of his talents to magazine work. He was recognized as an authority on many sports, baseball particularly, and he could regale any gathering with his stories of the great and small of the national pastime.

Alice Davis Advances in D.C. Tennis

Reaches Semifinals in City Tourney by 6-1, 6-2 Win.

Hunt - Mason Defeat Mitchell - Buchanan in Doubles Upset.

THE City of Washington tennis tournament, being run off this week on the undulated courts at Sixteenth and Kennedy, marched loose-jointedly on yesterday afternoon dominated by the play of Alice Davis, 18-year-old daughter of Dwight Davis, donor of the Davis Cup, and Gilbert Hunt, sensational 16-year-old local net product.

Miss Davis, unleashing a forehand drive that carried more weight than many of the drives owned and operated in the men's division of the tournament, reached the semifinal round of the women's singles with a smashing 6-1, 6-2 victory over Dorette Miller.

Advances in Doubles With Miss Kirson.

Aided by Reba Kirson, a Baltimorean, who is highly rated in the women's singles, Hunt advanced to the semifinal round by upsetting the team of Alice Rose and Maurice O'Neill, 6—1, 6—2.

The Hunt-Mason vs. Mitchell-Buchanan match developed some of the hardest hitting of the tournament. Mitchell and Hunt stood out for sustained socking and control.

Mrs. Ruth Martinez, District champion, had to call on all her knowledge of the game to defeat Abbie Sard, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4, in the second round of the women's singles. It was a bitterly contested match, lasting an hour and a half and marked by long running rallies.

Miss Davis' Forehand Drive Powerful.

Miss Davis' performance, in beating Miss Miller, left no doubt in mind as to whom must be beaten by the winner of the women's singles. Her forehand drive is hit with a full, confident swing that propels the ball across the net with thumping speed. Her other strokes are in keeping with the forehand.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Second round—Bendel and Staubly defeated Newgarden and Groves, 6—4, 6—3. Mitchell and Buchanan defeated Noell and Moffitt, 6—0, 6—8, 6—4; Smith and Dorst defeated Shoemaker and Haney, 6—1, 6—4.

Quarter-final round—Hunt and Mason defeated Mitchell and Buchanan, 6—4, 6—2; Deck and Seidel defeated Hermann and Yen, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Second round—Mrs. Ruth Martinez defeated Abbie Sard, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4; Mrs. Wyeth defeated Mrs. Duhamel, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. Stone defeated Mrs. Trubee Davison, 7—5, 6—3.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Mrs. Wyeth and Mr. Carrick defeated Elinor Finckel and Holmead Callan, 6—2, 7—5; Rena Kirson and Gilbert Hunt defeated Alice Rose and Maurice O'Neill, 6—3, 6—1.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

No men's or women's singles.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

5 o'clock—Rutley and Ladd vs. Garnett and Gold.

6 o'clock—Considine and Olhausen vs. Smith and Dorst.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

11 o'clock—Preliminary round. Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Wyeth vs. Mrs. Deck and Miss Totten.

3 o'clock—Betty Cochran and Margaret Graham vs. winners of above.

MIXED DOUBLES.

First round, 5 o'clock—Mr. and Mrs. Deck vs. Dorette Miller and M. Evans, Helen Philpitt and Mr. Baker vs. Mrs. Colladay and Youngson Yen.

Kay Don May Seek New Mark Tomorrow

Gardone, Italy, May 24 (A.P.).—Kay Don, of England, probably will attempt to shatter Gar Wood's world speedboat record Thursday in his Miss England III.

Don has not yet filed his 24-hour notice with the racing commission, hence there was no possibility of his making the record attempt before Thursday. He did not have his craft in the water today.

Tigers Eke Out 6-5 Win Over Browns

Goldstein, Rookie Boxman, Is Credited With Detroit Victory.

Detroit, May 24 (A.P.).—Although he wobbled precariously in the eighth inning and had to be relieved, Izzy Goldstein, recruit pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, got credit for a 6-to-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns today. Whitlow Wyatt, called to Goldstein's rescue, stopped the Browns' rally by fanning Burns and Campbell.

Traynor's Hit in 12th Lets Bucs Down Reds

Cincinnati, May 24 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates bounced on Benny Frey in the twelfth inning today. Pie Traynor walloping a triple after the Waner brothers had singled, to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3. Until then Johnson and Frey apparently had the Pirates under control after a dangerous first inning.

Chattanooga Returns Masters to Washington

Pitcher Walter Masters, former University of Pennsylvania star, failed to make the grade at Chattanooga and has been returned to the Nationals. As Manager Walter Johnson has plenty of need for batting practice hurlers, Masters probably will be retained for a while for this purpose. Later, he will be farmed out so that he can get the experience he needs.

Chattanooga also advised that Adolph Liska, subway-ball flinger, has been given his unconditional release. His salary wing failed him at the Biloxi training camp in the spring of 1931 and he never regained the normal use of the arm.

Mungo and Wilson Star as Robins Win

Braves Held to Seven Hits; Hack Hits Homer With Two On.

Boston, May 24 (A.P.).—Van Mungo, Brooklyn's 20-year-old fast ball right-hander, and Hack Wilson, who is somewhere near twice his age, were a bit too much for the Braves today and the Dodgers won the second game of the series, 6 to 3.

Mungo held Boston to seven hits, three in the eighth inning, while Wilson hit his fourth home run of the season with two on base in the first. The Dodgers did not clinch the game until the ninth, getting two runs following Randy Moore's error at first base.

Levinsky-Baer Fight In Reno Ring July 4

Chicago, May 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lena Levy, manager of King Levinsky, today said she had agreed to terms for a bout between the Kingfish and Max Baer, California heavyweight at Reno, Nev., July 4.

"Leaping Lena" said the Levinsky firm had agreed to any number of rounds "up to 50," that the bout probably would be scheduled for 20 and would "last about six when the King will knock Baer out."

Becker Wins Trophy In Masonic Pin League

Dave Becker, of the Gompers Lodge, was winner of the I. Shah trophy in the Masonic League last night in a tournament for all league bowlers who had competed in all of the 99 games on the season's schedule.

Thirty bowlers entered the competition with Becker's 378 set high. George Montzouris was second with 361 and Jack Homer third with 354.

The tie for the league's high-set record of 416 was rolled off between Whip Ritchfield, of King David, and Carl Stoner, of Singleton, the former winning, 329 to 299.

3 U.S. Golfers Win Tests Abroad

4 Americans Fall by Wayside in British Amateur Play.

Leonard Martin Out; California Champ Is Survivor.

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 24 (A.P.).—Four more Americans fell by the wayside in the British amateur golf championship today, leaving only three of the invaders to contend for the coveted crown when second and third round matches get under way tomorrow.

Dave Martin, amateur champion of California, and the two Sweeney brothers, Robert and Charles, American students at Oxford University, alone remained to represent Uncle Sam of the eleven who teed off yesterday.

Sweeney Eliminates 1931 Irish Champ.

Charles Sweeney likewise won a delayed first round match, defeating E. B. Tipping, 1931 Irish champion, 4 and 3. Charles is captain of the Oxford Golf Team.

Robert Sweeney reached the third round of the championship when he upset Roger Wethered, former British amateur champion and Walker Cup veteran, by the overwhelming margin of 6 and 5.

The triumph of Leonard Martin, metropolitan champion of New York, who in yesterday's first round eliminated the defending champion, Eric Martin Smith, of London, proved short. The American met unexpected defeat today at the hands of M. Crowley, a little known Irish golfer, 2 up.

Douglas Grant, former California champion, bowed in the second round to Edward R. Tipple, 2 and 1; Boss Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa., lost to E. L. H. Turner, of Luffenham Heath, 4 and 2, and Joshua Crane, the Boston veteran, was eliminated in the first round by S. Forsyth, of Edinburgh, 2 up.

Dave Martin, regarded as America's strongest remaining hope, despite Robert Sweeney's splendid play against Wethered today, won his initial match from Crawley after a tedious struggle that required twice the usual time to play. The Englishman fought the traps and bunkers all the way and his fine approaching and putting was wasted.

Martin Ties on 14th and Wins Out.

Even with Crawley's erratic play, however Martin had to shoot a birdie 4 on the ninth to pass the turn 1 up. Crawley again squared things on the tenth and won the twelfth to go 1 up for the first time. Martin evened it on the fourteenth and took the one-hole lead that meant victory on the fifteenth, as the last three holes were halved. Martin's medal score was 39—39—78, to Crawley's 41—40—81.

Kocsis May Lose Broad-Jump Mark

Fouls When Bettering "C" Club Record, Says Field Judge.

Four records were broken in the "C" Club track meet last Saturday, but action started yesterday which may see one of these marks, the broad jump, stricken from the list.

John Paul Collins, assistant principal of Eastern High and athletic adviser of high school principals, yesterday wrote to George Norris, chairman of the "C" Club meet's committee, revealing the fact that Frank Kocsis, in jumping 21 feet 9 inches to what was supposedly a new meet record, fouled by several inches.

The judges of the broad jump event were Collins and J. C. Foxley, baseball coach of Tech.

The existing record is held by Grover Everett, of Eastern, and was made last year. It is 21 feet 5½ inches. Kocsis best fair leap missed this footage by ¼ inch.

RETAINS G. W. GOLF TITLE.

Miss Virginia Pope yesterday won the women's golf championship of George Washington University, defeating Miss Virginia Dillman in the finals, 3 up and 2, at East Potomac Park.

TIGERS RELEASE STRONG.

Detroit, May 24 (A.P.).—The Detroit American League Club today released Kenneth Strong, outfielder, to the Toronto Internationals. Due to an injury to his hand last year, Strong has been unable to play so far this season. He probably will be able to play with Toronto later this season and may return to Detroit next spring.

Two-Man Manchurian Track Team Would Enter 1932 Olympic Games

LOS ANGELES, May 24 (A.P.).—Manchuria, newly organized nation of Asia, cabled the Los Angeles organizing committee of the Olympic games today it has two athletes it would like to enter in the international meet here this summer.

President Chengsichsu of the Manchurian Athletic Association, Moukden, said he has a sprinter and middle distance star of high caliber. Under the rules administered by the international Olympic committee, a nation first must be recognized by that body.

Afghanistan recently signified its desire to send a team to the games, but there is a question as to whether either this country or Manchuria could receive recognition from the international Olympic committee before the games.

Nats Practice For Yankee Series

Better Pitching Seen for 4 Games Starting Tomorrow.

Defense Great Factor in Keeping Club Up in Race.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON advised his Washington players to "forget baseball" yesterday, the first of two off days on the schedule for the Nationals, but he has plenty of work lined up for them today, when a session has been called for this morning which will see the batters given plenty of opportunity to get the practice they showed they needed in Monday's game against the Red Sox.

The cause of all of this activity today is the New York Yankees, who come here for a four-game series, which starts tomorrow and ends on the Sabbath. By winning over the Athletics yesterday, "Babe Ruth and Company" increased their league lead over the Nationals to three games, which means that a clean-up is needed by the natives if they hope to pass their rivals.

Past Performances Encouraging.

Fans who saw the Nats in action Monday undoubtedly are wondering on what basis Manage: Johnson and his charges can even think of such a thing as a "clean-up" in connection with the coming series, but, if they hark back a few weeks, they will recollect that the home team downed the Mackmen and Yankees three games each in six successive days and that, until they hit a snag in New York last Friday, they had won eleven successive games over the Mackmen and Yankees combined, the two teams generally rated as the class of the league.

As things now stand, the Nats hold a five-four edge over the Yankees in play to date and are the only team which has taken a series from them. The pitching staff, which has been pretty well frazzled, should be normal again by tomorrow and, whether the home team wins or loses, it may be counted upon to put up four stiff battles against the "Big Towners." "General" Alvin Crowder will face them tomorrow, with the rookie star, Johnny Allen, likely to oppose him.

Nats' Pitching Staff Presents Puzzle.

In trying to dope out the Washington Team, one is distinctly up against it. It has a pitching staff, rated generally effective, but one or two of its regular starters have failed. It boasts no Lefty Groves, George Earnshaws or Vernon Gomezes; in fact, it has no one pitcher whose use would make the Nats a pronounced favorite to win on the day he starts, yet the staff has been turning in victories quite consistently.

And its attacking department must be rated the same way. Comparing it with the power of the A's and Yankees, Jimmy Foxx alone has hit practically as many homers as has the whole Washington Team, while the New Yorkers have cracked out exactly 21 more of those circuit clouts than have the Nationals, yet the latter are right on the New Yorkers' heels and are three and one-half games ahead of the Philadelphians.

Team Is Clever On Defense.

True, Manager Johnson's machine looks like a million dollars on defense when it is functioning properly; it is right up around the top in negotiating double plays, and is airtight both as to inner and outer works; in fact, it might be mentioned that Sam West is a whole outfield by himself.

Experts contend, though, that pitching and batting rate about 90 per cent of a team's strength, and, if this be true, there is a whole lot of explaining due to justify the Washington Club's second-place position.

Not being able to dope out the answer himself, the writer yesterday put it up to Clark Griffith, president of the club. His answer was short and concise.

"Well," he said, "it's simply a case of us having a good, well-rounded team. While we have no outstanding pitchers or no Babe Ruths or Jimmy Foxxes to hit for us, we have a better-than-average team in all departments. When right, our pitchers and tight defense can stop the other hitters from getting more runs than our own batters can get."

Quite simple, isn't it?

Gallaudet-Md. Frosh In Dual Meet Today

Jimmy Rayhill and his Gallaudet College track mates wind up their campaign this afternoon in a dual meet with the freshmen of Maryland University. The meet begins at 2:30 o'clock on Hotchkiss Field, Seventh and Florida avenue, northeast.

CUBS BEATEN IN SLUGFEST BY CARDS

Rip Collins Hits Two Homers to Assume League Lead.

ST. LOUIS, May 24 (A.P.).—Rip Collins, Cardinal first baseman, hit two homers and a single, giving the Cardinals a 8-to-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and by increasing his home runs to eleven for the season, took the National League leadership.

The Cardinals bore down on four Cub pitchers, Bush, Smith, Warneke and May.

Sylvester Johnson, starting unsteadily, regained his control until the ninth inning, when Lindsey was sent in to retire the side with one out. Of the fourteen Cub hits, eight were made in the last three innings.

Both Collins and Gabby Hartnett had perfect days at bat, Hartnett slapping out three doubles in a row and two singles in five times at bat. Collins drove in four runs.

Wes Ferrell Knocked Out as Chisox Win, 11-7

Chicago, May 24 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell was knocked from the mound, and his relief hurler, Sarge Connally, treated rudely as the White Sox won their fourth straight game today, defeating Cleveland, 11 to 7. After Vic Frasier faltered in the fourth inning, Tommy Thomas came in and received credit for the victory.

Cleveland piled up a 6 to 1 lead, their first run being Ferrell's homer. But in the fourth Bob Seeds hit a home run that started up the Sox slugging. Six hits in the fifth inning off the Indian ace knocked him out of the game and tied the score. Five more runs were added by the Hose in the seventh.

TRINCHERA WINS 5TH IN ROW IN WASHINGTON PARK SPRINT

6-1 Shot First By Head in Drive

Charges on Supreme Sweet in Stretch to Win Feature.

Ha Ha Runs Mile in 1:37 to Score at Belmont Park.

HOMEWOOD, Ill., May 24 (A.P.).—Trinchera, 3-year-old son of Eternal, racing in the colors of the Three D's Stable, made it five in a row today, winning the top race at Washington Park by a head over Supreme Sweet and Flag Bearer.

Running over a fast track and cleverly rated by Jockey Gilbert Elston, Trinchera laid off the pace and, when ready to charge down the long stretch, easily overtook his rivals. The winner ran the 6 furlongs in 1:12 4-5 and paid $14 for every $2 invested.

Fifth Victory for Ha Ha In Belmont Feature.

Belmont Park, May 24 (A.P.).—Ha Ha, the Latin Stable's consistent colt, scored his fifth victory in six starts this season when he led home a field of high-grade platers in the thirty-third running of the Harlem here today. It was the first time the son of Polymelian had essayed more than 6 furlongs, but he was equal to the task and won by three parts of a length over M. L. Schwartz's Barcelona Pete. Glidella, from the stable of J. J. Robinson, and split favorite with the winner at 13 to 5, annexed the show, a length away.

Ha Ha ran the mile in 1:37 flat, under light weight of 105 pounds, and his success brought $3,825 to his owner.

A bad start marred the event, with Phantom Legion being the chief victim. Commuter and Jim Robin also left with scant chance. Ha Ha rushed to the front a few strides after the break, and Steffen urged his mount into a wide lead. Dark Secret and Masked Knight tried to keep close to the pace, but both tired fast after 6 furlongs. Barcelona Pete staged a powerful closing challenge, but, while he forced Ha Ha to a drive, the result never was in doubt. Glidella, while lacking her usual early dash, picked up tiring horses at the end.

Union Printers Rout Unionists by 12 to 5

Treasury-Repair Nines In 10-Frame 7-7 Tie

Unable to break a 7-to-7 tie, Treasury and the D. C. Repair Shop yesterday battled to a draw in ten innings of well-played baseball in the Departmental League.

Trailing by 7 to 3 in the eighth inning, the Repairmen, aided by Noone's homer and the hitting of Wesley, Guethler and Pollen, scored 3 runs and tied it up in the ninth by adding another.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TECHNIQUE, $9.94, $4.92, $4.56; LADY WESTY, $3.52, $3.64; FAIR IMAGE, $4.56.

TECHNIQUE was off with the leaders and, saving ground in the stretch, forged to the front in the run home to win easily. LADY WESTY raced well up from the start and, although swerving a trifle in the stretch, finished fairly well. FAIR IMAGE made up ground gradually and was going well at the end. SOEUR BLANCHE went to the outside at the stretch turn, but was racing gamely at the end. LITTLE GERTIE and LAKNITE tired in the run home. DOUBLE SHUFFLE raced wide at the stretch turn.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Major Lanphier from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:51. Off at 2:55½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTCODINE, $4.32, $2.72, $2.30; LA SALLE, $4.22, $3.74; RED CROSS SISTER, $4.60.

PORTCODINE went to the front early and, racing as if much the best, was never headed, winning easily. LA SALLE saved ground at the stretch turn and finished fast on the inside, but did not threaten the winner. RED CROSS SISTER dropped back after a quarter, but came again and got up in time to catch CHU CHU in the last stride. CHU CHU was tiring and PORTERNESIA could not keep up. MAJOR LANPHIER was off poorly.

THIRD RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:22. Off at 3:26. Winner, C. Morris' ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LUKE CONNELL, $37.44, $22.50, $10.02; CAMPDORE, $9.58, $6.02; STROLL ALONG, $3.44.

LUKE CONNELL was outrun early, but came fast on the outside in the stretch to catch CAMPDORE in the closing strides and going away. CAMPDORE, never far from pace, took a short lead in the run home, but could not last. STROLL ALONG, taken to the inside at the stretch, saved ground to take command, but could not last. SLAPPED met with interference and showed a good effort. CHUCK B. was in close quarters early and lost his chance. CHATWINE and RED BOAT tired in the stretch. SWIFTER and PALATINE raced wide in the early stages.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:54½. Off at 4:00½. Winner, J. D. Mikel's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCIMITAR, $9.20, $4.28, $3.70; MAD CAREER, $4.66, $4.88; DURVA, $5.70.

SCIMITAR, a bad post actor, was started from the gate and was outrun first half of the distance, then came fast on the outside to catch the early leaders and hold MAD CAREER under hard urging. MAD CAREER dropped back after breaking well and then sprinted to the front on the far turn and held on well when put to a drive. DURVA was never far from the pace and raced gamely to the finish. SUN FIRE was shuffled back after the start and closed a gap to finish fast. PORTMANTEAU was caught between the winner and MAD CAREER in the stretch run and dropped out of it. CAIUS and MORE POWER tired.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:27½. Off at 4:32. Winner, Three Ds Stock Farm's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRINCHERA, $14.00, $8.08, $6.02; SUPREME SWEET, $10.92, $7.86; FLAG BEARER, $6.10.

TRINCHERA followed the pace closely under slight restraint to the stretch, then came fast on the outside to wear down SUPREME SWEET and win drawing cleverly. SUPREME SWEET, showing good speed from start, headed FLAG BEARER on the stretch turn, but was not good enough to withstand the challenge of the winner. FLAG BEARER went to the front at once and led to the stretch, where he began to tire. JUSTINIAN never threatened. PRINCE TOKALON began slowly and trailed the field most of the way.

PHANTASIME	110	1	1	1²	3²	6²	8	8	King	13.58

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARTIES, $14.38, $6.20, $3.26; RUNAR, $3.74, $2.44; BUNCH OF LILIES, $2.70.

PARTIES, under slight restraint first half mile, moved up fast after leaving the back stretch, took a good lead rounding the final turn, but began to tire in the last sixteenth and was shaken up to hold RUNAR. The latter went to the front when PHANTASIME began to tire and raced gamely after being passed by the winner. BUNCH OF LILIES swung wide at the stretch turn, but was going gamely at the end. ANITA ORMONT saved ground on the stretch turn. PIECEMEAL and PHANTASIME tired in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:24. Off at 5:24. Winner, W. H. Harris' br. m. (4), by Pataud—Margaret Lawrence. Trained by E. B. Carpenter. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:15 3-5, 1:41 3-5, 1:54 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MODERN TIMES, $5.24, $3.64, $3.00; IRENE T., $10.52, $9.04; PRINCELLA, $5.62.

MODERN TIMES, close to PRINCELLA in early stages, moved to front when straightened out in stretch and led to finish to win handily. IRENE T. was never far from the pace and bested PRINCELLA for second place in closing strides. PRINCELLA set early pace under restraint and held on fairly well after being passed. EVER FAITHFUL was restrained in the early stages and closed strongly. SANTA SOPHIA was blocked trying to get through on the inside around the far turn. BEAUTY SECRET was outrun throughout.

CENTRAL NINE NEAR TITLE

Crown Hinges On Contest Tomorrow

Mount Pleasant Team Faces Western at Eastern.

De Bettencourt and Payne Promise Nice Mound Duel.

CENTRAL HIGH'S baseball team, whose stock did not boom until after the regular series ended in a three-way tie and a playoff for the championship became necessary, has the high school championship within its reach and a chance to grab it tomorrow afternoon, when Western will be met at 3:30 o'clock.

Under the round robin conditions of the playoff, Central will win the title outright if it turns back Western. The Blue and White, unleashing a stirring brand of team play, behind the four-hit pitching of Johnnie De Bettencourt, beat Eastern Monday. The third game of the series, between Eastern and Western will be played next Tuesday, but if form holds true, and Central wins tomorrow, it will be a battle of the also rans.

DeBettencourt, Payne Likely Pitchers.

Coach Jack Ray may send DeBettencourt back on the mound at Eastern field tomorrow, mindful of the fact that the loose-jointed Centralite seems to have the number of every high school batter in the business. Emmett Buscher, with much more speed, but not much of DeBettencourt's smoothness, is the Central reserve strength.

Bill Payne, Western's entire pitching staff, will again toe the rubber for the Georgetown team. Backed up by hitting that is not particularly potent, Payne has turned in several spectacular performances this year. His meeting with DeBettencourt tomorrow promises to be one of the most interesting scholastic ball games in five years.

Central beat Western 8 to 6 in twelve innings in the regulation series. Payne, heckled unmercifully by a rabid Central supporter, cracked in the dozenth inning. DeBettencourt, who relieved Buscher in the fifth inning, was given credit for the victory.

Investigation Netmen Down Veterans' Team

The Veterans' Bureau Tennis Team was able to win but one match in five yesterday and so went down to the newly-admitted Bureau of Investigation team, 4-1. Erana and Weiss were the lone winners for Veterans, drubbing Cantwell and Appel, 6—0, 6—0.

Shore and Sullivan (B. I.) defeated Johnson and Silva, 6—2, 3—6, 6—1; Erana and Weiss (V.) defeated Cantwell and Appel, 6—0, 6—0; Gerph and Wolk (B. I.) defeated Johnston and Nitschel, 7—5, 6—1; Singman and Allman (B. I.) defeated Hall and Kelsey, 6—2, 6—0; Baker and Abbott (B. I.) defeated McDonald and Platt, 10—8, 0—6, 7—5.

Prince Georges Nines Meet for Title Today

Maryland Park, Md., May 25.—Maryland Park and Upper Marlboro High School baseball teams will meet this afternoon here for the Prince Georges County championship. The Parkers are representing the upper section of the county, while Upper Marlboro is the lower county titleholder.

The winner of today's clash will represent the county in the Statewide series to begin shortly. Last season Hyattsville, Prince Georges County standard bearer, won State honors.

Central High Choice To Take Meet Honors

Beaten rather roundly in the "C" Club meet, Central High's track team nevertheless remains the favorite to annex the annual interhigh meet to be held Friday afternoon at Central Stadium.

Almost assured of 18 points, in the two sprint events, Central is also strong in the field events, where Frank Kocsis, Hank Gibbins, Robertson and others are expected to have things under control. Central's great sprintmen are Naylor, Price, Smith and Ditzler. Johns is figured to win the mile event.

Eastern, without the services of Bob Slye, its chief point earner, must depend on an almost entirely green, but ambitious team. Slye has completed four years of competition. Tech is rated strong enough to place second to Central.

Mike Dundee-Fino Fight Completes Nursery Card

Fourth Bout Added to All-Star Program for May 31; Strickler Gets Best "Shot" in Meeting Owen Phelps.

MATCHMAKER Frankie Mann yesterday completed arrangement of the Day Nursery's next fistic offering, scheduled Tuesday, May 31, in Portner Arena, with the signing of Midget Mike Dundee, nationally known featherweight, and Joe Fino, Mexican bantamweight.

Dundee and Fino are matched for eight rounds on an all-star card that includes bouts of the same length between Billy Strickler and Owen Phelps, Benny Schwartz and Antol Kocsis, and Bill Fiemster and Joe Finazzo. Day Nursery officials expect the show to attract one of the largest crowds in the recent history of Alexandria boxing.

Strickler Only D. C. Boxer On Card.

Billy Strickler, the only Washington fighter on the card, is the recipient of the best "shot" he ever has secured. His opponent, Phelps, is a light-heavyweight of national rating. A victory for the local youth would boost his stock more than any other single achievement of his career.

Emerging from a cooling shower yesterday at Mann's gym, where he engaged in a speedy workout, Strickler expressed determination to make good in his big opportunity.

"By the end of the week I will be in the finest condition," said Strickler, "and I am sure I will be able ot give Phelps a hard fight. In fact, there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind that I can go the route with him. I'll stake my purse on that."

Strickler has built up an enviable reputation for gameness and durability over a span of five years of fighting in this vicinity. Against Bill Fiemster in his last bout he fully justified the sobriquet given him by the promoters, "Washington's iron man light-heavyweight." In the final two rounds of that scrap Billy withstood a terrific pounding in the final two rounds to hold good an early lead for the decision.

Phelps Figures to Beat Strickler.

Phelps, who is in line for a bout with Ace Hudkins on the coast, figures to win on past performances. Though he lost his last start to Bob Godwin, he still retains recognition as one of the leading ten light-heavies in the world. Nicknamed "Cowboy," Phelps is a strong, rough battler who has the stamina to maintain a hard pace for ten or fifteen rounds.

D. C. GOLFERS TO PLAY AT BALTIMORE

Thirty Will Compete in Event Starting Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 24.—Entries, totaling 174, of which 30 were received from Washingtonians, were announced tonight for the nineteenth annual Baltimore Country Club invitation golf tournament.

SHIKAT DUE REAL MAT BATTLE

Meets McCready Tomorrow in Feature at Stadium.

THE weekly parade of mastodons of the mat, scheduled for tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium, features Dick Shikat and Earl McCready. They will be assisted by matches involving George Zaharias and Jack Washburn, Sam Stein and Renato Gardini, Sandor Szabo and Benny Ginsberg and Matros Kirilenko and George Manich.

Shikat, after wandering in the mat wilderness since June, 1930, when Jim Londos removed the Crown of the Curley from his beetled brow, has at last been given a chance at the title again, by way of a match with the elderly Strangler Lewis, in June.

Shikat is one of the strangest figures in wrestling. Many hold that he is the best of the bunch. His dealings with his colleagues are brief and cool. Legend has it that he was an officer in the German navy during the war and engaged in the battle of Jutland. A big, striding man, given to long overcoats and iron-bound derbies, he looks the part.

McCready rates with McMillen, in this camp, and Sonnenberg and George in the other as a college wrestler, who made good in the professional game. He has not been seen here of late. When he loses he loses strictly to Londos and Shikat. He has held Shikat to numerous draws.

Ladies, upon presentation of tickets bearing escorts, will be admitted free of charge.

U.S. MAY PLACE BAN ON POLITICS BY AIDS

Sharp Warning Sent Two Federal Workers Residing in Arlington County.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Civil Service Commission threatens to withdraw from Federal employes resident in Arlington County the right to hold office in the county government or take any part in the selection of county officials if this participation involves partisan political activity.

This stand was made known yesterday when a sharply worded letter was made public, that has been sent by the commission to Fred A. Gosnell, of the Bureau of the Census, and Clemens F. Rauth, of the Department of Labor, who, it was explained, sought election, as Republicans, to the county board at the county election held last November. Both, it was said at the commission, had the support of the county Republican organization.

Mr. Goanell, who is chief supervisor of distribution for the fifteenth decennial census, was elected a member of the board, receiving the highest vote of any of the five members. Mr. Rauth was defeated.

Since the election, the case has been under investigation by the commission, whose declaration now is viewed in the light of "word to the wise" to all Government employes with civil service status because of the coming presidential election.

Copies of the warning were addressed to Representative Howard W. Smith, Democrat, of Virginia, in whose congressional district Arlington County lies, and to Hugh J. McGrath, who is chairman of the Civil Service committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation.

With the engineering department having about completed its survey of more than 30 streets which the county board has authorized to be improved immediately, County Manager Roy S. Bradon, of Arlington County, last night announced that the road force will be increased by at least 25 men within the next few days. He stated that there will be no further increase in the personnel of the engineering staff.

County Manager Braden stated that the county plans to expend $54,000 in this work at this time.

Senator Gerald Nye, of North Dakota, will be the principal speaker at the quarterly meeting of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, to be held today in the Ballston Presbyterian Church.

Among other speakers will be Charles R. Fenwick, Washington attorney, resident of East Falls Church, and Attorney H. W. Dudley. The speakers will discuss the Byrd road act, with Mr. Fenwick opposing the county remaining under its provisions, while Mr. Dudley will speak in favor of the act as it applies to Arlington County.

The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock.

The annual regional Sunday school convention under the auspices of the Virginia Council of Religious Education will be held today in the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church.

The convention will open with the registration of delegates at 9:30 a. m. The introductory remarks will be made by E. T. Fenwick.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Henry Edward Tralle. He will speak on "What's New in Christian Education" and "How Achieve the Impossible."

Pleading not guilty to a charge of possession and transporting liquor, R. K. Stephens was fined $50 and costs, totaling $90.75, in addition to a jail sentence of three months by Arlington County Judge B. M. Hedrick yesterday.

The Stonewall Jackson School at Mulhall will hold its annual May Day celebration tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 on the school grounds.

Today will be cadet day at Washington-Lee High School. The cadets will receive their commissions and warrants from Lieut. Col. C. S. McNeill at assembly. At 2:30 o'clock there will be a competitive drill in honor of the parents. The annual cadet banquet will be held at the school in the evening at 6:30 o'clock. The banquet will be served by members of the domestic science department.

Prince Georges Again Bars Fireworks Stands Licenses

Board of Commissioners, Having Never Been Given Authority to Issue Permits, Will Abide by Rule; $500 Is Ordered for Culverts.

Fireworks stands will be barred again this year in Prince Georges County by the county commissioners, they announced yesterday after refusing to grant a license for the sale of pyrotechnics in Beaver Heights. Samuel Green had made the application for a temporary stand, but he was told that the attorney for the commissioners had decided they had no authority to issue permits, and that the board intended to abide by this ruling.

The ruling of the attorney was made last year when several groups of firemen applied for permission to erect their usual stands along the road, but were refused. However, the stands were built without permits, and no police action was taken.

The board also granted Chief of Police J. J. Crowley permission to turn his old car in on a new and improved model. The police cars are owned by the county, but recently a sergeant of the force was allowed to turn in his old car on a newer model. In both cases the officer will pay the difference between the price of the new car and the value of the old one, but the board retains title to the vehicle.

A committee from the County Taxpayers Association appeared before the board to ask that the county roads be remeasured and to offer their services in handling county affairs. The committee was composed of William E. Duvall, John Bowie, Roger I. Manning and Frederick N. Neason. The association believes that under the new measurement the money spent for upkeep will be allotted more equally to the various districts.

The board authorized the spending of $500 for culverts on the Princess Gardens and Ardmore roads, $100 to open the Good Luck road as far as the Branchville road, and $300 for culverts on the Springfield-Muirkirk road. H. H. Rudolph department senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, invited the commissioners to a memorial service in Marlboro, May 30.

Sanity Test Faced By Arson Suspect

Local Woman Is Charged With Firing Home in Capitol Heights.

A lunacy commission to inquire into the sanity of Mrs. Florence Healy, of 610 D street southwest, who was charged with arson in Prince Georges County last Saturday, was authorized yesterday by the county commissioners.

The request for an examination of Mrs. Healy, who is 59 years old, was made by Constable Earle Blackwell, in charge of investigating the crime. Blackwell said the woman talked wildly to him, and told him she had set fire to a bungalow she owned to keep other persons from gaining possession of it.

Attorney Charles Marbury, lawyer for the estate of Mrs. Healy's sister, also appeared and indorsed the request for a sanity test. He said he had seen little of the woman but thought it wiser for her to be examined before the arson charge was pressed. If she is found to be insane she will be turned over to Washington authorities, but otherwise the charge will be prosecuted. Mrs. Healy was arrested last Saturday about three blocks from a burning bungalow in Capitol Heights. She was dressed in men's clothing, and Blackwell said she had a kerosene can and derstood that the bungalow has been matches in her possession. It is uninvolved in litigation recently.

Alumni Banquet Is Held by Nurses

About 200 nurses and their guests last night attended the annual alumni dinner of the Eighth District Virginia Graduate Nurses Association, held in Alexandria. Among the guests were Miss Lucy Minnigerode, superintendent of nurses of the Bureau of Public Health, and Dr. Roy Flannigan, State health officer of Virginia.

Miss Lillian Anderson, president of the District association, a graduate of Winchester Memorial Hospital, presided, with Mrs. Mae C. Bowman, president of the Alexandria association, presenting the program.

The nurses were welcomed by Dr. W. Lewis Shafer, health officer of Alexandria, and the principal address was made by the Rev. E. V. Regester, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Episcopal Church South. After reports by member associations, an entertainment program was presented.

Hastings College Gives Pastor Litt. D. Degree

The degree of doctor of literature was conferred yesterday on Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, by Hastings College, of Hastings, Nebr., according to a message received by Dr. Sizoo's friends here.

THE MAD AMERICAN'S ILLUSIONS.
(With Apologies to Lewis Carroll.)

He thought he saw an Optimist
Who didn't have a care;
He looked again and saw it was
A new Taxation Scare;
"At last I realize," he said,
"How sad is life, and bare!"

He thought he saw a Senator
At work upon a plan;
He looked again, and found it was
A poor Befuddled Man;
"I much prefer," he sadly said,
"Tomatoes in a can!"

He thought he saw a Lobbyist
Who sought relief for all;
He looked again and saw it was
A map of Ancient Gaul;
"Throw out the anchor!" he did cry,
"I think we're in a squall!"

He thought he saw a Budget that
Was balanced all around;
He looked again and saw it was
A Liquor Ship aground;
"We'd best be getting home," he said,
"I hear a funny sound."

He thought he saw a Party Boss
Throw politics aside;
He took another look and saw
An Alligator's Hide;
"I guess," he said, "they're taking us
For what they call a ride!

He thought he saw a Financier
Map out a proper course;
He looked again and found it was
A bowl of Apple Sauce;
"The more I look around," he cried,
The greater my remorse!"

He thought he saw a Business Man
Who didn't squawk or weep;
He looked again and saw it was
A picture in his sleep;
"I never knew the world," he said,
"Was quite so full of sheep!"

He thought he saw a Tradesman who
Was making no complaint;
He looked again and realized
The sight was very quaint;
"Let's go," he said, "for in these days
A man like that just aint!"

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

THE recent sharp decline in stock market turnover is a most wholesome development. It signalizes, for a time at least, the complete rout of speculative short selling.

The warning of the New York Stock Exchange to its members last week, suggesting prohibitive margins on short accounts, represented the capitulation of the exchange to the strong public demand for an effective check on bear raiding. Now the theoretical discussion as to the merits and demerits of short selling may go on indefinitely.

The stock exchange, of course, has not abandoned its ground in thus driving bear raiders out of the market. In suggesting the heavy margins on short accounts the business conduct committee acted, not on the principle that short sales constitute a questionable practice from the standpoint of sound economy, but merely on the conviction that no reputable institution in the United States can afford completely to ignore the public interest in times of extraordinary stress.

Under the pressure of an indignant public opinion the managers of the New York Stock Exchange have acted with commendable grace. Many believe they should have taken this step six months ago.

Economics Helping Budgets.

ENCOURAGING progress toward reestablishment of normal trade relationships between debtor and creditor countries during 1931 is reported in a world survey of last year's international trade published recently by the Stock Exchange house of Dominick & Dominick. Many debtor countries increased their favorable trade balances or changed an unfavorable balance to a favorable one, thus placing them in a better position to pay interest and amortization charges on their external debts.

"At the same time," the review points out, "the trade of the creditor nations, with the exception of that of the United States, continued to be characterized by an excess of imports over exports, indicating that they were accepting at least part of the debt charges owing them in the form of goods. While the United States had a favorable balance, it was less than half as large as in the preceding year, amounting to $334,000,000 as compared with $782,000,000 in 1930.

"Imports of the debtor countries in 1931 were 35.2 per cent smaller than in the preceding year, while the creditor countries reduced their imports only 21.8 per cent. The value of goods shipped abroad by the debtor countries declined only 22.8 per cent from the level of the preceding year, whereas exports of the creditor nations declined 31 per cent.

"The most important consequence of these changes was that the debtor countries had an aggregate favorable trade balance of $1,010,000,000 in 1931 as compared with an unfavorable balance of $79,000,000 in 1930. If the indicated trends continue, debtor countries should soon find it much easier to meet external debt charges."

UTILITY COMPANIES INCREASING ASSETS

North American, During the Year, Piles Up $17,901,802; Investments Grow.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The latest consolidated balance sheet of the North American Co. and its subsidiary companies, including Washington Railway & Electric and Potomac Electric Power companies, shows that during the twelve months ended March 31, 1932, net increase in property and plant account amounted to $17,901,802 and investments in stocks and bonds of other companies increased by $6,775,328.

Against these increases there was a decline of $751,303 in the preferred stock of subsidiaries outstanding in the hands of the public and a decrease of $14,461,297 in funded debt of subsidiaries. The aggregate net funded debt of subsidiaries, as shown by the statement, represent only 42.52 per cent of property and plant account.

During the twelve month's period common stock, reserves and surplus, including the reserve for contingencies of $12,000,000 created out of undivided profits at December 31, 1931, increased by $22,102,457.

Amount to Reserve.

The amount carried to reserve for depreciation during the twelve-month period was largely offset by the writing off of property retired from service which does not affect the cash position. Since March 31, 1932, the amount of bank loans, which appears in the balance sheet at $13,022,243, has been reduced by $4,000,000.

Commenting on local activity of the company, President Edwin Gruhl in his report states: "Potomac Electric Power Co. is cooperating with building contractors and electrical dealers in another plan which is expected to add to the company's residential electric load in Washington, D. C., and vicinity.

"The plan, which has resulted already in some substantial installations, calls for the placing in new houses and apartments of complete electrical kitchen equipment, including electric range, refrigerator, dish washer, water heater, clock and ventilating fan."

Peters Joins U. S. Chamber.

Word was received here yesterday that Justin Peters, president of the Pennsylvania Lumbermen's Mutual Fire Insurance Co., and director of the National Underwriters Mutual Insurance Co., has been elected a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at its twentieth annual meeting held in San Francisco.

Mr. Peters is one of the outstanding figures in the insurance field. He will represent the insurance group on the chamber's board of directors. Mr. Peters' insurance companies maintain offices in Washington, of which his son, Albert R. Peters, is the manager.

Railroad Freights Average 62 Per Cent of Normal Run

Business of 1923 to 1925 Used as Base for Computation; Total Loadings From January 1 to May 14 Drop to 10,620,104 Cars.

The movement of freight on American railroads thus far in 1932 has averaged approximately 62 per cent of normal, according to compilations of the American Railway Association. The normal base used in this computation is the 1923-25 average of the Federal Reserve Board.

Total loading on reposting carriers for the period January 1 to May 14, inclusive, were 10,620,104 cars this year, against 13,894,918 in the corresponding period of 1931, and 16,916,168 in 1930.

Although the 1930 loadings were off sharply from the corresponding period of 1929, the monthly figures for the first half of 1930 still registered very close to the "normal" index of the period 1923-25.

Taking the 1930 figures, therefore, as the normal volume of traffic, this year's loadings to date stand at 62.3 per cent of normal.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on May 14 totaled 517,667 cars, a decrease of 16,010 cars under the preceding week, 229,390 cars below the corresponding week in 1931, and 411,092 cars under the same period two years ago.

Ore loadings were the only category to show an increase last week over the previous week. For the period ended May 14, the ore cars loaded numbered 2,593, an increase of 400 over the week before, but 9,282 under the corresponding week in 1931, and 53,513 under the same week in 1930.

All districts reported reductions in the total loading of all commodities, as compared with the same weeks in 1931 and 1930.

Taking a shorter period in April and May this year, the current rate of carloadings on Class 1 railroads is only a fraction over 50 per cent of the long-time normal. From the first part of 1925 through 1929, loadings averaged roughly a million cars a week the year around. The following are the weekly average loadings for the various years in that period.

1926	1,021,131 cars
1927	992,996 cars
1928	992,113 cars
1929	1,015,188 cars

The current tabulations of the American Railway Association for the first twenty weeks of 1932 follow:

Table of Freight Car Loadings.

	1932	1931	1930
Four weeks in January	2,269,875	2,873,211	3,470,797

Kreuger Director Put Under Arrest

Seized in Stockholm After Parent Company Files Bankruptcy Plea.

Stockholm, May 24 (A.P.).—Erik Sjoestroehm, a director of Kreuger & Toll, was arrested today after the parent company of the vast Kreuger interests declared itself bankrupt.

Nils Ahlstroehm, managing director of the company, although he was not arrested, was requested to remain at the disposal of the police.

Sjoestroehm was a close collaborator of the late Ivar Kreuger, whose suicide in Paris on March 12 was followed by disclosures of a virtually hopeless tangle in his world-wide financial operations. Kreuger & Toll filed a petition today under a law especially passed to safeguard the interests of its creditors.

Bankruptcy for Kreuger & Toll was recommended last week by the Swedish investigating committee appointed to look into the affairs of Mr. Kreuger after his suicide in Paris, March 12.

Selling of Stocks Held Abroad Small

U. S. Securities Liquidated From Europe Follow Gold Outflow.

New York, May 24.—Financial observers are of the opinion that the net liquidation of American securities owned abroad has been of negligible proportions so far this year.

This conclusion is based on a study of the weekly report on foreign balances reported by member banks to the Federal Reserve system. The decline of these balances has proceeded at approximately the same rate as the outflow of gold, indicating that there has not been any general net conversion of American securities owned by foreigners into cash.

MONEY MARKETS

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

New York, May 24 (A.P.).—The dollar took a turn for the better in foreign exchange trading today.

Dutch guilders sagged 5 points, putting them under the gold point, while Belgas and Swiss francs eased more moderately.

French francs closed unchanged.

Weakness in reichmarks, which lost 5 points, was associated with uneasiness over Germany's export trade, for it is in this that the reich depends for her margins to cover payments on foreign debts.

WHEAT PRICE LOWER ON REPORTS OF RAIN

Market Sags Two Cents as Selling Pressure Grows; Other Grains Lose.

Chicago, May 24 (A.P.).—Rains Southwest and West tumbled wheat 2 cents a bushel today, despite assertions the moisture came too late to be of material benefit.

Selling pressure on wheat was augmented by the fact that the market appeared to be at least temporarily in an overbought condition after more than 6 cents advance from last week's low. Numerous eleventh-hour bulls let go of their holdings, and not a few stop loss selling orders were forced into execution by the downward swing of the market.

Wheat closed unstable at only a fractional recovery from the day's bottom figures, 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents under yesterday's finish, corn ¼ to 1⅛ cents down, oats ⅜ to ¾ of a cent off, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents lower.

Adding to handicaps of wheat bulls were forecasts of unsettled weather tonight promising more moisture over Kansas and Nebraska as well as east into Indiana. Signs pointed also to cooler temperatures ahead, another condition favorable to crop welfare. Furthermore, disappointment was apparent that new export business in North America lacked volume, the total being estimated at only about 800,000 bushels, most of it Canadian.

A general disposition was manifested to await developments following the fresh rainfalls, as the severity of crop damage would be thus given a new test to indicate whether or not plant injury had been irreparable.

Meanwhile, houses with connections Southwest were conspicuous sellers, and little heed was taken of a decrease of 6,286,000 bushels for the week in world's available supplies, reducing the total stock to 403,994,000 bushels, against 417,069,000 a year ago.

Foreign reports indicated better prospects for the wheat crop of Western Europe, but Roumanian, Hungarian and Polish prospects were described as poor.

Likelihood of an after-planting movement of corn left that grain without much support in the absence of wheat strength. Planting operations have been completed in most parts of the corn belt.

Oats sold off with other grains.

U. S. Will Dismiss Lea Indictments

Publisher and J.B. Ramsey Facing Other Charges; Caldwell Clear.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 24 (A.P.).—W. J. Carter, United States district attorney, announced today he would dismiss Federal indictments against Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher; Rogers Caldwell, Nashville financier, and J. B. Ramsey, former Knoxville banker, charging violation of the national banking laws.

His announcement followed the receipt of a telegram from Nugent Dodds, Assistant United States Attorney General, authorizing Mr. Carter to nolle prosse the case. They were indicted by a Federal grand jury at Greenville, Tenn., in March, 1931, five months after the failure of the Holston Union National Bank here. Ramsey was president of the bank and Lea and Caldwell were stockholders.

Col. Lea and Ramsey still face Federal indictments at Knoxville, charging Ramsey with misapplication of funds and false entry and Lea with aiding and abetting the former bank president in the misapplication of funds.

Church Will Act On Crime Crusade

Stronger Temperance Unit Also to Be Considered by Presbyterians.

Denver, May 24 (A.P.).—The General Assembly of Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, which convenes here Thursday, has been asked to summon the church to a united and more vigorous campaign against crime and to strengthen its temperance agency. The presbytery of Utica, N. Y., is sponsor for an overture which would press the crusade.

Other overtures propose abolition or reorganization of the church's governing body, the General Council, which is composed of 24 members. Withdrawal of the church from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America is urged in another overture.

A joint committee has reported in favor of postponing for another year any action on union of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. and the United Presbyterian Church of North America. Several overtures also propose delay, and some attack the plan of union.

Bankruptcy Action Filed Against Outlook Concern

New York, May 24 (A.P.).—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal court today against the Outlook Co., magazine and book publishers.

No schedules or estimates of assets and liabilities were filed with the petition. It was set forth that the defendant is bankrupt and that the appointment of a receiver is necessary to protect the interests of creditors.

The three petitioning creditors listed claims totaling about $10,000.

Steel Gains and Losses In Industry Balancing

New York, May 24 (A.P.).—Gains and losses in various lines of steel activity have practically balanced, giving the industry as a whole an ingot producing rate about one point over the April average of 21½ per cent, says the American Metal Market.

The American Can Co. is reported to have increased production at its New Castle, Pa., plant to meet heavier demands for milk containers during the late May and June.

Western Pennsylvania Tin Mills of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. are expected to benefit through the greater requirements for tin plate.

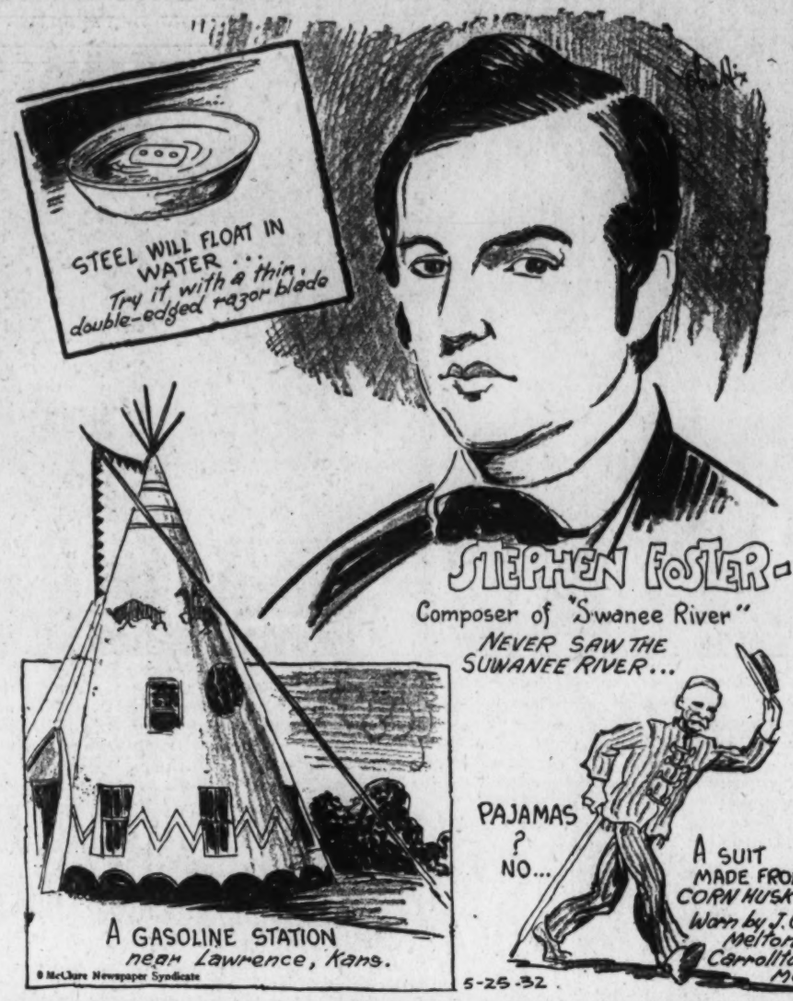
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



STEPHEN FOSTER, American composer, whose famous song made the then unknown Suwanee River, Florida, famous throughout the world, picked the name from an atlas. The song was first written about the Pedee River, but a more euphonious name was necessary, so, referring to an atlas, Foster decided upon Suwanee.

The song is widely known as "The Old Folks at Home," but some authorities hold that "Swanee River" was the original and correct title of the piece.

It is the most popular by far of Foster's nearly 200 compositions, for most of which he wrote both the music and words. It has been translated into practically every language and is sung throughout the world. Although it gained widespread popularity shortly after it was written, and in five years after publication 400,000 copies were sold, Foster is believed to have received but $500 for his rights to "Swanee River."

Strange as it seems, the most famous writer of Southern songs was not a Southerner. Foster was born in Pittsburgh, Pa. At 20, after attending Jefferson College, he worked as a bookkeeper in Cincinnati. He took up his residence in New York at 34, and was killed in an accident four years later. He wrote "Swanee River" while living in Kentucky.

MAPES BILL HEARING STARTS NEXT WEEK, CAPPER ANNOUNCES

Senator to Proceed, Despite Remote Possibility of Action at Session.

21 EFFICIENCY BUREAU ALTERATIONS REPORTED

Evidence on Other Proposals for City Will Follow That on Taxation.

Eleventh-hour hearings on the Mapes income tax bill, reported yesterday with 21 Bureau of Efficiency alterations, will be held next week by the Senate District committee, Chairman Arthur Capper announced last night.

With a jam of unprecedented proportions facing the Senate, passage this session of either the income measure or the Mapes estate, automobile weight and gasoline levies seemed a very remote possibility.

Senator Capper determined, nevertheless, to go ahead with hearings. The income measure will be considered "on its own merits," he said last night. Later, if there is time, the committee will take up the Capper bill for increasing utilities taxation and the Mapes measure for abolishing the old 60-40 Federal-District fiscal relationship.

Modified Mapes Rates.

The revised income tax bill, favorably reported yesterday by Director Herbert D. Brown, of the Bureau of Efficiency, modified the Mapes rates to range from 1 per cent on the first $10,000 of net income to 4 per cent on net incomes over $50,000. The original Mapes bill started with 1 per cent on the first $2,000 and ran up shortly to 5 per cent on over $50,000.

As modified by the Bureau of Efficiency, the income tax scale would yield precisely the amount of returns expected from the present intangibles tax it replaces. Assessors' records indicate revenues on intangibles this year will reach $2,547,000, but next year would drop from $350,000 to $400,000 because of economic conditions.

"Attention is invited to the fact that the net result in either case would reflect a decline in revenues which might conservatively be placed at $400,000," Director Brown wrote Senator Capper.

Exemption Change Suggested.

"The bureau believes that this deficiency be made up by increased taxes on certain corporations that are now subject to the gross earnings or gross receipts taxes, but would be exempted under the income tax law."

An important change in exemption provisions was recommended, which would place single persons at the head of a family on the same exemption basis as married persons, $2,500. Exemptions for other single persons would continue $1,000, as in the original Mapes bill.

The much controverted question of double tax... on for nonresidents under the Mapes plan is settled in the revised report by providing for reciprocity between the District and the States, where both taxed the same income.

Congress Salaries Question.

It was a moot question under the Mapes income bill whether members of Congress were subject to the tax imposed on salaries earned in the District by nonresidents.

"As the bill now stands, the language in this section might require judicial interpretation," the bureau's report stated.

Director Brown did not try to decide the question, but passed it on to the Senate District committee in the form of two alternative proposed sections, the one exempting members, and the other making their incomes subject to tax.

The bureau estimated that revenues from the income tax as revised by its experts would reach only $2,019,000 next year, compared with $2,547,042 received this year from intangibles.

Taking the Mapes program as a unit, the bureau estimated that additional revenues under the bills, exclusive of the income tax, would reach $4,734,000, compared with $2,741,000 under the revised Bureau of Efficiency program.

Nearly Two Million Apart.

"From the foregoing it will be noted that there is a difference of $1,993,000 in the two plans," said Director Brown. "Whatever plan be adopted, these measures contemplate a substantial increase in taxes in the District of Columbia, and their consideration requires care to see that the burden is distributed equitably among the several classes.

Section 22 of the Mapes income-tax bill would exempt public corporations paying a 4 per cent gross receipts tax from paying an additional income levy. This issue the bureau reserved for discussion in a separate report, but it commented yesterday:

"The inclusion of public utilities under the proposed income-tax law would increase the taxable corporation income in the District about $12,000,000, which, at the rates prescribed in the bill, would produce added revenues of $590,000."

Included in the 21 changes made in the Mapes income measure by bureau experts were provisions permitting deductions for interest paid on mortgage indebtedness on homes, more liberal allowances for estimated losses on bad debts, 20 per cent penalty for delinquent payments, a provision excluding business as well as private life insurance from gross income, a three-year statute of limitations.

60 MEN STILL HELD IN POLICE ROUND-UP

Prisoners Freed Only When U. S. Bureau Says They Are Not "Wanted."

Approximately 60 men arrested in a recent crime roundup are still in police hands awaiting word from the Department of Justice's National Bureau of Identification as to whether any of them are wanted in other cities.

Fingerprint, handwriting specimens, and other identification factors are being taken and sent on to the Federal agency. As soon as word is received that a man is not wanted he is released. Of the original 92 men taken in the roundup, about 30 have been released.

The handwriting specimens are being taken in connection with the Lindbergh case. Circulars bearing photostatic reproductions of the notes found at the Lindbergh home and received by "Jafsie" have been received here and are compared with the handwriting of the men held.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, issued instructions to the force yesterday for strict attention to cancellations of "look out for and arrest" messages broadcast from time to time. He has also initiated an investigation of the arrest several times of a man who was sought once in the "sniper" quest.

The man in question, William L. Crowe, has filed a complaint through his attorney that because of "negligence or carelessness on the part of police officials," he had been kept from pursuing his lawful occupations.

Crowe claimed he had been arrested and held several times for short periods since a lookout was broadcast for him in early April. This lookout was voided, he said, after the first arrest had proved his innocence, but despite this policemen continued to take him into custody for investigation.

Three Dogs Bite Youth 30 Times

Son of Air Line Official Is Saved From Further Injury by Cabman.

Three dogs yesterday attacked and severely injured Donald Brattain, 12 years old, son of Paul H. Brattain, vice president of the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, as he was delivering newspapers in the 1800 block of Plymouth street northwest. He was bitten in more than 30 places on his arms, legs and shoulders.

The boy, who lives at 7500 Fourteenth street northwest, was saved from even more serious injury by a taxicab driver who did not give his name. The driver kicked the dogs away from the prostrate boy and then took him to Walter Reed Hospital where his wounds were cauterized. The youth was later taken home and placed under care of a private physician.

Donald knew two of the dogs and had played with them before, members of his family said last night. But yesterday they were teamed up with a large airedale. The big dog jumped on him and threw him to the ground and all three started a vicious attack on him. The health department has the dogs under observation.

Men in "Bums Roosts" Ordered to Leave City

Police raids on two "bums roosts" Monday night resulted in 60 men, most of them colored, being arraigned in police court yesterday on charges of vagrancy. Most of the men pleaded that they had been unable to find work and all of them were allowed to go providing they leave the city.

Fingerprints Trap Men Admitting Store Theft

Four men, charged with breaking into a chain grocery store at 1209 Thirteenth street northwest, where goods valued at $25 was reported missing, yesterday were held under $10,000 bonds each at a preliminary hearing in Police Court.

They are James R. Sheehan and Charles C. Murray, who denied their guilt, and Robert P. Davis and Clifford F. Ward, who entered pleas of guilty. Despite their pleas they will have to be indicted before they can be sentenced in the District Supreme Court. Fingerprints found in the store led to the arrests by Policeman C. L. Smith end Detectives J. J. Tolson and J. F. Boxwell.

Drivers Kept From Arrest At City Line

Motorists might fall in the hands of the law for passing standing street cars on Rhode Island avenue northeast at the District line, but they won't appear in District Police Court, Capt. J. W. Pierson of the Fifth Precinct yesterday issued orders that his men were to make no more arrests there.

Fifth Precinct police did a rushing business at the spot for a few days and more than 20 persons were brought into Police Court. One of the defendants protested that the car stop was across the District line in Maryland and an investigation was ordered.

A subsequent survey by District engineers proved that the car stop was 4 feet across the boundary. Capt. Pierson was informed of this fact and ordered his men to stop making the arrests.

SPURNED BY WOMAN, MAN WOUNDS SELF

Did Not Know That Gun Was Loaded, He Declares; Is Near Death.

Raymond Green, 26, of 948 L street northwest, was in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital last night with a self-inflicted .22-caliber pistol wound in his lower left breast. Police said he fired the shot at the home of Mrs. Cecilia Fant at 1107 Penn street northeast, after she had spurned a proposal to run away with him.

According to detectives, Green has been calling on Mrs. Fant for some time. Several times he has been forcibly ejected from the home by George R. Fant, husband of Mrs. Fant. Yesterday he called again and Mrs. Fant admitted him when he said he wanted to talk to her.

Mrs. Fant said she emphatically told Green she would not go away with him and at this juncture, she told police, he said, "I am going to shoot myself, then."

Green then produced the pistol and fired one shot. He was taken to Casualty Hospital by police, who were summoned by Mrs. Fant.

Interviewed by detectives at the hospital, Green denied saying he was going to shoot himself and said the whole thing was a "bluff." He said he did not know the gun was loaded.

Court Plea Lost By Bill-Snatcher

Man Convicted of Entering Franklin National and Taking $100.

Despite an alibi defense, Edward Thornton, colored, yesterday was convicted of having stolen a $100 bill from the paying teller of the Franklin National Bank last February on threat of having the bank building blown up with a charge of nitroglycerin.

Thornton went into the bank at noon on February 26, shoved a crudely written note through the teller's cage to William H. Sinclair and then ran away with a $100 bill, which he snatched from Sinclair, it was charged.

The note insisted that unless the teller hand over all the money in the cage, Thornton would blow up the bank with a phial of nitroglycerin that he exhibited. While the teller stalled, Thornton reached through the cage and snatched the bill. He was arrested several days later, and the Government, through Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica, proved by three witnesses that he was the one who took the money.

Outing Boat Officer Weds Moonlight Ride Companion

Moonlight rides on the Charles Macalester, local river steamer, fostered a romance between Capt. John F. Bailey, 68-year-old officer of the boat, and Mrs. Anna M. Scheerer, 65, of Baltimore, who in the last eight years has often accompanied the veteran ship officer on excursion trips.

The couple were married yesterday by the Rev. John E. Briggs at the Fifth Baptist Church, and will take a honeymoon trip after the local river season is over. Neither having ever traveled on ocean liner, although Capt. Bailey has sailed inland waters for the last 32 yeras, they contemplate an ocean voyage.

The nuptials were planned for April 12, but as Mrs. Scheerer was ill the ceremony was delayed. Each has been married before and Capt. Bailey has five married daughters and one son.

Capt. and Mrs. Bailey will make their home at 324 South Carolina avenue southeast, and the moonlight rides will continue.

BOY'S DEATH SECOND AFTER AUTO CRASH

Disputed Jurisdiction Delays Action as North Carolina Youth, 15, Expires.

Carl Martin, 15, of North Carolina, who was visiting friends in Hyattsville, Md., died yesterday at Georgetown Hospital from injuries received when an automobile operated by Mrs. May F. Cheek, of 3535 T street northwest, crashed into a lumber truck on Military road near Rosslyn, Va., Monday.

Eugene Edward Cheek, 11-month-old child, who was sitting on Martin's lap at the time of the crash, was instantly killed.

Because of disputed jurisdiction, officials of Arlington County, Fort Myer and the District refused to take any action on the accident yesterday.

The crash occurred on Military road, which is administered by the War Department through Fort Myer. The fort authorities disclaimed jurisdiction since all the persons involved in the accident were civilians.

Coroner B. H. Swain, of Arlington County, refused to act in the case, claiming that the law allows him no fees for investigations of deaths on the Federal property. He said, "It is up to the military authorities to act in cases occurring on property under their jurisdiction."

Dr. C. J. Murphy, deputy coroner of the District, said that he had no power with respect to action that might be taken. However, he issued a death certificate, so that the baby's body might be prepared for burial.

Bicentennial Luncheon Given at Home for Aged

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hebrew Home for the Aged held a Bicentennial Spring luncheon at the home, 1125 Spring road northwest, yesterday. The opening prayer of the gathering was offered by Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith.

Mrs. Jack Vax, president of the auxiliary, welcomed the members and praised the cooperation which has attended their efforts in the past year. A program was presented by Mrs. Herman Hertzberg, Mrs. Yvonne Kushner and Signor Giuseppe Bruno, who was aided by Signor Romeo E. Guaraldi. Mrs. Elias Gelman, Mrs. William Levy, and Mrs. Morris Stein took part in the program.

SENATORS TO STUDY PATRICK'S RENAMING AS P. U. C. CHAIRMAN

BUT TAXIMETER MOVE HAS BEEN HIT IN HOUSE

Buzzards Point Bills Will Be Considered Also by Committee Today.

Reappointment of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission will be reviewed at a meeting of the Senate District committee at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Little opposition to the Presidential renomination has been heard on the Senate side of the Capitol, but House members have come in sharp conflict with Gen. Patrick for his order requiring taxicabs now operating under the zone plan to install meters.

Members of the House District appropriations subcommittee went so far as to cut off the 1933 salary of the Public Utilities Commission chairman in their tentative report on the District supply bill.

Stricken by Committee.

This provision was stricken by the full appropriations committee. In its place an amendment was offered refusing the commission funds to publish its order abolishing the zone taxi system. The amendment was adopted by the House.

Last week Gen. Patrick went before the Senate District appropriations subcommittee and defended his meter order. He asked the Senate to strike the House provision entirely, or write a new section removing taxicabs from the commission's regulation.

Gen. Patrick has been roundly criticized on the floor of the House by Representative Thomas L. Blanton for "defying" a House resolution opposing the change to meters. The order, sustained by the District Supreme Court, is now tied up in the Court of Appeals.

Buzzards Point Bills.

Two bills for the industrial development of the Buzzards Point area of Washington, permitting extension of a railroad spur from the navy yard into the territory and closing certain streets at the site of the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s new plant, will be called up at the meeting.

Both bills have been favorably reported by the House District committee. Left over on the House calendar with 22 other District measures following the last "District day," they may be considered by the House at a special night session on District bills planned by House Democratic Floor Leader Henry T. Rainey.

Foster Home Boys To Be Entertained

Will Be Banquet Guests of Hebrew Brotherhood at Mayflower.

Boys of the Foster Home will be treated to a program of boxing, stage shows and talks from persons famous in the world of sport at the annual father and sons banquet sponsored by the Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, to be held tomorrow night at the Mayflower Hotel and directed by S. Sherry Stein, president of the brotherhood.

In addition to receiving free grand stand tickets for a future ball game in the Griffith Stadium the boys will be presented to Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Walter Johnson, Clark Griffith, Moe Berg and Joe Berg.

Rotary to Hold Annual Dinner and Election

Officers of the Washington Rotary Club will be elected at the annual dinner of the club tonight at the Willard Hotel.

ONCE MILLIONAIRE, HOBBS BANKRUPT

Former Associate of Harry Wardman Declares He Is Without Assets.

Once a millionaire, James D. Hobbs, for many years one of the city's leading real estate operators as a member of the firm of Harry Wardman, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a petition in voluntary bankruptcy.

The paper, filed through Attorney James J. Slattery, said a schedule of assets and liabilities would be filed within ten days.

Mr. Hobbs did not disclose the financial conditions that caused him to act, but in a statement made yesterday he estimated his liabilities as "several million dollars." He said he had no assets.

He said that the liabilities included indebtedness on several Wardman properties to which he had obligated himself as an accommodation to the concerns.

For many years Hobbs was an associate of Harry Wardman and was an official of the Wardman Construction Co.

He was once regarded as one of the leading financiers in the local real estate field. In 1928 he took part in arrangements for the floating of the $11,000,000 bond issue covering eleven of the Wardman properties.

Bill to Close Alleys To Come Up Today

House District Committee to Consider Measure at Session.

A bill authorizing the District Commissioners to close streets and alleys, after first submitting intentions to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will be called up at a meeting of the House District committee at 10:30 this morning.

A measure authorizing the widening of upper Thirteenth street northwest, also awaits the action of the committee, which still holds hopes of a special District night session of the House to clear the local legislative calendar.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, expects to offer a resolution calling on the House rules committee to favorably report the Norton bill providing a joint congressional commission for settling the local franchise issue.

Capital Theft Suspect Held in $10,000 Bond

A 17-year-old colored boy yesterday was held for the action of the grand jury under $10,000 bond when he was arraigned in Police Court on a charge of robbery. He is Lloyd Wilson, of Thirty-third street and Volta place northwest.

Numerous other charges in connection with Wilson's operations are being investigated, police said.

Dental Society Holds Session.

SOUTHEAST CITIZENS GIVE DAVISON HONOR

Civic Distinction Certificate Presented for Providing Incinerator.

Gratitude of citizens of the Southeast section for work on behalf of their community contributed by Acting Engineer Commisioner D. A. Davision was expressed last night in the presentation of a certificate of civic distinction to the official by the Southeast Citizens Association.

Maj. Davison's chief contribution to the section was cited as the incinerator now being built at First and O streets southeast. In acknowledging the certificate, Maj. Davison declared that selection of the proper site for the incinerator was made possible through the advice of a committee of citizens of the community.

The certificate was presented by J. C. L. Ritter, a member of the association. Dr. Alan Davis, principal of Business High School, also paid tribute to the Engineer Commisioner in an address on civic patriotism. John B. McGinley told of the aims and objects of the association, and songs were rendered by the Southeast Glee Club. Inspector Albert J. Headley also spoke.

The following new members were announced: Cecil B. Hamilton, Wilfred C. Page, Aubrey B. Lee, J. D. Hardy, C. C. Roehrle and A. Mettengel. It was decided to give all unemployed members an opportunity to solicit new members in a membership drive now in progress. The solicitors will receive a commission for the work.

Fall in Elevator Basis Of Suit for $25,000

Anna B. Sisson, of the Clyde Apartments, 1124 Tenth street northwest, yesterday brought suit for $25,000 damages against Jessie M. Lewis, who was listed as the owner of the apartment, because of injuries received by the complainant when she tripped and fell into an automatic elevator May 14, 1931.

Through Attorneys Simon Fleishman and William B. Wolf, the woman charges that the elevator did not stop even with the floor when she attempted to enter it. She stepped and was thrown to the floor of the car. She received permanent serious injuries, she said.

Boxer Is Arrested On Traffic Counts

Policeman Says He Found Liquor in Auto of Frank D'Angelo.

Frank A. D'Angelo, 23 years old, Washington featherweight boxer, faces half a dozen charges after his arrest yesterday by Private J. L. Magnus, of the Tenth Precinct, who held a warrant for him on some traffic charges. Private Magnus said that when he found the boxer on Sixteenth street, between Park road and Monroe street northwest, and served the warrant, he found two pints of liquor in his car.

The policeman said he had placed three tickets on D'Aneglo's car at various times, and the man failed to answer them. The tickets all charged disobeying official sign. Magnus obtained a warrant and yesterday saw his man driving along.

D'Angelo was released under $550 bond on three charges of disobeying official sign, illegal possession of liquor and failing to change address on permit and registration card.

RELIGION IN TERMS OF YOUTH IS ADVISED BY EDITOR-PASTOR

Baptist Session Told Young Should Be Taught by Words of Campus.

CHURCH IS HELD LOSING MANY BY OLD METHODS

Annual Columbia Association Sessions Will Continue Through Today.

Asserting that the churches did not discuss religion in the everyday language of modern youth, the Rev. Allyn K. Foster, editor, author and preacher, who is the brother of Percy Foster, well known in local church circles, said at the fifty-fifth annual meeting of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches yesterday that the church has already lost many thousands of boys and girls because they do not hear the same language from the pulpits that they do in the schoolrooms.

"You will have to get rid of your suspicion of the new language and be able to express the word of God in the language of the college campus," he told the association. Unless our churches risk another kind of evangelism they will lose some of their best minds, he said.

Plea for Discussions.

The Rev. Mr. Foster made a plea to pastors of the church "to discuss with the younger generation the ideas of atheism and evolution and to teach them the fallacy of these half truths." College campuses, he said, were a breeding ground for this type of thought and unless they were guided by the saner attitude of the church the generation would lack a proper mental balance.

At the meeting, held in the Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and H streets northwest, the Rev. J. Wesley Loftis, of the Silver Spring, Md., Baptist Church, said that the Bible method of building the Kingdom of God is through personal testimony, and that man has to tell what he knows about religion by the reason of his own experience, which begets conviction and courage.

Other Speakers.

Other speakers yesterday were: The Rev. W. D. Moore, the Rev. C. B. Faucett, the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, of the Clarendon, Va., Baptist Church and the Rev. B. C. Clausen, of the First Baptist Church of Syracuse, N. Y.

The sessions will continue through today and will begin with a women's session at 10 a. m. Officers of the association are: W. W. Everett, moderator; the Rev. Gove G. Johnson, vice moderator; S. G. Nottingham, clerk; George B. Bryan, treasurer.

Texas 'Barbecue King' Wins Applause on Visit to House

John Snider, of Amarillo, Tex., who Saturday prepared the barbecue for the National Press Club at Chesapeake Beach, yesterday was introduced to the House of Representatives and received the applause of that body.

Spying Mr. Snider in the private gallery seat of Speaker Garner, Representative Marvin Jones, Texas, representing the district in which Snider lives, arose and asked unanimous consent to speak for two minutes.

He then introduced Mr. Snider as "the barbecue king." Members, many of whom had attended the barbecue, evidently agreed with him. They broke out in applause, many of them rising. Mr. Snider arose in the gallery and bowed an acknowledgment.

Later the plainsmen went to the Egyptian Embassy to visit Minister Sesoatris Sidarouss Pasha, who had attended the barbecue. The minister was much interested in Mr. Snider's method of barbecuing, and the latter was much interested in the minister's fine collection of china.

Mr. Snider and his entourage will leave for Texas today.
